SCHOOL BOARD GROUP KEEPS UP SECRET STUDY OF KEARNEY REPORT

Continues Closed Meetings—Expects Better Job 'Without Someone Looking Over Shoulders.'

A special committee of the Board of Education established to review the controversial Kearney report will continue to hold closed meetings because its members feel they can do a better job "without someone looking over our shoulders," H. Lee Bruns, committee chairman, said today.

Bruns said he felt the committee's work would be hampered by publicity about the meetings because, he said, the newspapers have already taken a favorable position on the Kearney report and editorial comment on committee action would be "slanted."

After the current series of committee "work sessions" has been completed, a public meeting will be held to review the committee's progress, he said.

Bruns said the committee met yesterday with executive officers of the board to obtain information about what accounting procedures are followed in executive departments.

What Report Says.

The Kearney report, a survey of non-teaching operations of the school system completed in 1954 by A. T. Kearney & Co., a Chicago business consultant firm, asserted that $1,487,000 a year could be saved through more efficient operations.

Of this amount, the report said, $152,902 could be saved annually through reorganization and modernization of the board's financial and accounting administration.

Accuracy of the Kearney survey was challenged by some board members and executive officers after it was submitted Later it was referred to the special committee for an item-by-item review.

James F. Morrell, now board president, was chairman of the committee until last October, when board committees were reorganzed and Bruns became chairman. Yesterday's meeting was the fourth session of the group under Bruns. All meetings have been held this month.

Accounting Taken Up.

Bruns said accounting was the first major subject taken up by the committee, which will move to other areas later. The committee, he said, is trying to determine what records are now being kept and whether records maintained by one department are duplicated in another.

Mrs. Irma H. Friede, a committee member, said she agreed with Bruns on the question of holding closed meetings. Louis H. Antoine, third member, remarking that he would prefer to conduct all board business "in a gold-fish bowl," said he thought there would be greater efficiency in closed meetings.

He said that results of the group's work would be discussed fully at public meetings later.

Morrell, who held closed committee meetings when he was chairman, has said that the group could do a more efficient job in private. He also said that committee chairmen should be able to decide whether their meetings should be open or not.

Second Convict Freed to Avoid Reprisals at State Penitentiary

Both Were Witnesses Against Fellow Prisoners in Trials Following 1954 Prison Riot.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31 (UP)—A second state convict witness in trials resulting from the September 1954 riot at Missouri Penitentiary was released to avoid reprisals by fellow prisoners, it was learned today.

Herman Trout, admitted to the prison in 1951 to serve 10 years for kidnaping and assault in Butler county, was granted a commutation of sentence by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, Jan. 13. That was the day that James H. Creighton, the state's chief witness against seven other convicts, all of whom were convicted of murder in connection with the riot, was granted a commutation and freed after serving 23 years of a life sentence for a murder at Webb City, Mo. Creighton's release was disclosed yesterday.

Cole County Prosecuting Attorney James Riley confirmed that the men had been released. They had been held in the Cole county jail since December 1954, more than a year.

(Riley told the Associated Press the witnesses for the state could not be returned to the prison to finish their sentences because other convicts might kill them as "squealers." And they could not be kept in Cole county jail any longer, either. Riley said he spoke to the Governor and other state officials in seeking the commutations.)

At the trials, Creighton told how the seven inmates entered death row and attempted to get into his cell. Creighton was confined in death row for security reasons, prison officials said. He had been marked by other convicts for death because he was suspected of giving information to prison authorities.

Creighton testified that he successfully beat off the inmates who then broke open the neighboring cell where Walter Lee Donnell was confined. Donnell's battered body was found after the riot. He had been known inside the prison as an informer or "squealer."

Testifying at the trial of Jackie Lee Noble for conspiracy to murder Donnell, Trout said he saw Noble and the other six convicts go down death row toward Donnell's cell. Afterwards, he said, he heard pounding, yelling and moaning, and later saw the seven convicts wash their hands. He testified Noble and another convict discarded bloody T-shirts.

EEL IS STUFFED WITH DIAMONDS BY SMUGGLERS

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1956.

LONDON, Jan. 31—British customs officials are keeping close watch on Dutch and Scandinavian ships for smuggled cargoes of industrial diamonds.

The latest dodge uncovered is in shipments of live eels.

One large eel arrived dead and was thrown over the side of the ship as the customs men came aboard. The man who picked it up was apprehended. The eel was stuffed with industrial diamonds which bear a high duty in Britain.

CONTROL SEVERED, 'DRONE' AIRCRAFT CRASHES ON FARM

PORTERVILLE, Calif., Jan. 31 (UP)—The Navy said today bad weather conditions were responsible for severing a remote control "drone" aircraft from its control plane in flight and sending it crashing into an orange grove near a farm house.

The pilotless plane plowed a furrow 25 feet long and eight feet deep close to the ranch house of Robert E. Wolfram. Its fragments were scattered over a 100-yard area.

The "major cause" for the missile getting away from its control plane was bad weather encountered in "a routine training mission or a test," the Navy said. The piloted control plane, probably a jet, was guiding the drone's flight from "close wing position" at the time of the crash.

PICKETS' 'YOO-HOO' SIGNS WEREN'T MEANT FOR EDEN

Police Find Delegation Just Wanted to Welcome Returning Vacationists.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — Alert policemen, who already had restricted Zionist pickets to the far side of the street, sprang into action yesterday when four persons carrying placards alighted from a taxicab outside Pier 90, where the Queen Elizabeth had just docked with British Prime Minister Eden.

Investigation disclosed these facts: Leader of the delegation was Mrs. Polly Hubbert of Lansdowne, Pa.; the signs proclaimed "Yoo-hoo, Joie and Shroy" and "Muggsy says Hello"; they were to welcome Mrs. Hubbert's daughter, Joie, and a friend, Nancy Shroyer, returning from a European vacation — and Muggsy was Miss Hubbert's boxer, yearning for her return.

BOSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Lawrence J. Gamble was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday for what a court officer described as a "social error." Gamble was convicted of attempting to pick the pocket of a policeman.

LEGAL OBSTACLE TO RIVERFRONT PLAN REMOVED

Balancing of Budget Allows Fund Request to Be Made by Representative Karsten.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The legal bar to appropriation of funds for development of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial in St. Louis has been removed with balancing of the federal budget, the Bureau of the Budget today informed Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis.

Immediately after this ruling was received, Karsten made a formal request that funds be approapriated for a start on the Mississippi riverfront project in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

When Congress last year authorized a federal contribution not to exceed $5,000,000 for the memorial, it specified that no funds be appropriated until the budget has been balanced. Now that Eisenhower has submitted a balanced budget to Congress, the condition set out in the legislation has been complied with, and funds may be appropriated, the Budget Bureau declared.

Karsten presented his request for funds to a House subcommittee which has been holding a public hearing on the Interior Department appropriation for 1956-57. Before concluding its hearing, the subcommittee gave Karsten unanimous consent to include the Budget Bureau's ruling in its hearing record.

The National Park Service had notified Karsten that it had not planned to request any funds for the St. Louis project at this time because it had not received any notice that the legal bar to such an appropriation had been removed.

Karsten did not specify any amount in his request for an appropriation, but it is evident that only a fraction of the total outlay for the memorial could be utilized in the preliminary planning to be done in one year's time.

Bills calling for a $5,000,000 appropriation were introduced on Jan. 26 by Representatives Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves and Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem.), St. Louis. Karsten followed by introducing a similar bill in his own name.

Curtis and Mrs. Sullivan are expected to join Karsten in the request for an appropriation. The House appropriations subcommittee will not make its recommendation for perhaps two months.

January Winds Up as Coldest In Eight Years and Driest in 12

January ends today as the coldest in eight years and the first since 1951 with an average temperature below normal. This month also was the driest January in 12 years, but it had the most snow for the month since 1940.

The mercury in January averaged 30.2 degrees, 3.1 below normal and the lowest since the 26.6 average in 1948. The month's high and low temperatures were 63 on the fifth day and 8 on the sixteenth. Maximums, however, were below freezing on 11 days and minimums were 32 degrees or lower on all but six days, Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren reported.

St. Louisans who dug out of Sunday night's six inches of snow were well aware this month's fall was extraordinary. The nine inch total is the most since 10.6 inches fell in January 16 years ago. Record January snowfall is 14.3 inches in 1904. Normal for the season is 17.3 inches.

The record drouth here was snapped Jan. 18, after 46 days without measurable precipitation. January's rainfall totaled only .73 of an inch, which was 1.59 below normal, and made the month the driest since 1944 when .3 fell. It also was the second driest in 25 years.

What will February bring? "A little bit of everything," Wahlgren said. To illustrate his prediction, he pointed out that St. Louis had temperatures of 84 on Feb. 1, 1911, and 18 below zero Feb. 13, 1905, the same day Warsaw set the record low in Missouri with 40 degrees below.

Wahlgren was more specific about tomorrow's forecast. Moderately cold weather will continue with occasional snow, he said.

HENNINGS SAYS GAS BILL WOULD ALSO PROTECT OIL MONOPOLIES

Calls for Petroleum Inquiry to Determine if Anti-Trust Laws Are Serving People Adequately.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. today assailed the Fulbright bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal price control as a measure to protect monopoly pricing of oil, as well as gas, and to prevent public disclosure of the use of great concentrated wealth to influence the nation's political decisions.

The Missouri Democrat urged in a Senate speech that Congress investigate the country's giant oil companies to see whether the anti-trust laws and the corrupt practices act are adequate to protect the people against a "powerful price fixing monopoly working in politics through both major parties."

It has been charged frequently in the gas bill debate, now in its third week, that major oil companies raised a fund of $1,500,000 for lobbying and propaganda in behalf of the Fulbright measure

Hennings described the bill as "a proposal to transfer from $600,000,000 to $800,000,000 a year from the pockets of many millions of captive consumers, tied down and helpless to resist except through Congress, to the coffers of principally 35 gigantic oil companies, and incidentally to perhaps 150 more, with a few pennies left over for small producers."

Backs Amendment.

While opposing the act as written, Hennings said he would support an amendment sponsored by Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, which would exempt from federal price regulation all but the few major companies which provide 90 per cent of the natural gas which flows into interstate commerce.

He urged Senators from oil producing states, principal backers of the bill, to support the Douglas amendment in the interest of their constituents.

Natural gas is merely a by-product for the oil companies, which are primarily interested in the sale of oil, Hennings said. As a cheap substitute for oil, he continued, it has had an enormous appeal to the consuming public, which has invested about 14 billion dollars in appliances for its use.

"More than 21,000,000 households are going to be affected by this measure," he said; "and these households add up to some 90,000,000 men, women and children. One and one-half million small business men, in more than 40 states, will also be affected."

Has Democratic Support.

Noting that the legislation has the backing of leading Democrats in the oil-producing states, as well as Republicans, Hennings said:

"The concentrated money power of the great oil companies wielded today to influences the decisions of the National Government by contributions to both parties in many parts of the United Staes is a menace to the proper functioning of free government within this country."

Hennings said he did not wish to "impugn the sincerity" of Democratic Senators and Representatives who differed with him on the gas bill. He added, however, that he wished to reiterate "my conviction that the power of the federal government to regulate one gigantic industry which has rolled up through many years long records of monopolistic conspiracies against the public welfare is being tested here in the Senate of the United States."

Clements Opposed.

Senator Earle C. Clements, of Kentucky, Senate Democratic whip, announced yesterday that he would vote against the measure. He thus put himself in direct opposition to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, of Texas, Senate majority leader.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, said today he will vote for the Fulbright bill. In response to an inquiry by the Post-Dispatch, Dirksen said:

"There are 125,000 families in Illinois waiting for natural gas. I believe they will have a better chance of getting it if we let the companies go ahead without federal price controls and step up their exploration for new gas supplies."

Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, has led the floor fight against the Fulbright bill. Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, will vote against it.

The Senate agreed unanimously yesterday on a formula to limit debate and thus bring the measure to a vote Monday. Under the agreement, debate will be limited to one hour on each amendment or motion and debate on final passage will be limited to three hours. The debate time will be equally divided between proponents and opponents.

PRESIDENT MUST MAKE DECISION AFTER CHECKUP, DR. WHITE SAYS

'We Will Give Him Information,' Asserts Specialist — Tests to Be Made Between Feb. 10 and 15.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (UP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White, President Eisenhower's heart specialist, said last night the question of the President's running for another term "has to be decided when I see him again" in February.

White, in Philadelphia to address a dinner opening the Southeastern Pennsylvania Heart Association's fund campaign, told a news conference he expected to examine Mr. Eisenhower sometime between Feb. 10 and 15, the exact date to be determined by the White House.

"After that examination we will have two things to face: How he has stood the strain since he went back to work and his own reaction since he, being President, knows the hazards of th efuture," White said.

"We will give him the information. He has to make the decision himself."

The physician was asked if he held the same opinion he expressed last Sept. 30 when he said he would not, if he were the President, risk a campaign. He explained he had not seen Mr. Eisenhower lately then added, "If you could see the job he has to do you would have the same reaction and that is why I made that statement at that time."

The February examination period was mentioned by the President last week at his news conference. He said he had asked his physicians to examine him during that time to enable him to go south for a brief vacation.

Eisenhower to Be Entered in New Jersey Primary.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

TRENTON, N.J., Jan. 31 — President Eisenhower's name will be entered in the New Jersey preferential presidential primary April 17.

Samuel L. Bodine, Republican state chairman, said yesterday the required petitions are now being circulated.

Although Mr. Eisenhower's name will appear on the ballot, Republican candidates for delegates to the party's national convention will run uncommitted. This decision was reached to avoid having to obtain the written consent of the President to the placing of his name on the ballot. The state election law requires such consent when delegates are committed to a candidate.

Eisenhower Won't Affect Senate Races, Goldwater Says.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — Senator Barry M. Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, took issue yesterday with the prevailing opinion that a decision by President Eisenhower to run for re-election would significantly increase Republican chances to take control of the Senate.

Goldwater, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign committee, said the President's own decision "would not be a major contributing factor in the outcome of Senate races."

He said in an interview that the caliber of Republican senatorial candidates themselves, not President Eisenhower's name on the ballot, will make the difference between victory or defeat for Republican nominees next November.

Goldwater said the cards "are heavily stacked against us" and that any other view avoids the facts. Democrats now control the Senate 49 to 47. Sixteen seats now held by the Democrats will be contested, but only eight of those are in border or northern states. Seventeen Republicans go on the election block in November. In at least eight of these there will be strong opposition.

FARM PRICES UP 1 PCT. FROM DEC. 15 TO JAN. 15

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP) — Prices farmers receive for crops and livestock rose 1 per cent for the month ended Jan. 15, the Agriculture Department reported today. The rise still left farm prices 7 per cent below those of a year earlier.

The department said the cost of production and living supplies purchased by farmers rose 1 per cent during the month.

Farmers' returns in mid-January averaged 80 per cent of parity, the same as in mid-December, and compared with 86 per cent of parity in mid-January last year.

PAPERWEIGHT CLASSIFIED AS TOP SECRET BY ARMY

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Jan. 31 (UP)—A paperweight became a classified item at the Army's super-secret guided missile center at Redstone Arsenal.

The paperweight, a miniature rocket, was fashioned by an employe at the center a year ago. It was spotted recently by a security officer, classified top secret and locked up.

It looked too much like a rocket which has just been developed, officials explained.

EISENHOWER-EDEN TALKS BELIEVED TURNED ON WAR THREAT BY RED CHINESE

PRIME MINISTER SIR ANTHONY EDEN talking with SECRETARY OF STATE JOHN FOSTER DULLES and MRS. DULLES at state dinner honoring the British Premier in Washington last night.

EDEN FORGETS TO PROPOSE TOAST TO EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—British Prime Minister Eden tripped over one of the diplomatic niceties at the state dinner last night. He failed to propose the customary toast to President Eisenhower.

It was assumed that Eden, a veteran diplomat, forgot his closing lines in addressing the dinner guests. He paid tribute to Mr. Eisenhower but sat down without offering a toast.

Mr. Eisenhower did not attend the dinner, given by Secretary of State Dulles. The President is foregoing the social activities connected with Eden's current visit because of his health.

Just before Eden spoke, Dulles had concluded his remarks to the gathering by proposing a toast to Queen Elizabeth.

OFFICER TAKES PIE IN FACE FOR BENEFIT OF POLIO

SEDALIA, Mo., Jan. 31 (AP)—Station KDRO-TV, presenting a money-raising program for the polio fund by taking telephoned pledges, got this offer from one viewer:

He would pay $5 to see Patrolman Leroy Kidwell get hit in the face with a pie.

Police Chief Edgar Neighbors, on the program, called Kidwell out of bed and summoned him to the TV station.

"Not for $5," Kidwell demurred. "But I'll do it for $50."

Calls started pouring in, and when the pledges reached $65 Kidwell got popped in the face with a pie.

Kidwell writes overtime parking tickets six days a week.

TRUMAN PRAISES PRESIDENT FOR REPLY TO BULGANIN

'Best Thing He's Done in Foreign Affairs Since He's Been in White House.'

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman arrived in New York today with praise for President Eisenhower's reply to Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposed friendship pact. He spoke before television and newsreel cameras at a new conference in Pennsylvania station.

He was asked his opinion of President Eisenhower's reply to the Kremlin that deeds, not words, would prove Soviet intentions.

Replied Truman:

"I think it's the best thing he's done in foreign affairs since he's been in the White House."

TEACHER WHO SPANKED BOY, 16, UPHELD IN COURT

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 31 (UP) — A teacher's action in spanking a disobedient pupil was upheld yesterday by a state court of appeals.

The court affirmed a common pleas court jury finding in favor of Robert C. L. Reeves, Central High School teacher, who was named in a $5000 damage suit. The suit was brought by Mrs. Lillian Petaford on behalf of her son, Ronald, 16 years old, who charged that Reeves spanked him.

BRITISH COPPER WIRE SALES TO REDS JOLT U.S.

'Very Slight' Exports Climb to 200,000,000 Pounds — Eden to Meet Resistance.

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — Sharp increases in British sales of copper wire to the Soviet bloc are influencing the Administration to resist further pressures from allies, including that of visiting British Prime Minister Eden, to increase the list of products that may be shipped behind the Iron Curtain.

"The copper sales incident," as it is called around Washington, is, top level officials say, but one example of how the United States has been talked into a "slight liberalization" of the list of goods barred for export to Communist nations only to find later that such exports were far from slight.

The incident summarizes the problem facing United States policy makers now that there has been a slight thaw in the cold war. It is the question of whether the world has become secure enough that the United States and its allies may feel safe in feeding strategic materials to countries they once feared as potential enemies.

In the summer of 1954 a number of America's European allies said that business men in their countries were chafing under the restrictions of the Red trade embargo and asked for liberalization of the list. At the time, the American representative on the trade subcommittee agreed to reduce the embargoed list from 297 to 217 items.

The Americans were highly reluctant to take copper wire off the strategic list on ground that it was vital to many defense industries and that furthermore the Russians were short of it.

The British argued that, so far as defense was concerned, copper wire was only of marginal importance and reportedly gave assurances that any exports of copper wire would be "very slight anyway."

However, the number of export licenses granted to British business men for export of copper wire to Russia has increased steadily. By the first of this year it was estimated that nearly 200,000,000 pounds of the copper wire has found its way into the Soviet Union. Evidence has been found that some of it has been sent on to Communist China.

Zoo's Bears Won't Hibernate.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 31 (AP)—Bears in the Calgary zoo don't hibernate. They are moodily active while their cousins in the woods snooze away the winter months. Zookeeper Stewart Sluth said: "I wish they would go to sleep. They behave just like human beings with a hangover."

This Little Pig Went to Bank As Check for Farmer's Taxes

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1956.

LONDON, Jan. 31—Maj. P. Moxon, a farmer in Nyasaland, Africa, owed $33.60 in income taxes.

He wrote a check on the flank of a pig and sent it to the tax office. That was last Saturday. Tax officials kept and fed the pig until Monday, when they sent it to the bank.

The bank cashier put a two-cent stamp on the porker and stamped it "paid."

The pig was sent upstairs for the transaction to be recorded in the books. The question of keeping the canceled check until the end of the month proved too much for the bank.

So the pig with the canceled tax payment on its flank was sent back to Moxon. He reports that the pig was happy to be returned to the trough after its three-day venture into the business world.

DISCUSSION SAID TO INCLUDE CHOU RADIO SPEECH ON TAKING FORMOSA

Far Eastern Experts Join President and Prime Minister — Middle East Also Considered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden met again today with Far Eastern questions apparently among the topics in the second day of their talks.

Both leaders had their Far East experts with them at a White House luncheon, attended also by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. The specialists were Walter S. Robertson of the State Department and Sir Hubert Graves of Britain.

Mr. Eisenhower met alone with Eden in his White House study after luncheon as Dulles, Lloyd and their ads talked in the nearby Cabinet room.

In order to play a bigger role in the conferences, Mr. Eisenhower passed up his usual mid-day nap. A White House spokesman said the President rested before luncheon and decided to continue afterwards without interruption.

The President and the Prime Minister planned to join their advisers later in the afternoon.

Dulles acknowledged to reporters, after two hours of talks with Lloyd this morning at the State Department, that "we talked about both" Middle and Far East problems.

Red China's Premier Chou En-lai, in a speech broadcast yesterday over the Peiping radio, declared his government was "actively preparing" to conquer the Nationalist-held island of Formosa "by means of war if necessary."

It was believed Chou's threat was discussed at today's conferences, along with Middle Eastern problems.

Off To Good Start.

Mr. Eisenhower and Eden got off to a seemingly good start yesterday, the first day of their three-day talks, arranged to discuss Russian moves in the Middle East and elsewhere.

They agreed in assessing recent Soviet maneuvering on the diplomatic, economic and political front. Eden pledged Britain's full support to Mr. Eisenhower's insistence on "deeds, not words," as evidence of Russian willingness to ease tensions.

Nevertheless, the first day turned up a divergence of views on the Middle East. Some diplomatic officials said, however, that these differences were minor and should be narrowed even further at today's session.

This afternoon's formal session was to be followed tonight by a dinner to be given by Dulles for the British leaders and their aids.

Mr. Eisenhower took part in two of the three conferences yesterday. On doctor's orders, the President is passing up the night gatherings.

Other Far Eastern questions believed to be under consideration, besides the Formosa situation, are Britain's desires to increase non-military trade with Red China and Peiping's claim to be the only legitimate government of China.

The British are said to be more reluctant than they have been about backing unyielding United States opposition to seating Red China in the United Nations.

On the subject of commerce in non-war goods with Red China, the British argue, in the face of strong opposition from some segments of Congress, that such goods are being shipped now to Russia but are barred in the China trade. They point out that the Korean fighting, which led to the embargo, has been over for two and one-half years. Britain recognize Red China, while the United States does not.

Other Issues.

The Russian economic offensive in the Middle East holds top rank among the issues before Mr. Eisenhower and Eden. But there also are questions of Britain's differences with Saudi Arabia over the potentially oil-rich Buraimi oasis, the Baghdad pact, and the long-rankling dispute between Israel and its Arab neighbors, France's troubles with North African nationalists also drew attention.

Officials said it looked like safe speculation that the joint communique at the end of the talks probably would reaffirm the 1950 British-American-French declaration guaranteeing Middle East peace.

This declaration was designed to bolster the Palestine truce which the U.N. had then succeeded in arranging. It pledges

MOLLET APPEARS ASSURED OF APPROVAL AFTER DUCLOS BACKING

Socialist Leader Names Cabinet — Calls for New Deal for Algeria Which Would Strengthen Union.

PARIS, Jan. 31 (AP) — Guy Mollet, secretary general of the Socialist party, appeared assured of success in his bid for the premiership today when party boss Jacques Duclos pledged him Communist support.

Duclos' action meant the "Republican Front" cabinet Mollet proposes will get the 151 Communists votes in the National Assembly in addition to support from the Socialists, the Radical-Socialists and various small center parties.

The Communist leader announced his support for the premier designate despite two planks in the Mollet platform which the Communists oppose—a call for a stronger North Atlantic Treaty Organization and a new drive for the unification of Western Europe. Mollet stressed both points in the foreign policy section of his statement of policy when the National Assembly convened to hear his appeal for power.

Popular Front Rule.

The Communist tactic was in line with the party's recent strategy aimed at the creation of a "Popular Front" government of Communists and Socialists. Mollet has opposed any link with the Reds. Duclos's move seemed designed to impose such an alliance and to head off the formation of a national union bloc of the left and center parties.

In bid bid for power, Mollet also called for a new deal for Algeria which would strengthen "the unbreakable union" of that North African territory with France.

Mollet announced a 13-man cabinet, along with 21 secretaries of state. The list indicated he hoped to win Catholic and moderate support which would release him from dependence on Communist votes.

Mollet told the National Assembly:

"The sending to Algiers of a resident minister (Gen. Georges Catroux) and the presence of two secretaries-of-state at his side show the government's desire to act vigorously and have its decision respected.

"It is first necessary to re-establish peace, to free both sides from fear, to obtain an end of both terrorism and blind repression. It is necessary to reorganize on a solid basis the relations between the two populations, European and Moslem, in order to maintain and strengthen thus the unbreakable union of Algeria with metropolitan France."

Algeria No. 1 Problem.

Algeria he said was "the most pressing" problem facing France, and "it is to that the Premier will devote his first efforts in tackling it personally."

He outlined this program:

The National Assembly should affirm solemnly that the future of Algeria will not be decided unilaterally, and that it will not accept a decision imposed by force.

A genuine popular consultation should be organized without delay by election of an assembly. This, he pointed out, implied electrical reform.

Deputies of all parties, including Communist leader Maurice Thorez who now rarely appears in Parliament, crowded the floor of the chamber.

Mollet first read the names of his 13-man cabinet:

Premier—Guy Mollet (Socialist).

Minister of State without portfolio — Pierre Mendes-France (Radical-Socialist).

Minister of State in charge of Ministry of Justice—Francois Mitterrand (Union of Democratic Social Resistance).

Foreign Affairs — Christian Pineau (Socialist).

Minister attached to Premier's office—Felix Houphouet-Boigny (African Democratic Rally).

Houphouet-Boigny is a 50-year-old Negro from the Ivory Coast in French West Africa.

The complexion of the cabinet and the reported Mollet platform appeared designed to woo support of the MRP (popular republican movement) as a substitute for Communist backing. The slightly left of center Catholic group is the French equivalent of a Christian Democrat party.

Mollet and Mendes-France, whose Republican front won some 160 Assembly seats in the recent election, are far short of a majority in the 596-member house. Hence they must attract votes from either the Communists on the left, or the MRP and allied groups to the right.

(The United Press reported Antoine Pinay's powerful independents had made Mollet's victory even more certain when the majority of them decided to abstain in the showdown vote. Outgoing Premier Edgar Faure's small left Republican Rally (RGR) did the same thing.)

PRISON FOR PAIR IN ABORTION DEATH

Victim's Mother, Charged as Accessory, Is Given Suspended Sentence.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (UP)—Milton Schwartz and his wife, Rosalie, were sentenced to prison today for their part in the abortion death of Doris Jean Ostreicher, 22-year-old chain store heiress, but the victim's mother was given an indefinite suspended sentence.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll said the young woman's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Silver, had suffered "substantial punishment" already because she would "have to live forever with herself and her conscience."

Mrs. Schwartz, 38-year-old beautician, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the state industrial home for women. Her husband, a bartender, was sentenced to three to 10 years in the state penitentiary.

After being sentenced, Mrs. Schwartz fainted. When Judge Carroll suspended sentence for Mrs. Silver both she and her husband broke into uncontrollable sobs. A court-appointed psychiatrist had testified that a prison sentence would harm Mrs. Silver and might affect her mental condition. She could have been given 10 years.

The Schwartzes had pleaded no defense to a charge of causing death by abortion, while Mrs. Silver made a similar plea to a charge of being accessory before the fact.

It was brought out in court that Mrs. Silver, who is 49, arranged for the abortion two months after her daughter's elopement marriage to Earl Ostreicher, a Miami Beach (Fla.) motorcycle policeman.

PRESIDENT LIKES GOOD TV MYSTERY IF TIME PERMITS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —President Eisenhower is not an avid viewer of television; he simply doesn't have the time. But he is deeply interested in television and watches a variety of programs whenever he can.

In the White House living quarters are four black and white TV sets and one color set. The Eisenhowers also have television sets at their farm in Gettysburg, Pa.

Whenever possible the Eisenhowers view at least one televised news program in the evening. For relaxation, when time permits, the President enjoys a good mystery drama.

Mrs. Eisenhower is an enthusiastic television watcher, as is her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, who is visiting at the White House. Mrs. Eisenhower takes TV programs pretty much as they come. She enjoys music and there is one specific weekly dramatic program that is her favorite. However, the Eisenhowers are not publicizing their specific preferences.

The Eisenhowers always are interested in seeing news program pick-ups of the President's televised news conferences. The White House is impresed by the letters that pour in after such a conference.

Kubitschek Inaugurated, Picks Largely Conservative Cabinet

Rewards Supporters—Delegates From 60 Nations Attend—Nixon Heads U.S. Contingent.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 31 (AP)—Juscelino Kubitschek, victorious candidate of followers of dictator Getulio Vargas and supported by Communists, was inaugurated President of Brazil today.

Standing on a platform banked with flowers before a joint session of congress, Kubitschek solemnly promised to support and defend the constitution of South America's largest country.

Delegates from 60 nations and members of the new congress were in Rio for the inauguration of the 53-year-old former governor of Minas Gerais state, born in the backwoods of Brazil and the grandson of a Czech immigrant.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon headed a 17-member United States delegation to the inaugural ceremonies in the capital of Latin America's largest and most populous country. Former President Vincent Auriol came from France.

Rio took on a carnival air in the midst of a 100-degree summer heat wave. The holiday atmosphere was in marked contrast to the tension three months ago, when military leaders overthrew an interim government suspected of trying to block Kubitschek's inauguration.

Kubitschek strengthened his government by continuing in office the three service chiefs who staged the counter-coup that insured his inauguration. They are Gen. Enrique Texeira Lott, the war minister; Gen. Vasco Alves Seco, air minister, and Adm. Antonio Alves Camara, Navy.

To cope with the vast economic problems facing Brazil, the new president also named to his 11-member cabinet four men from his own Social Democrat party, one each from the Conservative Republican and Liberal Social Progress parties, and only two from the Labor party of his running mate and Vargas' political heir, Vice Pesident Joao Goulart.

In addition to the three military leaders, Foreign Minister Jose Carlos Macedo Soares was continued in office and Provisional President Nereu Ramos, installed by the Nov. 11 coup, was named justice minister.

By the United Press.

Kubitschek's choice of cabinet members was not too well received by the press, including the Correio da Manha and O Jornal, both of which strongly supported his candidacy throughout the campaign.

Correio said Kubitschek had to make a choice between a strong cabinet and a strong congressional majority. By satisfying party interests, it said, he got a strong congressional majority.

Correio also branded the nation-wide state of siege now in effect as "completely unconstitutional."

NORWAY SEIZES 8 MORE RUSSIAN FISHING VESSELS

Total of 13 Boats Confiscated in 2 Days for Violating 4-Mile Off-Shore Limit.

AALESUND, Norway, Jan. 31 (UP)—Norwegian warships captured eight more Russian fishing boats today in a continuing undeclared war on Soviet vessels violating this country's sea boundaries.

Norwegian torpedo boats opened fire on two Soviet vessels that refused to surrender, the Navy said.

The latest captures brought the number of Soviet vessels taken in the last two days to 13.

The Soviet government thus far has taken no action against the wholesale captures that Norway said took place within the four-mile limit of its territorial waters in the North Atlantic.

The seizures were made after a large number of Soviet vessels violated Norwegian territorial waters by fishing inside the forbidden four-mile limit.

A temporary Norwegian naval command was set up at Aalesund to deal with the continuing violations. Norwegian Foreign Minister Hallvard Lange also sped home from Denmark to deal with the growing danger of an international incident. He and his cabinet prepared a formal protest to the Reds.

4 Trawlers Seized Yesterday.

Norwegian sailors flourishing pistols and machine guns boarded and captured four Red fishing boats and a factory ship yesterday for violating Norway's territorial waters.

Norwegian torpedo boats raced out at dawn today after Norwegian fishermen radioed reports that "several" Red boats which escaped yesterday sneaked back during the night.

Heavier warships steamed from north and south to the area, between Stad Foreland and Svinoey Lighthouse, on orders from the west coast navy headquarters at Bergen.

Fired Into Deck.

The commander of one Norwegian boarding party yesterday fired two warning shots into the deck of a Russian ship at the feet of its captain when he refused to follow orders to sail into port. Norwegian sailors kept the Russian crew covered with submachine guns.

The 8000-ton "factory" ship, Tambow, made a break for open water but hove to after a torpedo boat fired warning rounds across her bow.

The captured ships were part of a Russian fishing fleet of 70 to 80 ships spotted netting herring "well-within" the four-mile limit of Norwegian waters. Swift armored navy torpedo boats dashed into the middle of the fleet, catching it by surprise, and capturing four modern, 200-ton steel ships and their 40-men crews.

The rest of the Russian "invaders" fled, leaving behind herring-filled nets. Navy officers said some abandoned nets were found within two miles of shore.

All the captured Red ships were escorted to this west Norway port. Spectators jammed the waterfront but there were no demonstrations even though feeling among local citizens over the Red violations ran high.

Reds Behave 'Correctly.'

The Oslo radio said that once the Russians were captured their behavior was "correct." The Russians refused to answer any questions put by reporters and attempted to avoid photographers when they came ashore here.

Minister of Fisheries Nils Lysoe said the Russian violation was "unprecedented."

The Soviet Embassy in Oslo refused immediate comment. "No one here can answer your questions," a spokesman said last night.

An international political incident threatened because an official Soviet delegation headed by the minister of fisheries is due here Friday to visit herring fisheries in the same waters where the violations occured.

Foreign trawlers caught fishing illegally in Norwegian waters usually are fined about $55,000.

Senator Wants M'Kay Called In Mine Claim Investigation

W. Kerr Scott Demands That Secretary Appear Although Aid Took Responsibility for Grants.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP) —Senator W. Kerr Scott (Dem.), North Carolina, demanded today that Interior Secretary Douglas McKay testify in a congressional investigation of the controversial Al Sarena mining claim grants in an Oregon national forest.

Although Under Secretary Clarence A. Davis took full responsibility for the grants last week, Scott said he won't "feel the whole story has been told" unless McKay testifies before a joint subcommittee looking into the matter.

The subcommittee, headed by Scott, is investigating the granting of full title "patents" to 15 disputed mining claims in the Rogue River National Forest to the Al Sarena Mining Corp. It called Davis for more questioning today.

Democrats on the subcommittee have charged the patents had the effect of letting the company do "timber mining" on a stand of trees they estimate is worth $250,000.

Republicans call the hearing an attempt to "smear" McKay and the Eisenhower Administration.

Davis testified last week that issuance of the patents was entirely within the law. He said the company's application was one of more than 200 the previous administration had failed to act on.

Scott noted that Davis had testified that McKay brought up the Al Sarena case at several staff conferences in the Interior Department. Scott said he wants to know why McKay was interested in this particular one out of the 200-odd cases in the departmental backlog.

Committee aids said McKay had been asked sometime ago whether he wished to testify. They said he had not replied.

ATOMIC TRANSPORTATION FOR ARMY TO BE STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —The Army today awarded a contract for a study of how atomic power could be used in such things as locomotives, arctic "land trains" and Army harbor tugs.

The $100,000 contract for the study went to the Nuclear Development Corp. of America, White Plains, N.Y. It was awarded by the Army transportation research and development command at Fort Eustis, Va.

The announcement said "The Army considers that the application of nuclear power to the field of military transportation has great potential and will materially assist in obtaining the degree of strategic mobility required for modern warfare."

FIFTH COLOMBIA NEWSPAPER CLOSES UNDER CENSORSHIP

BOGOTA, Jan. 31 (UP)—The newspaper La Patria of Manizales announced it would be unable to publish today because of censorship regulations.

La Patria became the fifth newspaper in Colombia to close down under government censorship.

The government also imposed censorship on the Bogota newspaper Informacion yesterday, but it said it would continue to publish as long as possible. La Patria said it didn't have enough time to submit all copy to the censors for today's issue.

SNAKES IN HOME, SHE QUITS

DENVER, Jan. 31 (AP)—Judge Joseph E. Cook dissolved a 15-year marriage yesterday after Mrs. Marion Ellsworth Woodmansee testified her husband had forced her to live in a cave inhabited by snakes.

"Snakes were crawling all over the place," she said. "They crawled over the back of the cupboard and my nerves broke when they crawled over the baby."

NATIONAL GUARD GENERAL KILLED IN ALASKA CRASH

Dies of Injuries After Daring Rescue by Planes Which Land on Mountain Top.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 31 (AP) —Brig. Gen. John R. Noyes, commander of the Alaska National Guard, died in a Nome hospital last night, a few hours after his rescue from the wreckage of a crashed plane.

Noyes, of Oneida, N.Y., suffered "severe and extensive freezing and multiple injuries" in the crash Friday of a National Guard plane in which he and three others were flying, and in four days and three nights spent in the wreckage awaiting rescue, Dr. Fred Langsam, Nome physician, reported yesterday.

Noyes, a West Point graduate, and Maj. Robert Kolb, pilot of the plane, were brought here late yesterday after they had been removed from the wreckage by three bush pilots and a druggist. They were part of a large search party which had hunted for the missing men since the plane was reported overdue.

Noyes could not be moved until aid came. He had huddled in the wreckage with Kolb, who suffered minor injuries and exposure in severe winter cold.

Noyes's body remained in the same position it took Friday when the plane in which he and Kolb were riding with two other men crashed on top of a mountain and slid 300 feet down its icy slopes.

The crash scene was 25 miles northeast of Nome.

The two men riding with Noyes and Kolb, Sgt. Richard August of Nome, the mechanic, and Maj. Francis Siegwart, commander of the Alaska National Guard's First Scout Battalion here, started to walk to Nome Sunday, two days after the plane crashed.

They were spotted from the air and intercepted on the ground shortly after a Civil Air Patrol plane piloted by Phillip Lancaster of Nome sighted Noyes's downed craft.

Siegwart was uninjured. August was suffering extreme exposure.

Lancaster and his flying companion, Martin Olson, landed their light craft at the top of the plateau-like mountain and were soon joined by Bill Munz, another bush pilot, and Nome druggist Boyd Harwood, in another plane.

SEWER BOARD ADOPTS BUDGET OF $1,054,872 FOR 5 MONTHS

Maintenance Fund of $619,933 Set Up — $119,325 to Go for Development of Subdistricts.

A budget of $1,054,872 for the remainder of the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, was adopted by the Metropolitan Sewer District board of trustees yesterday.

Largest single item in the budget was $619,933 for the maintenance department, a major activity since the district took over full operation of area sewers Jan. 1.

Of the maintenance item, $410,148 will go for personal services, including salaries of eight new crews for St. Louis county, totaling 75 men.

Next largest item is $119,325 for sub-district development, covering cost of bond elections in the Maline, Coldwater, Gravois, Vinita Park and Creve Coeur areas.

Also in the budget was $92,191 for construction, $84,366 for design, $64,439 for the finance department, and $36,532 for the legal department.

Salary increases totaling $4156 a year for five district officers, including an increase from $10,800 to $13,000 annually for William Q. Kehr, executive director, were provided in the budget. Kehr's predecessor, L. E. Ordelheide, received $12,000.

Revenue Estimates.

The budget was prepared on the basis of anticipated annual revenue from service charges amounting to $2,245,000. Kehr estimated the district would have a balance of about $225,000 as of June 30, including about $200,000 left over from a previous tax.

Kehr announced that 27.2 per cent of the 35,000 service charge bills issued in January had been paid, with 25,674 still outstanding. A similar lot of bills will be mailed out each month until June, when all of the 275,000 homes and businesses in the district will have been reached.

Charges for most homes are $3 for each six months, with a 15 per cent discount, or 45 cents, if payment is made within 15 days.

Maplewood Protests.

Meanwhile, Maplewood today paid its six-month sewer service charge of $244.80 under protest.

Mayor Sterling P. Davidson Jr. of Maplewood told the district in a letter that the charge in effect was double taxation, since the people already were paying similar sewer charges on their own homes and businesses.

Moreover, Davidson said, $229.50 of the charge against Maplewood is on account of its swimming pool, since sewer charges are based on water meter size and the pool has a large meter. The Mayor asserted the charge was unfair because the pool is used only four months a year and moreover, water is re-used by means of a filter system, thus cutting down both water and sewer use.

Davidson is president of the St. Louis County League of Municipalities, which at a meeting last week referred the sewer charge matter to its legislation committee for study.

Kehr said he would submit the Maplewood protest to the board of trustees, but added that this problem had been recognized by the board before it decided on water-use capacity as a basis for sewer charges.

He defended the $229.50 charge involving the swimming pool, on the ground the pool also had a large-size drain pipe, causing a potential load on sewer facilities. He added that if an exception were made in one case, the district would be swamped with "special cases."

As for Davidson's double-taxation argument, Kehr pointed out the sewer district charter specifically provides for payment of sewer charges by public bodies.

Carsonville Proposal.

In another action at yesterday's board meeting, Chairman John M. Bogdanor directed John P. McCammon, attorney for the district, to prepare a resolution for creation of a subdistrict in the Carsonville area to raise an estimated $5000 for an 800-foot connection between the Carsonville Sewer District system and the Berkeley treatment plant.

Kehr reported to the metropolitan board that the Carsonville district had the money on hand but had refused to pay for the construction unless a contract it has with the Berkeley district is abrogated. The 800 feet of open sewer caused many complaints last summer.

Bogdanor announced that Curtis Brostron, chairman of the district civil service commission, had sent word he would resign soon because of pressure of other duties. He is an adviser to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly in the proposed prison construction program.

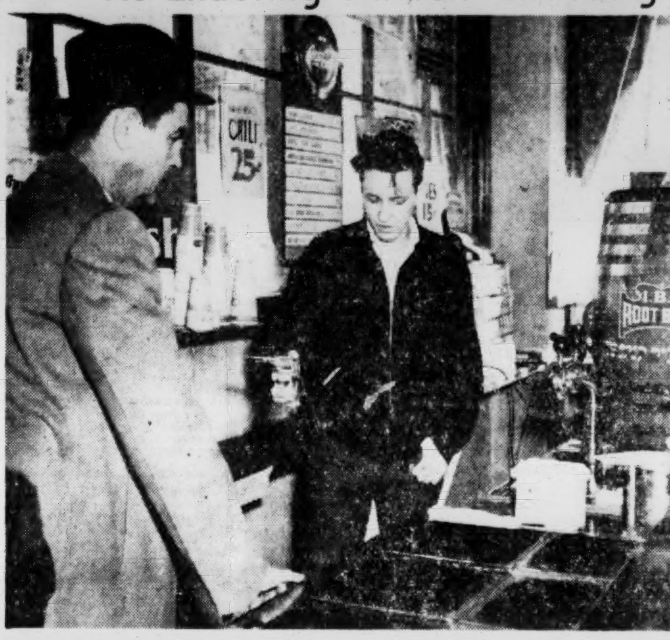
Re-Enacting Affton Shooting



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

RICHARD G. BEVANS, with downcast eyes, points toy pistol at LT. H. C. BIRMES of St. Louis county police to demonstrate how he shot and killed Arthur L. Seise in attempted holdup. Shooting was re-enacted in Seise's ice cream store in Affton yesterday.

THREE MORE CALLED IN PAY-OFF INQUIRY

Grand Jury to Report Friday—New Body to Continue Investigation.

The circuit court grand jury investigating alleged pay-offs to some policemen by brothel operators was to hear three witnesses, including one policeman, today, preparatory to completing its term and filing a report on Friday.

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd announced that the investigation, which has resulted thus far in perjury indictments against three police officers, would be pressed by the February term grand jury, to be impaneled on Monday. The present grand jury will continue the inquiry through Thursday.

Mrs. Constance Kaplan, of the 4300 block of West Pine boulevard, is under subpena for appearance today. She was a witness Jan. 3, although there was no indication whether she actually testified or refused to give information.

Scheduled to appear tomorrow is Mrs. Ruby Hoffman, regarded as a key witness, who made several grand jury appearances last week. She was released on bond and permitted to rest, on advice of a physician.

Three Newstead district officers are expected to be heard by the grand jury in checking Mrs. Hoffman's testimony and her statements to the circuit attorney. Mrs. Hoffman formerly operated a brothel on McPherson avenue, in the Newstead district.

FIRE BACKS UP TRAFFIC TWO MILES ON WATSON ROAD

Fire destroyed the interior of a one-story brick and frame building at 9044 Watson road, Crestwood, at the height of the home-bound rush hour last night, backing up traffic at one time for almost two miles on Watson road.

The building was the home and office of Frank Camp, manager of the Hi-Way Auto Court in the rear, and of two other families. Only Mr. and Mrs. Camp were at home at the time. The fire, of undetermined origin, caused an estimated $9000 damage. It was brought under control in about two hours by the Crestwood Fire Department with the assistance of the Affton department.

Traffic also was blocked last night on North Broadway between Franklin avenue and Destrehan street when a vacant two-story brick building at 1125-29 North Third street caught fire. Eighteen pieces of equipment answered the three alarms. The building was scheduled to be razed for the Mark Twain Expressway.

M. L. SILVERSTEIN RESIGNS AS GARNHOLZ ASSISTANT

Merle L. Silverstein, first assistant to Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz of St. Louis county, resigned today to enter the private practice of law.

Silverstein has tried all major cases prosecuted by the office since Garnholz became prosecutor a year ago. He lives at 8031 Braddock drive, University City, and will establish an office in Clayton.

Appointment of Ralph K. Soebbing, 461 North Hanley road, University City, as an assistant prosecuting attorney, was announced by Garnholz. Soebbing, a graduate of Washington University School of Law, was admitted to the bar in 1951. Until recently he was a first lieutenant in the Air Force, serving as a legal officer in the Judge Advocate General's departments.

FESTUS LEGION POST BUYS U.S. GAMBLING TAX STAMP

A federal tax stamp for a coin operated gambling device was issued today for $125 by the Internal Revenue Service here. It was bought by American Legion Post 253, City Park, Festus, Mo. This brings to 39 the number of gambling tax stamps issued in the Eastern District of Missouri to date.

Revenue agents said they did not know the type of a gambling device the stamp is for in Festus, since it is not necessary for the purchaser to describe the device. It could be a pinball machine that pays off, or a slot machine, they said.

The number of stamps issued this year to date are for machines in 14 locations. Last year 36 tax stamps were issued for devices in 12 locations, records showed.

HEART FUND CAMPAIGN TO OPEN TOMORROW

The 1956 Heart Fund campaign will begin tomorrow and continue through Feb. 29, Dr. Arthur E. Strauss, chairman of the St. Louis Heart Association Fund, announced today.

Figures from the St. Louis and St. Louis county bureaus of vital statistics show that 56 per cent of all deaths in this area are due to heart diseases, Dr. Strauss said.

He said that although no particular goal has been set for this year's campaign in St. Louis, he was confident that the Heart Sunday house-to-house solicitation on Feb. 26 will produce funds for research, professional and public education that will far exceed the sum raised last year.

BOND ISSUE VOTE FEB. 14

A $1,410,000 school bond issue special election will be held in School District R-9, in the southeast section of St. Louis county, on Feb. 14. A two-thirds majority is needed for passage.

If the bonds are voted in the election the money will be used to build and equip additions to the senior high school and the Point, Bernard, St. John and Washington elementary schools. The work would double the capacity of the schools, it was reported.

SHOPPING CENTER IN JENNINGS VOTED

But Council Wants Stix, Baer & Fuller to Provide Traffic Relief.

An ordinance rezoning a 38-acre tract at the northwest corner of Jennings Station and Halls Ferry roads, Jennings, from residential to a regional shoping district for construction of a Stix, Baer & Fuller shopping center was passed last night by Jennings City Council.

The council, however, instructed Mayor Oliver R. Koeneman not to sign the ordinance until a written agreement is obtained from company officers to provide certain traffic relief measures.

Mayor Koeneman said the city would seek to have the store widen Jennings Station and Halls Ferry road from two to four lanes along the extent of its property and widen Ada Wortley lane from one to two lanes along the western edge of the property. Also, he said the store would be asked to install traffic signals on these streets.

Representatives of the company have agreed orally to these conditions, the Mayor said, but now the council wants them in writing.

The vote on the ordinance was 6 to 2, providing the three-fourths majority needed for such an ordinance where 10 per cent of the property owners within 185 feet of the tract oppose the zoning change. About 95 property owners signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

Company officers have announced its Jennings shopping center will be similar to its $6,250,000 Westroads store at Brentwood boulevard and Clayton road.

FORGER GETS TWO YEARS ON FEDERAL CHECK CHARGE

Charles H. Redding, a convicted forger, was sentenced to two years in Federal prison today by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham in East St. Louis when he pleaded guilty to a charge of interstate transportation of stolen securities.

Redding, who worked for a St. Louis firm, stole four blank checks from the company and made them out to himself and cashed them on the East Side, it was reported. Each check was made out for $76.

CHARGE IS FILED AGAINST KILLER OF AFFTON MAN

Richard Bevans Accused of Delinquency by Reason of Murder in Store Shooting.

A charge of delinquency by reason of murder was filed against Richard George Bevans today as St. Louis county authorities continued an investigation to determine if the 16-year-old admitted killer should be prosecuted as a juvenile or an adult.

Bevans, who lives in the 6400 block of Hoffman avenue, and Howard Eugene Johnson, 17, of the 2600 block of Lyle avenue, Maplewood, have admitted killing Arthur L. Seise of Affton in an attempted holdup Jan. 23.

Both youths are charged with first-degree murder in warrants issued by Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis of Clayton. At a preliminary hearing scheduled Thursday, Bevans will be required to prove he is not 17 years old, the age which legally divides juveniles from adults under Missouri criminal statutes.

Even if Bevans proves he is 16, Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein, sitting as juvenile judge, can rule he should be tried as an adult if he finds the crime to be of a sufficiently aggravated nature. The judge's decision will be based on information received from County Juvenile Officer Ralph Smith, who is checking Bevans's background and circumstances of the killing.

Last month Circuit Judge Raymond E. La Driere directed that three 16-year-old St. Louis county youths be tried as adults for abducting and criminally assaulting a 14-year-old girl "because of the viciousness of the crime."

Bevans and Johnston yesterday were taken by county police to Seise's ice cream store at 10201 Gravois avenue, where they re-enacted the attempted holdup and shooting. Handed a toy pistol, Bevans showed how he shot Seise six times when he thought Seise was going to resist.

The youths also led officers to a yard and a parking lot in Affton where a license plate removed from the automobile used in the robbery attempt and a box of cartridges thrown away by Bevans were recovered.

It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Post-Dispatch that Bevans's address was 6246 Hoffman.

TAVERN OWNER KILLS PATRON IN ROW OVER GAME

Bus Driver E. R. Gaddy Said to Have Lost $120 at Shuffleboard Before Shooting.

Emmett R. Gaddy, a Public Service Co. bus driver, was shot and killed last night by Joseph Bova, operator of the LaPaloma Tavern, 6594 Scanlan avenue, in a fight which police were told resulted from Gaddy's losses in an electric shuffleboard game.

Bova, 40 years old, surrendered and said he fired five shots from a .38-caliber revolver after Gaddy broke away from bystanders attempting to restrain him and rushed behind the bar, where Bova was standing. His account was corroborated by several witnesses.

Police were told that Gaddy entered the bar, where he was known, about 5 p.m. He and Bova began playing shuffleboard, first for drinks, and later for $10 a game. Gaddy lost 12 games and owed Bova $120 when the play broke up in a row, witnesses related.

Gaddy berated and threatened Bova, officers were told, and there was a scuffle in which Bova received a scalp wound. Robert Ginther, 6813 Scanlan avenue, and Melvin Metz, 4309 Jamieson avenue, said they grappled with the enraged man and tried to shove him out the door. Bova, meanwhile, retreated behind the bar and obtained his revolver from a safe.

Ginther and Metz told police they were unable to hold Gaddy, who broke away and rushed toward Bova. The latter said he warned Gaddy, "Don't come behind the bar, I don't want to hurt you." Gaddy is reported to have stepped behind the bar, despite the warning. Bova fired five shots; Gaddy was struck in the head and chest.

Gaddy, 35 years old, lived with his wife, Christine, and four children near Mehlville, St. Louis county. He had worked for the Public Service Co. more than 10 years. An inquest will be conducted. Bova furnished $10,000 bond.

In 1946 Bova shot and seriously wounded a youth in a quarrel in a tavern at 1711 Biddle street. In 1951 Bova, who then lived in the 4000 block of Cleveland avenue, was acquitted of a charge of first-degree robbery by a circuit court jury at Clayton. He had been identified as one of three men who robbed the manager of Bettendorf's Market, Clayton and Hanley roads, of $1000.

The liquor license for LaPaloma Tavern is in the names of Bova's wife, Mary, with whom he lives at 1712 North Twentieth street, and Pearl Tocco, 900 South Eighteenth street. Representatives of the Excise Commissioner's office said an investigation would be conducted, as a matter of routine, after the police report of the shooting is received.

4 MONTHS' WORK, NO PAY

ALGOOD, Tenn., Jan. 31 (UP)—Mayor H. M. Judd hopes he can soon get enough aldermen together at one time to confirm the appointment of this town's only policeman.

The policeman, Fred Bullock, has worked since Sept. 15 but had not received any pay. He said he "understood" his monthly salary would be $175, which he'd like to start collecting.

FORMER CONVICT HUNTED IN $3000 EMBEZZLEMENT

Employe Was Working to Make Restitution of $10,000 Stolen Earlier.

Warren G. Urban, a former convict, was being sought by police today after his employer reported two efforts to give Urban an opportunity to reform had been unsuccessful.

An arrest order was issued yesterday on complaint of Robert Kiesel, co-owner of the D. F. Kiesel Co., 1936 South Vandeventer avenue, a fuel distributor, who alleged Urban had embezzled $3000 of the company's funds. Urban took the money, Kiesel said, while he was working to make restitution of more than $10,000 he had stolen previously.

Kiesel told police that Urban, who was employed by the Kiesel company as a bookkeeping machine operator, had taken the $3000 over the past eight months. He discovered the discrepancy about three weeks ago, Kiesel said, and when he confronted Urban with the theft Urban admitted having taken the money.

The firm hires about 2 drivers who usually turned in their receipts to Urban, Kiesel told police. He said Urban concealed his thefts by falsifying the records.

Urban was employed by the firm in 1946, following his parole from the Missouri penitentiary. In 1953, Kiesel reported it was discovered that Urban had embezzled from $10,000 to $15,000 of the company's money. The firm absorbed the loss without reporting it to police and gave Urban an opportunity to make restitution, Kiesel said.

Kiesel said Urban was first employed by his father, G. F. Kiesel, at the request of a friend who was interested in obtaining employment for him to facilitate Urban's parole.

Urban, who is separated from his wife, formerly lived in the 2900 block of Ohio avenue. He was sentenced at Mount Vernon, Mo., to 16 years in the penitentiary in 1939 for felonius assault and jail break.

Urban's estranged wife told police she last saw him Saturday evening when he said he was going to leave St. Louis.

HUGHES INSISTS FRITCHEY ASKED HIM TO FAKE DATA

Says High Democrat Wanted Anti-McCarthy Material, Legitimate or Fictitious.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Paul Hughes, accused perjurer, insisted today a high Democratic officer wanted him to obtain material derogatory to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, whether it was legitimate or fictitious.

Hughes testified Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "stated in no uncertain terms that if the material could not be legitimately obtained, that I was to prepare fictitious material."

Hughes had testified yesterday that Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Washington attorney and national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, also had urged him to fake anti-McCarthy material.

Both Fritchey and Rauh, who testified earlier in Hughes's trial in United States District Court, have denied asking for fake material.

How He Met Fritchey.

Hughes, posing as an investigator for McCarthy's Senate Investigating subcommittee, said he met Brig. Gen. Cornelius J. Mara (ret.) in November 1953 and through him met Fritchey.

The defendant said neither Mara nor Fritchey was aware at the beginning that he was not an investigator for the subcommittee.

But, he said, they did learn he was not a few months later when he told them it was impossible to obtain "certain letters they wanted from the McCarthy committee files" because he did not have access to the material.

Hughes, 35-year-old Air Force veteran of Alexandria, Va., is being tried on charges of lying to a grand jury investigating the case of Harvey Matusow. Hughes is accused of falsely saying that he heard Rauh and others discuss payments for Matusow, a former Government witness who has recanted much of his anti-Communist testimony. Both sides rested their cases late today. Summations will be presented tomorrow.

About Receiving Money.

United States Attorney Paul W. Williams asked Hughes whether he had ever received any money from the New York Post or from the National Committee for a More Effective Congress while working on the McCarthy project with Fritchey and Rauh.

"Not to my knowledge," said Hughes.

Williams recalled that Edwin Glass, an FBI agent, had testified Hughes told him in February 1955 that while working with Rauh he was paid with funds "partly from the NCEC and partly from the New York Post."

"All I know," Hughes replied, "was what Mr. Rauh told me relative to his contacts. He mentioned to me on one or two occasions that he had contacted these people for funds."

Hughes disputed testimony by Rauh that the latter had told him he was advancing money for expenses out of personal funds with the hope of being reimbursed by the Washington Post and Times-Herald for publication rights to the material.

The defendant said Rauh had assured him none of the "false material" ever would be published. He quoted Rauh as saying only certain of the documents would be used for "pressure purposes" to convince certain "influential people in Washington that Senator McCarhty was a fraud and hoax."

Says Fritchey Gave Aid.

Questioned about a 49-page typewritten "report" turned over to Rauh in January 1954, Hughes said it had been prepared at the direction of and with the help of Fritchey.

Hughes said the report dealt with political personalities in Washington, purported Republican party political strategy, and material supposedly from the McCarthy committee's private files. It was, he said, "compiled of rumors, outright fiction, and if one per cent of fact is in the book, it is amazing."

"I will say," Hughes added, "that some of my rumors have been confirmed."

Hughes was questioned as to meetings with Alfred Friendly, managing editor of the Washing Post and Times-Herald, and then assistant managing editor.

The newspaper had intended to print articles based on Hughes's material if it could be substantiated. The newspaper checked the material, found that it did not stand up, and did not print it.

Hughes was asked if he advised Friendly the material was false. He said he did not.

COUNTY INQUIRY INTO CARE OF BABY GIVEN TO STRANGER

St. Louis county juvenile authorities today were investigating the manner in which Mr. and Mrs. George Finley of Wellston have been caring for their 5-month-old daughter, Peggy Lee, who was turned over by Finley to a stranger he met in a tavern Saturday.

Finley, a laborer living at 6131 Ridge avenue, told authorities he gave his child away because he was under the impression his 17-year-old wife, Barbara, had left him. However, Mrs. Finley had gone to the police to request her husband's arrest following an altercation.

Finley, booked suspected of peace disturbance, was discharged in police court yesterday when his wife did not appear to press the charge. The baby, who had been turned over to Lawrence E. Murphy of Florissant, is being kept at the county's receiving home for children, 221 South Meramec avenue, Clayton.

STATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM MISHAPS KILLED 805 IN '55

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31—Motor vehicle accidents on state-maintained highways in Missouri cost 805 lives in 1955, the State Highway Commission reported today. Statistics compiled by the department's traffic engineers showed 10,836 persons were injured in 15,500 accidents listed.

These casualty lists do not include accidents on city streets and roads not a part of the highway system.

Property damage on the state highway accidents was estimated at $9,087,580.

Comparable 1954 figures were 708 killed, 10,062 injured, $8,011,458 property damage.

Nearly one-third of the 1955 accidents resulted from vehicles running off the road, a total of 4773. Rear end collisions ranked next with 2885. Cutting in front of other vehicles accounted for 1815, and sdieswiping by cars traveling in opposite directions, 1577. There were 784 head-on collisions.

EISENHOWER, EDEN BELIEVED TAKING UP CHOU'S THREAT

the three powers to see that the Arab-Israeli arms balance is maintained, that there is no arms race in the area and that they will act within and outside the U.N. to keep the Middle East peace.

A conference spokesman declined to say whether a British-American program of joint action in the Middle East would be forthcoming. Dulles already said any move under the 1950 declaration would be taken only after checking with France.

The same spokesman said Eden told Mr. Eisenhower that Britain is staunchly behind the President's polite but firm rejection of Soviet Premier Bulganin's offer of a 20-year treaty of friendship and co-operation with the United States.

Mr. Eisenhower replied over the weekend to Bulganin's proposal. In doing so the President called for action on the issues which snarled the Geneva Big Four conferences last year: German reunification through free elections, European security, disarmament and freer East-West contacts.

Mr. Eisenhower and Eden were said to have explored these issues at their first meeting yesterday. Spokesmen said they also talked about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

American and British policies often have differed on their approaches to the Arab-Israeli dispute, but conferences in advance of the Eisenhower-Eden talks established agreement that that dispute had to be settled so the big threat of Soviet economic penetration into the strategic Middle East could be attacked. There was no advance agreement, however, on precisely how to cope with the problem.

The British are understood to be in accord with the Americans that the Arabs and Israelis must be made to understand their future lies with the West; that trying to do business with the Communists might cost them their freedom.

Adenauer Backs Eisenhower's Reply to Bulganin.

BONN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer's government indorsed "without reservations" yesterday President Eisenhower's proposals to the Soviet Union to ease cold war tensions.

In a special statement on the President's reply to Soviet Premier Bulganin's message last week, the government said:

"The (West German) federal government shares the view (expressed by Mr. Eisenhower) that the dangerous tension between the free world and the states of the Eastern bloc can only be eliminated when the cause is removed."

The Prague radio said Mr. Eisenhower rejected Bulganin's proposal for a United States-Soviet friendship pact because "American monopolists are afraid of friendship with the U.S.S.R."

"The world has not yet spoken the last word about this friendly proposal," the broadcast added.

BUS LOOP CONDEMNATION PLEA DENIED IN MAPLEWOOD

The City of Maplewood today was denied the right to condemn the City Limits Loop at Manchester and Yale avenues, Maplewood, for use as a municipal parking lot.

Circuit Judge Raymond E. LaDriere at Clayton ruled in favor of the Public Service Co., owner of the property, which opposed efforts of the Maplewood city government to condemn the property. The tract of land, fronting 100 feet on Manchester and 149 feet on Yale, is used as the southern terminus of the City Limits bus line and 110 trips a day operate from it.

The transit company contended the municipality had no right to condemn for public use property already devoted to public use as an off-street terminal facility.

JOE J. MANLOVE DIES

JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 31 (AP)—Joe J. Manlove, a Missouri Republican Congressman from 1923 to 1933, died at his home today. He had been ill since a stroke in 1954. He was 79 years old.

He was defeated in 1932 for re-election by Frank Lee of Joplin, Democrat, following a redistricting under which the Representative from this area was elected at large. Manlove sought to return to Congress again in 1954 but lost the Republican nomination to Dewey Short.

NATIONAL C. OF C. URGES 3 BILLION CUT IN U.S. TAXES

Chamber Is More Optimistic on Economic Outlook Than Eisenhower.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post Dispatch Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The United States Chamber of Commerce yesterday called for a three billion dollar cut in federal taxes.

The proposal marks a sharp break with President Eisenhower's hold-the-line tax policy. He has repeatedly said he cannot support a tax reduction because prospective budget surpluses are too "slim."

The chamber urged that the three billion dollar tax slash be spread among individual income, corporate income, and excise taxes in fiscal 1957—the year that begins next July 1. It said the recommendation was adopted by its board of directors at a week end meeting here.

The national business group proposed these cuts: Individual income taxes $1,700,000,000, corporate income taxes $800,000,000, and excises $500,000,000.

Budget Message.

Mr. Eisenhower told Congress in his budget message two weeks ago that the existing corporate and excise rates must be maintained if the administration is to reach its goal of a balanced budget.

"The Chamber contended that the government will have a budget surplus of "at least three billion dollars" in fiscal 1957. Mr. Eisenhower has forecast a surplus of only $400,000,000 and has taken the position that tax rates will have to be maintained at their present levels to achieve it.

"The difference between Mr. Eisenhower and the chamber appears to lie in their appraisal of the economic outlook.

"The chamber is more optimistic than the administration. It said it assumes that economic growth in 1956 will continue "at a normal pace, but perhaps somewhat more slowly than in 1955."

Corporate Profits.

Mr. Eisenhower has assumed that corporate profits will be no higher in 1956 than in 1955 and that personal income will flatten out at $312,500,000,000—just barely above the $312,-$312, 200 000 yearly rate in the fourth quarter of 1955.

Where Mr. Eisenhower forecast a surplus of $200,000,000 in fiscal 1956, the current year, the chamber predicted a surplus of $1,000,000,000. It said it will not propose that taxes be reduced in fiscal 1956.

The chamber recommended that the $1,700,000,000 cut in individual income taxes in fiscal 1957 be carried out "with special attention to smoothing out the hump in progression which occurres in the middle income brackets."

It suggested that the $800,000,000 reduction in the corporate income tax be accomplished by slicing the corporate tax rate "not less than two percentage points" below the current rate of 52 per cent. The rate is scheduled to decline automatically to 47 per cent April 1, but President Eisenhower has asked Congress to vote a one-year extension of the 52 per cent levy.

The chamber said the $500,000,000 cut in excise taxes should be applied to rates that were increased after the Korea fighting began.

ATKINSON HEADS NEW STATE G.O.P. FUND GROUP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31—A new state G.O.P. fund-raising committee, to be known as the United Republican Fund of Missouri, was organized here today at a meeting of 21 business men from throughout the state.

It was announced that Arthur K. Atkinson of St. Louis, president of the Wabash Railroad, had been named chairman of the party's new group, set up to co-ordinate the drives for Republican campaign funds.

The new group plans to employe a full-time paid executive director, and to set up a 12-man budget committee comprising six members from St. Louis, three from Kansas City and three from the outside areas. It also proposes to adopt a new fund-raising program, under which the proceeds will be devided among the national, state and local G.O.P. organizations.

WEST EUROPE HIT BY SNOW, COLDEST WEATHER OF YEAR

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Blizzards swept Western Europe today, bringing the coldest weather of the winter. Temperatures dropped 64 degrees below zero in northern Sweden.

Snow covered the northern part of the British Isles. Race meetings and sports events were canceled. Two houses collapsed under the weight of snow in Birmingham. Strong winds built up exceptionally high waves along France's Brittany coast.

$100,000,000 FLOOD LOAN BILL GOES TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—The House gave final congressional approval yesterday to a bill permitting the Government to lend an additional $100,000,000 to victims of floods and other natural disasters.

The bill now goes to President Eisenhower for signature.

The measure was an outgrowth of the recent northeast and west coast floods which exhausted the Small Business Administration's $25,000,000 disaster loan fund.

MOTHERS' MARCH ON POLIO THIS EVENING AT 6:30

The Mothers's March on Polio, concluding the March of Dimes campaign that began Jan. 3 on behalf of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will take place between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. today throughout St. Louis and St. Louis county.

Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann, March of Dimes chairman, said approximately 35,000 women would take part. He urged householders to sweep snow from doorsteps and sidewalks, and to turn on porchlights. Apartment residents were asked to tie a handkerchief on doorknobs.

A parade through the downtown area, held at noon today, included a float carrying a huge cardboard jar stuffed with "money," symbolizing donations to the campaign. Only marcher in the parade was Marine Technical Sgt. David Pryor, who earlier this month collected funds on a six-day, 206-mile hike. Other parade participants traveled by automobile.

Funds collected this evening will be taken to the Manchester Bank of St. Louis, 4015 Chouteau avenue, and the Bank of St. Louis, Ninth street and Washington avenue. Last year the Mothers's March on Polio collected $240,000.

GIRL BURNED IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT DEC. 22 DIES

Lorna Graul, 16-year-old St. Louis girl who was in a highway accident on Dec. 22, died last night at Barnes Hospital. She was severely burned when the truck in which she was riding ran off the road near Bonne Terre, and struck a filling station gasoline pump, spilling the fuel and causing it to be ignited.

The accident occurred on U.S. Highway 67. The truck was driven by John F. Ford, 17, of 7600 block of Vermont avenue, who told police he lost control of the machine. Miss Graul was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Graul, 3883 Walsh street. An inquest will be held.

STEVENSON GOES TO CALIFORNIA FOR 8-DAY TOUR

Folksy Approach on Whistle-Stop Trip Is Indicated — Kefauver Due Saturday.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson goes to California today, a step ahead of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee for his first intensive campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination.

California supporters sent a chartered airliner to fly the 1952 Democratic nominee to Sacramento for the start of an eight-day whistle-stop tour.

Stevenson's itinerary suggests emphasis on the folksy approach successfully applied by Kefauver in California and other primaries four years ago.

Kefauver plans to spend four days in California after both contenders deliver their only scheduled formal speeches before the California Democratic Council in Fresno Saturday.

The Democratic contest in the California primary June 5 is for the largest single bloc of national convention votes—68—of any of the three primaries in which Stevenson and Kefauver are opposed thus far. The other two states in which they will meet are Florida and Minnesota.

Kefauver entered 16 primaries in 1952; Stevenson sat them all out.

The Tennessee Senator easily won the California delegation last time. Stevenson's supporters say it will be different this year. Most of the state's top Democrats are backing Stevenson.

Stevenson said yesterday one of the fundamental issues of the 1956 presidential campaign will be the Republican practice of "misrepresentation, misleading people and moral duplicity."

He said at a Phoenix Press Club forum that campaign discussion also will center on what he called the problem of "special interests" and "an erratic policy of slogans, bluff and bluster."

He answered questions from the press club members on a wide range of subjects. Among them were:

Agriculture—"Ninety per cent price supports are an effective means in a time of declining farm prices . . . not as a long term solution." Stevenson said he felt President Eisenhower's administration had not made "a resourceful or adequate effort to get rid of farm surpluses."

Segregation—"Any good American believes in the judicial system of the United States. The Supreme Court has decided on points of law (in the school segregation cases). It's the law of the land. I support it and hope all Americans will see their way to support it in the course of time."

Secretary of State Dulles—Stevenson said "One of the things I hope to see a Secretary of State do would be not to talk so much."

DOWD FOR POLICE UNDERCOVER SQUAD

Says It Could Keep Tab on Officers and Deter Gangsters.

Formation of a special undercover intelligence unit in the St. Louis Police Department, to check activties of policemen as well as to serve as a deterrent to gangsters and racketeers, was suggested yesterday by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd.

An undercover squad, Dowd said, "could keep tab on the personal activities of police officers. When rumors that certain officers were living beyond their means were circulated, the undercover squad could get busy and determine the source of the funds."

Dowd said a special squad was largely responsible for uncovering bad police conditions in Los Angeles. Similar units are part of police departments elsewhere, he added.

In the war against gangsters and racketeers, police are frequently handicapped because detective are known to the hoodlums, and there is little chance of "undercover work." Dowd explained. Furthermore, there is a "new crop" of criminals with whom police are not familiar. He added that a special squad of 10 to 14 men would be adequate, and would impose no serious financial burden.

The circuit attorney's suggestion parallels one made recently by James W. Connor, operating director of the St. Louis Crime Commission. Discussing the murder of Robert L. Brown, tobacco firm operator and parliamentarian of the Board of Aldermen, Connor said the killing emphasized the need for a special investigating unit to detect efforts of gangsters to move in on legitimate business.

One motive advanced in the Brown murder was that racketeers tried to take over part of Brown's business, or halt its expansion.

The Board of Police Commissioners recently filed for future consideration a survey made of special intelligence units in other police departments. I. A. Long, board president, said no action would be taken at this time to establish a special undercover squad here.

'GREAT CRUSADE A RETREAT,' EAST SIDE DEMOCRATS HEAR

The Eisenhower Administration was accused of serving the interests of big business at the expense of small business men and farmers by United States Representative Ed Edmondson of Muskogee, Okla., in a Jackson day address last night at the Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis. About 600 persons paid $10 each to attend. The dinner was sponsored by the East St. Louis City Democratic Committee.

"The great crusade has turned into a retreat from a bipartisan foreign policy, expanding national economy, and responsible leadership of the free world," Edmondson said. "It is a crusade with the conscience of a corporation, marked by a give-away of natural resources and the awarding of defense contracts to big concerns."

Edmondson said that farm income has dropped 17 per cent under the Republican Administration while farm prices have fallen 18 per cent. Price supports in some instances, he said, have dropped as much as 75 per cent.

ISRAEL ASKS FOR ARMS TO MAKE MIDEAST STABLE

Eban Also Seeks Western Guarantees to Resist Efforts to Change Borders.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Israel's ambassador, Abba Eban, suggested yesterday the Middle East situation could be "stabilized" by American military aid to his country and Western guarantees to resist any attempt to alter existing frontiers by force.

The tense Middle East situation is one of the subjects being discussed by Britain's Prime Minister Eden in his current conversations here with President Eisenhower.

Eban told the Woman's National Democratic Club that it lies within the power of Western statesmen to take action that would end Israel-Arab tensions.

Stabilization could develop from equalizing the military balance in the Middle East and by throwing the weight of Western powers behind stabilization, he said.

"For four months, heavy offensive weapons from Soviet and British sources have poured into Egypt, while not a single item of equipment relevant to its new perils has been delivered to Israel," he said.

"We are almost stunned by surprise at this failure to reinforce our strength and our spirit in an hour of need. How can it possibly be justified?"

Eban last Wednesday, in a conference with Secretary of State Dulles, urged prompt and favorable action on his country's request for $50,000,000 in United States arms to offset Egypt's purchase of $80,000,000 worth of Communist weapons from Czechoslovakia.

He attributed the crisis in the Middle East to the hostility of the Arab world, the sudden intrusion of the Communists there and the resultant change in the balance of military power.

Hammarskjold Tells of Peace Pledge by Palestine Disputants.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary general, said today the leaders of countries directly concerned in the Palestine problem have reaffirmed their determination to abstain from hostilities and settle all conflicts by peaceful means.

The countries directly concerned are Israel and the surrounding Arab nations, participants in the Palestine war of 1948.

Hammarskjold, now visiting in Karachi, Pakistan, made his report in a statement released by the U.N. Palestine truce organization headquarters in Jerusalem.

Hammarskjold said that, as a result of "full and frank" talks with Middle East statesmen on his recent swing through this area, he feels all concerned recognize the importance of a settlement.

Meanwhile, in Beirut, Lebanon proposed last night that the Arab ambassadors in Washington draft a joint note asking President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden to take no action on Palestine "without consulting the Arab states." The proposal was made by Foreign Minister Salim Lahhoud at a meeting here with envoys of the Arab nations.

Anti-Proton, 'Missing Link' Of Universe, Proved to Exist

By WILLIAM L. LAURENCE

The New York Times News Service.

(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The first definite proof of the existence of the anti-proton, the electrically negative counterpart of the positive proton was announced here yesterday. It is one of the two fundamental constituents of the nuclei of all atoms.

The negative proton was the long-sought "missing link" of the universe. All nuclear particles so far observed have been found to exist in three forms electrically positive, electrically negative and electrically neutral. Yet the nuclei of the atoms of which the material universe is made appeared to consist of only two particles of about the same mass—the positive proton and the neutral neutron.

The negative proton, known as the anti-proton, was the missing link that stood as a challenge to the concept of the basic symmetry of nature, every known fundamental unit in it being counterbalanced by an opposite "mirror-image."

California U. Team

The announcement was made at the annual New York meeting of the American Physical Society by Prof. Owen Chamberlain, a member of a team of physicists at the University of California, where a particle believed to be the elusive anti-proton was produced last October with the world's most powerful atom-smasher, known as the bevatron.

All the preliminary observations of the newly created particle, produced in the bevatron out of pure energy, indicated that the elusive "nuclear ghost" of the atomic World had at last materialized itself. It was not until now that the clinching confirmation of the new particle's identity had been obtained.

The final identification was achieved in a cosmic flash that lasted only 100 sextillionths of a second. In that infinitesimal interval, in which time was figuratively made to stand still, the anti-proton left its imprint, in the form of a "star," on a highly sensitive photographic emulsion.

Debris From Collision.

This star was the cosmic debris left in the wake of the collision of the negative proton with a positive proton in the nucleus of the silver or bromine in the photographic emulsion. That collision resulted in the total annihilation of the positive proton and the "suicide" of the negative particle of the same mass.

On the basis of energy release per nuclear particle, the energy released by the total annihilation of a negative and positive proton is about 2300 times as great as the energy per particle released in the fission of a single uranium or plutonium atom in the course of the explosion of an atomic bomb.

Dr. Chamberlain emphasized, however, that there was no possibility of using the anti-proton to produce a super bomb more powerful than atomic or hydrogen bombs. The reason is that it takes as much energy to create an anti-proton as is produced when it annihilates itself in collision with a positive proton.

INCREASE IN DUCK POPULATION HAILED

Expert Says Total Isn't Likely to Drop Again to Low of 1930s.

Duck-breeding areas in Canada have been developed so much that North America's waterfowl population probably will never drop as low as it did in the 1930s, Rennie M. Harley, western manager for Ducks Unlimited (Canada), said here last night.

Harley, speaking at the Missouri Duck Hunters Association's annual meeting at Hotel Kingsway, said another good hunting season was in prospect for next fall, based on early conditions in the nesting areas.

Conservation projects designed to conserve wildlife had been started in Canada before population growth made such efforts too difficult, Harley stated.

"When the United States was developing, little or no thought was given to conservation," he said. "In Canada, where there are still only 16,000,000 people, it is not too late.

"Now is the time for this duck-breeding territory to be saved for the future. With what we've already done, it appears unlikely, other factors remaining the same, that the number of ducks will ever go down as low as in the 1930s."

Ducks Unlimited, an organization begun 19 years ago and supported by contributions from sportsmen in the United States and Canada, is working on a "permanent insurance" program for ducks by providing enough water areas in the northern breeding grounds to offset effects of future drouths, Harley said.

Discussing hunters' prospects of again seeing large numbers of ducks next fall, he stated: "We have had a fair carry-over of water in our lakes from last fall. The snowfall has been good. It looks now as if there will be a very satisfactory duck production."

Eugene R. Kropp, a vice president of Union Electric Co., was elected president of the Missouri Duck Hunters Association, succeeding C. R. Culling. Other officers elected were August W. Hager, vice president, and William Newman, secretary-treasurer.

DEFENSE COUNCIL URGED FOR CENTRAL AMERICA

ANTIGUA, Guatemala, Jan. 31 (AP)—Formation of a Central American Defense Council was proposed yesterday at the opening session of the first Central American defense ministers' meeting.

Guillermo Trabanino of El Salvador, general secretary of the Organization of Central American States, made the proposal in his inaugural address. He suggested the council include Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Honduras. These nations are represented at the current sessions.

Trabanino also called for a united front in Central America "in order to deal with maneuvers of Marxist infiltration."

NIGERIAN LEADERS HEAR QUEEN HAIL STEPS FOR UNITY

LAGOS, Nigeria, Jan. 31 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, her ivory satin gown glittering with diamonds, made a stately appearance in Nigeria's House of Representatives today.

She received loyal addresses from Nigerian leaders. Then, from a throne-like chair, she expressed her concern for Nigeria's welfare. She was accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, in white admiral's uniform, who sat on a lower chair beside her.

"The history of Nigeria as an united country is short," the queen said. "Yet there is already much in it to praise. . . . I wish on this historic occasion to make particular mention of those of all races who have brought this country so far along the road of its high destiny."

The new House of Representatives building symbolizes Nigeria's efforts to unite many factions and regions in this land of 30,000,000 inhabitants.

6 NEGROES FINED FOR GOLFING ON WHITE COURSE

North Carolina Defendants Plan to Appeal, Possibly to U.S. Supreme Court.

GREENSBORO, N.C., Jan. 31 (AP) — Six Negroes fined for playing golf on a segregated course here plan to appeal, possibly to the United States Supreme Court.

They were convicted yesterday in municipal-county court of trespassing last Dec. 7 on the Gillespie Park golf course. Each defendant was fined $15 and costs, and each filed notice of appeal to Guilford County (Greensboro) Superior Court.

The Gillespie course was established as a municipal course for use of white players. It was transferred several years ago to private operators. There is a city-operated golf course for Negroes here.

The defendants were charged after they played nine holes. They had offered to pay a greens fee but were told that they could not play. Judge William Poteat noted in his written ruling that the defendants did not deny going on the property after they had been refused permission.

He added: "Nowhere in our heritage do I find any sanction for a breach of the peace, for a usurpation of the law by an individual or a violation of the criminal code to assert an assumed personal right or privilege."

Brawl Interrupts Chattanooga Concert and Dance.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 31 (AP)—A brawl between Negro dancers and white spectators interrupted a concert and dance here last night. Three white persons and three Negroes were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

The entertainment, which featured Roy Hamilton, Negro singer, was primarily for Negroes, but a special section of Memorial Auditorium was reserved for white spectators. It was estimated 3000-4000 Negroes and more than 1000 white persons were present.

Police said the affray was touched off when a Negro member of the Hamilton troupe sat down in the dress circle, an area surrounding the dance floor and reserved for the white spectators. Another Negro tried to remove him and the two began fighting, officers said.

Negro dancers joined in the brawl and bottle throwing by both races began. Police dispersed the crowd in about an hour and made the arrests.

Blast Damages Home of Alabama Negro Minister.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31 (AP)—An explosion last night damaged the home of a Negro minister who is a leader in the prolonged boycott of the city's transportation system. Police said a hand grenade or dynamite caused the blast.

The protest movement against segregation laws was touched off by a $14 fine against Mrs. Rosa Parks, a Negro who refused to move to the rear of a bus.

The Rev. M. L. King was not at home when the explosion occurred. His wife, their 7-week-old daughter and Mrs. Roscoe Williams, a neighbor, were in the home when they heard a thud. They ducked into a back room just as the explosion shattered windows, ripped a hole in the porch and cracked a porch column.

Arriving home 15 minutes later from a mass meeting at a church, the Rev. Mr. King asked about 300 Negroes gathered outside his home to be "peaceful."

"Don't get panicky," he said. "Don't get your weapons. He who lives by the sword will perish by the sword."

The City Commission offered a reward for information leading to the conviction of those responsible for the bombing.

Mayor W. A. Gayle, also on the scene, told the Negroes that the "entire white community is for law and order and none of us condones or believes in this sort of acts."

A police guard was stationed at the parsonage.

The Rev. Mr. King, 27-year-old pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church, was fined $14 last Saturday for driving 30 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. He denied the charge and laid his arrest to Mayor Gayle's statement that the City Commission was through "pussy-footing around" with boycotters.

KOREA GENERAL'S ASSASSINS REPORTED IN THE ROK FORCES

SEOUL, Jan. 31 (AP)—The two assassins who shot and killed South Korea's chief of counter-intelligence Monday are "both serving in the Republic of Korea military forces," a police official said today.

He said they "are definitely inside Seoul, under apparent protection of some influential circles, and will probably be arrested within 24 hours." He declined to identify them or their protectors.

Maj. Gen. Kim Chang Yong, a friend of President Syngman Rhee, was shot three times as he was leaving home for work. After his death, Rhee promoted him to lieutenant general. A military funeral will be Friday.

NAVADA'S GAMBLING TAX INCOME MORE THAN DOUBLES

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 31 (AP)—Nevada collected a record $4,750,144 in revenue from the gambling industry in 1955, the State Tax Commission announced today.

Commission Secretary Robbins Cahill said that more than doubled the record of $2,203,483 set in 1954. The big jump resulted partially from an increase in the tax rate.

CHARLES A. SIMON, 100, DIES IN FALL DOWN STEPS

Charles A. Simon, 100 years old, 315 Dickson street, Kirkwood, died yesterday in a fall down the basement steps of his home.

Mrs. Ruth Trask, his daughter who lived with him, said Mr. Simon had been in excellent health. On his 100th birthday last June 6, he recalled Union troops marching through Paducah, Ky., and other aspects of the Civil War and reconstruction period. He was born in Louisville, Ky., and spent his boyhood in Paducah. Mr. Simon came to St. Louis about 70 years ago and soon was head of his own firm, the St. Louis Architectural Iron Co. He retired in 1926.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Bopp undertaking establishment, 131 West Argonne drive, Kirkwood. Burial will be in Paducah. Other survivors are two sons, Emory P. Simon of Kirkwood and Daniel Simon of Tulsa, Okla.

SAYS INTEGRATION MEANS COMPETITION

Eisenhower Aid Asserts Feeling of Racial Inferiority Is Stumbling Block.

A feeling of racial inferiority among many Negroes is the "greatest stumbling block in the minority group's crusade for first class citizenship," E. Frederic Morrow, administrative officer of the special projects group in President Eisenhower's executive office, said here last night.

Morrow, who spoke at the fifth annual awards banquet of the Mound City Press Club at the Claridge Hotel, said the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools and other such favorable decisions are only "mirages" unless the feeling of inferiority among Negroes is eliminated.

"We have come into an era in which many of the barriers are down, and are approaching a time when a man's worth will be determined by what he can contribute to America." Morrow, a Negro, declared. "The only key to open the door of opportunity will be ability."

Integration, the official asserted, means competition, and a Negro who aspires to succeed must expect ruthless competition in his quest for a place in American life. America needs the most competent and well-equipped persons, and this can be achieved only through preparation, he said.

Morrow, a graduate of the Rutgers University School of Law and former field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the 16,000,000 Negroes in the United States spend 15 billion dollars annually. Instead of spending so much on material things, they should give more for education and civil rights, he said.

"If the Negro is to become free, he must be willing to sweat and toil and sacrifice," he declared. "We have reached the point of manhood status where the fight for first class citizenship must be done by us. Until the Negro wins the fight, all lavish displays of things which dignify the free man avail us nothing."

Awards were presented to John C. Baine, president of Public Service Co., for "establishing in a public utility a democratic concept in employment"; Mrs. Valla Abbington, for "unselfish community service and sincere devotion to her fellowman," and Stephen W. Duncan, reporter, and William B. Franklin, photographer, both of the St. Louis Argus, for "exemplary on-the-spot coverage of the Emmett Till trial" in Mississippi.

Special awards were received by Morrow for "outstanding personal achievement in the tradition of a free America" and the Metropolitan Church Federation for the "manifestation of bold leadership in developing the true Christian ideal among all people in this area."

ICC APPROVES 15 PCT. RISE FOR RAIL REFRIGERATION

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized a 15 per cent increase in railroad charges for refrigeration services on perishable foods.

Acting on a request of practically all of the railroads in the country for a general 30 per cent increase, the commission said a rise in excess of 15 per cent was not justified.

It refused to apply the increases to shipments moving in mechanical refrigerator cars. It said there was insufficient evidence for an increase for other than services involving ice and salt.

The increases may be made effective on 30 days' notice to the public and will produce an additional $6,000,000 a year in revenue for the railroads.

81 Houses Lost in Fire.

MAEBASHI CITY, Japan, Jan. 31 (AP)—Fire destroyed 81 houses here today, then spread to nearby forests. It was controlled in the city, 50 miles northwest of Tokyo, after a 3½-hour fight but 80 Japanese soldiers were still fighting the forest blaze tonight. No casualties were reported.

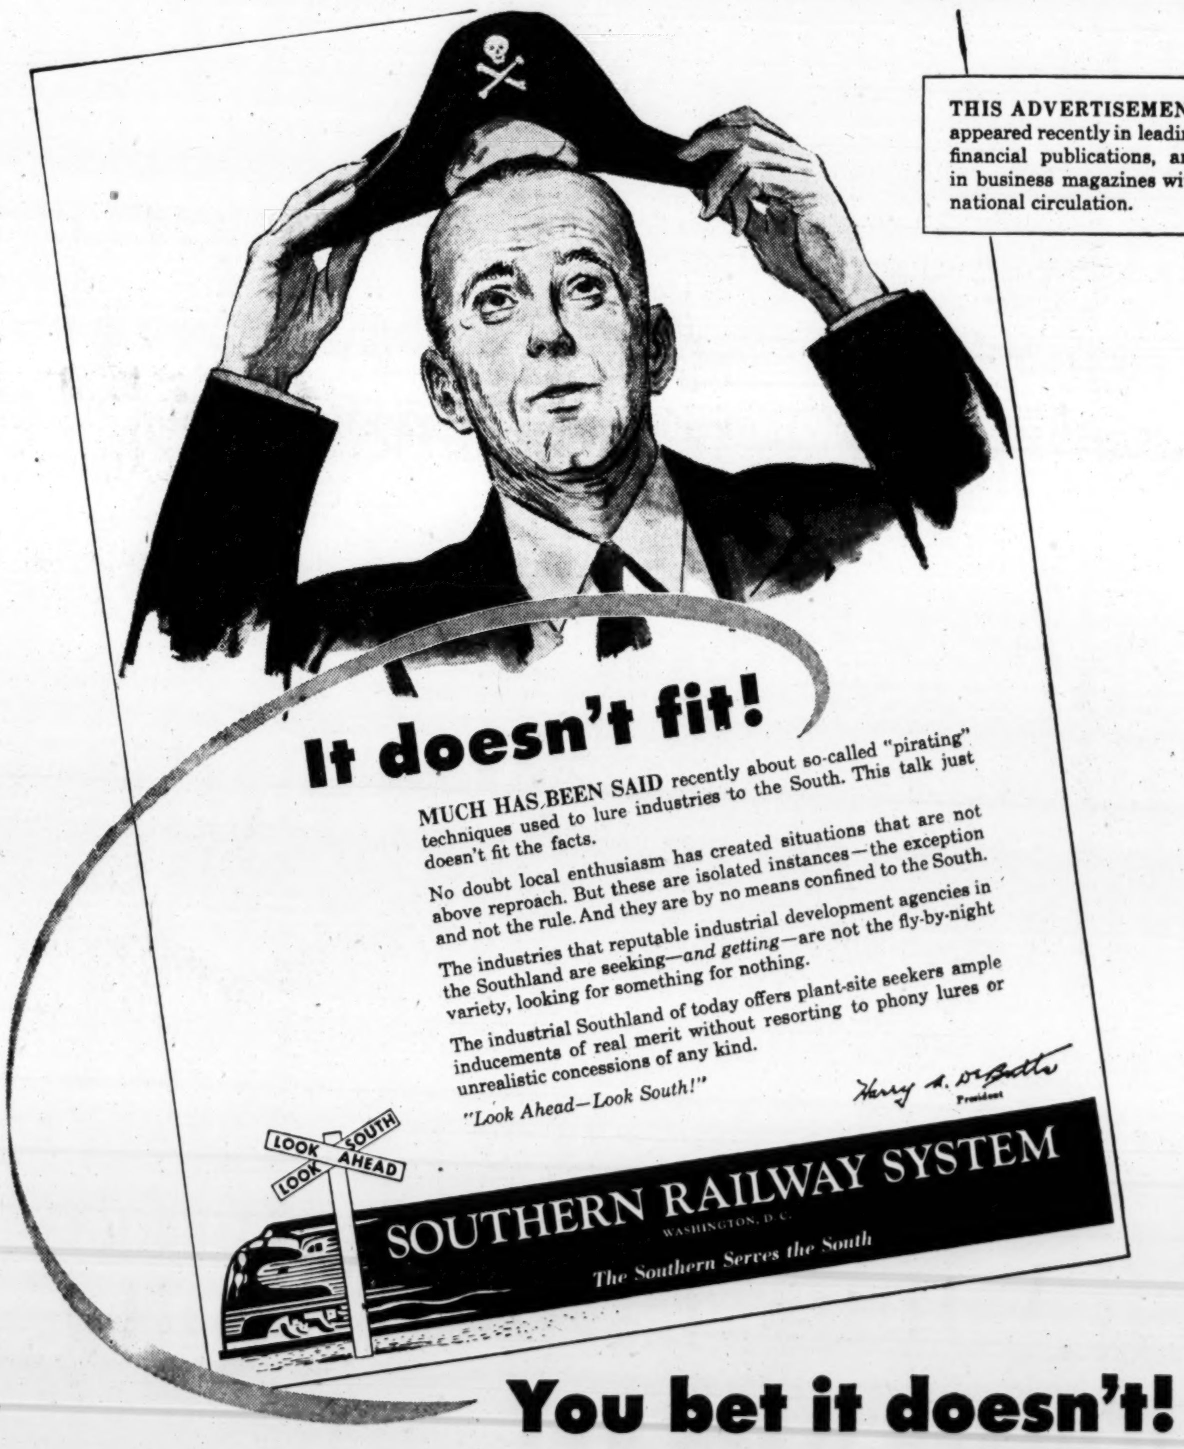
THIS ADVERTISEMENT appeared recently in leading financial publications, and in business magazines with national circulation.



It doesn't fit!

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID recently about so-called "pirating" techniques used to lure industries to the South. This talk just doesn't fit the facts.

No doubt local enthusiasm has created situations that are not above reproach. But these are isolated instances—the exception and not the rule. And they are by no means confined to the South.

The industries that reputable industrial development agencies in the Southland are seeking—and getting—are not the fly-by-night variety, looking for something for nothing.

The industrial Southland of today offers plant-site seekers ample inducements of real merit without resorting to phony lures or unrealistic concessions of any kind.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
The Southern Serves the South

You bet it doesn't!

THERE HAS BEEN some loose talk lately accusing the South and its industrial development agencies of using and endorsing practically any type of tactics in order to attract industries from other regions. You know and we know that "blanket accusations" of this kind pointing a finger of criticism at the entire Southland not only are unfair—they simply are not true.

Yet, talk of this sort is often picked up and passed on and on. That's why we felt impelled to "speak up"—in the national advertisement reproduced above.

The modern Southland has many enthusiastic spokesmen. We are proud to be one of them. It is still another way we can give meaning to our slogan "The Southern Serves the South."

SPEAKER TELLS HOW YOUNG GANGS GROW

Finds Such City Groups Resist Adults and Their Institutions.

"The problem of city youth, and a danger facing civilization, is youth's failure to accept and live by our adult notions," William H. Brueckner, settlement worker of Chicago, said in an address here yesterday.

Brueckner, executive director of the Chicago Commons Association, which operates settlement houses, spoke at the annual meeting of the City Mission Society of the Episcopal Church Diocese of Missouri. The meeting was held at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1210 Locust street.

Brueckner said the problem of juvenile delinquency is enormous. "It is not something new," he added, "but began 40 or 50 years ago, and still is increasing.

"What begins as a small friendship group of boys on a street corner,'" Brueckner said, "may develop into what we call a city gang, secretive and independent. The crowd of youth feels a sense of power and resists us adults and our institutions.

"These city youth look on high school as a period of detainment from something more important. They are interested in 'education by doing.'"

The American middle class suffers from a "culture conflict" with its youth, Brueckner said. "Our life aim is so high," he said, "that it often is difficult for youth to live up to it. Many of the demands made upon youth in our preaching, teaching, and at home are simply too high."

One cause of difficulty in dealing with the problem of youth, Brueckner said, "is our own emotional fear of aging. We envy youth.

"Another trouble is that we can't quite accept our own notion of freedom. We want to say to youth, 'This is not for you to do.'

"Parents who say they are 'afraid of losing their children' are never much help in dealing with youth."

Brueckner urged federal aid to education on a long-term basis. "Give youth a chance to work in civic projects," he said.

Swedish Refinery Fire.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 31 (AP) — Fire destroyed nearly a fourth of Sweden's biggest oil refinery last night. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. Officials of the refinery at Nynashamn, 25 miles south of Stockholm, said sabotage was suspected.

CENTRAL AIRLINES WELCOMED TO CITY

Officials Greeted by Mayor —Scheduled Flights Start Tomorrow.

Central Airlines was officially welcomed to St. Louis yesterday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker at a reception in honor of the company's president and officials from Arkansas.

The line begins scheduled flights tomorrow from St. Louis to Fayetteville and Fort Smith, Ark., and to McAlester, Okla., and Paris, Sherman, Denison, Dallas and Forth Worth, Tex.

Keith Kahle, president of Central; Claude Carpenter, administrative assistant to Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, and Mayors H. R. Hestand of Fort Smith and Roy Scott of Fayetteville arrived here on a special flight. They were greeted at Lambert Field by Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Conway B. Briscoe, chairman of the City Airport Commission.

The group was taken to Hotel Chase where they were greeted by Tucker at the reception. Tucker said he hoped many more such occasions would take place as St. Louis becomes more and more a center of airline travel.

Kahle said his company has been trying for six years to get permission to serve the St. Louis area. He said other routes from St. Louis to Oklahoma are presently being sought.

COUNTY JURY RESUMING ASSESSMENT INVESTIGATION

An investigation into the handling of real estate assessments by the office of County Assessor Philip G. Deuser was to be resumed today by the St. Louis county grand jury.

Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz said Roy Wenzlick, a partner in Roy Wenzlick and Co.; A. D. Elkins, secretary of Doane Agricultural Service, and August F. Rumping, Deuser's chief deputy, have been invited to appear today as witnesses.

The Wenzlick and Doane firms have been chosen by the County Council to conduct a parcel-by-parcel revaluation of all county real estate. The State Tax Commission last winter ordered average level of real estate assessments in the county increased to 30 per cent of true value.

RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS WATCH DR. SALK GIVE POLIO SHOTS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Four Russian scientists watched Dr. Jonas E. Salk and his team give booster shots of anti-paralytic polio vaccine to 270 school children yesterday.

"Dr. Salk certainly performs most skillfully," one of the Russians remarked as youngsters at Colfax school received inoculations.

The Soviet scientists, on a tour of United States, arrived here Saturday for a five-day visit with Dr. Salk to study his polio vaccine.

Members of the party are Drs. Mikhail P. Chumakov, director of Russia's Polio Research Institute; Anatoli A. Smorodintsev, virus chief of the Institute of Experimental Medicine; Lev I. Lukin of the Leningrad Academy of Medical Science, and Marina K. Voroshilova, senior research worker at the Polio Research Institute.

Tighten Costs, Hold Profits Down, Benson Tells Packers

Secretary Says Farmer 'Is Bearing More Than the Full Brunt' of Price Decline.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson told meat packers today "to tighten up your costs" because he said the farmer "is bearing more than the full brunt of the price decline."

Benson said the Department of Agriculture is stepping up its pork buying program in an effort to bolster hog prices, and will do everything possible to help develop new markets abroad.

"However," he added in a speech to the National Swine Industry Committee, "we do not intend to contribute to the problems of livestick farmers by approving any program for the Government to purchase and store vast quantities of meat products for which it has no visible outlet."

Benson told packer representatives on the industry committee, which also includes producer spokesmen, that he has been "extremely concerned" because marketing margins have been rising while farm hog prices declined.

Saying he realized that wage scales and freight rates have advanced, Benson said these higher costs had been offset in part by increased volume "and all the farmer has gotten . . . has been low prices and sharply reduced income."

"I want to speak very bluntly with you," he said. "I urge you in industry to tighten up your costs. Keep your profits and margins in line with the historic pattern of a large volume, small margin industry . . . the livestock farmer is bearing more than the full brunt of price decline at a time when his costs are going up.

"This is no time to take advantage of the American farmer. As a nation, we simply cannot afford to let him carry the full brunt of increased processing and distribution costs, yes even increased profits, in other sectors of the meat industry.

"I state emphatically that I will not stand idly by during such times without defending the farmer with every means at my disposal."

House Votes to Exempt Earm Fuel From Tax.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The House today voted 387 to 0 to give farmers a $60,000,000 annual tax saving by exempting them from the federal tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline used on their farms.

Proposed by President Eisenhower as one of the nine points of his farm relief program, the bill was passed by a roll call vote with both Democrats and Republicans seeking to claim credit. It now goes to the Senate.

Farmers will pay the tax when buying gasoline but can file claims with the Treasury for refunds. The claim period was set at June 30-Sept. 30 of each year, with initial refunds to be made for the first six months of this year.

The bill came to the floor under suspension of the rules. The required two-thirds majority became academic with everybody voting for it.

MANILA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Authorities on tiny Camiguin island off northern Mindanao have alerted the population for possible evacuation as the volcano Hibok Hibok stirs uneasily. A government volcanologist reports 26 tremors since last Thursday.

Hibok Hibok killed hundreds three years ago with showers of red hot lava and ashes.

COOPER FAVORS INCREASE IN U.S. FUNDS FOR INDIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—John Sherman Cooper, United States Ambassador to India, said today it is "very important" that the United States continue a "reasonable" economic and technical aid program for India.

The former Kentucky Senator, home for consultation, discussed the Indian situation in a two-hour closed meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I feel it is very important that the United States recognize the importance of India," Cooper said afterward. "We must do all we can to help them."

Cooper would not discuss his recommendations to the committee, but indicated he advocated an increase in United States aid funds for the coming year.

He said there is no question that Russia's Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev made a great impression on the Indians in their recent "goodwill" tour.

NEW HEARINGS ORDERED ON MANSURE, NICKEL PLANT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—A House subcommittee ordered renewed hearings today on what Chairman Jack Brooks (Dem.) Texas, called "basic conflicts in testimony" involving the role of Edmund F. Mansure, General Services Administrator, in the big Government Nicaro Nickel plant expansion in Cuba.

Brooks said Randall Cremer, vice president of the Frederick Snare Corp., would be recalled next week for questioning among other things about his testimony that Mansure recommended a Chicago political supporter for insurance brokerage stemming from the nickel job.

Mansure denied under oath that he recommended the Chicago Republican leader, William J. Balmer, as broker. Balmer in turn swore that his firm got two-thirds of the insurance brokerage without any special help from Mansure.

Brooks said that besides Cremer, Mansure and perhaps others would be asked for further testimony before the House Special Government Activities subcommittee.

DIVORCED MOTHER OF 12 GIVES BIRTH TO TRIPLETS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—A divorced mother of 12 children, who gave birth to twins last year, became the mother of triplet sons yesterday.

The new arrivals brought the family of Mrs. Huldah Vos, 39 years old, to 11 boys and three girls. One girl died at the age of eight months 13 years ago.

Mrs. Vos said she and her husband, Peter, were divorced last Nov. 25.

GEN. KILPATRICK HEADS CITIZENS FOR EISENHOWER

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Brig. Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick (ret.), board chairman of the Madison Squarden Garden Corp., today announced acceptance of the chairmanship of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Organization.

The organization functioned during the 1952 campaign and was reactivated this month in a letter sent to some 40,000 former supporters by Gen. Lucius D. Clay (ret.), former cabinet member Oveta Culp Hobby and New York Banker Sidney J. Weinberg. National officers are at 45 East 47th street in Manhattan.

PRESIDENT OK'S TAX FINANCING OF ROAD PROGRAM

Abandons Bond Plan in Recognition of Opposition of Democratic Leaders.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower today approved a plan to finance his highway contruction program through pay-as-you-go taxation. He abandoned his earlier plan for financing it was bonds.

House Republican leader Martin of Massachusetts announced the President's decision. He said it was made in recognition of a practical situation in Congress—refusal of the Democratic leadership to accept the bond program.

Martin said after the Republican congressional leaders' weekly conference with Mr. Eisenhower that the President decided to yield on the issue because he wants the highway construction program to get under way.

Good Chance of Passage.

In response to a question Martin told reporters at the White House that he believes the new program has a "good chance" of winning approval in Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower's choice, Martin said, was either to "give up the roads" or go along with the Democrats' program.

He said House Speaker Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, and other Democratic members of the House made their position clear at a conference at the Capitol last week.

Replying to questions, Martin emphasized that the new program means higher taxes to finance road building. He added it would be up to the House Ways and Means Committee to decide just how to raise the money.

Democrats have introduced a bill calling for an outlay of 51½ billion dollars for federal and federal-state highway construction in 13 years. Estimates on the measure's cost to motorists and truckers in additional taxes range from 10 to 18 billion dollars.

Leaders of the two parties met in closed session Friday and reached general agreement on a pay-as-you-go plan.

Participants said there appeared to be no disagreement on the proposal to boost the present 2 cents per gallon gasoline tax by a penny. There still was a question among the conferees on whether to go for 1 cent or for 2 cents more on top of the present 2 cent diesel fuel levy.

Speaker Rayburn said at that time that new taxes likely would be laid on camelback, used in retreading tires, and on tubeless tires. He said he would favor increasing the levy more on big tires than on those used on pleasure cars.

4 FROM U.S., 6 OTHERS DIE IN VENEZUELAN AIR CRASH

CARACAS, Jan. 31 (UP)—The wreckage of a private plane carrying 10 persons, including four from the United States, was found on a mountain in a remote part of Venezuela today. There were no survivors.

The plane was piloted by Charles P. Boughan, American who flew with the British Royal Air Force during World War II and once was former Egyptian King Farouk's private pilot. Also reported aboard were his wife, Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Edgerton, of Stamford, Conn.; a passenger named Rossetti Gausetta, and five Venezuelans.

Boughan was en route to Caracas from Angel Falls in his twin-engined Beechcraft when he and his party disappeared last Saturday. He operated a tent camp for tourists at Canaima, near the falls. The last report from his plane said one engine had failed.

Mrs. Edgerton was a former member of the Connecticut House of Representatives.

$20,000,000 GUIDED MISSILE PROGRAM AT LOCKHEED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—The Lockheed Aircraft Corp. will spend $20,000,000 in the next three years for expansion of its guided missiles program, it was announced here today by President Robert E. Gross.

At the same time it was disclosed that the company will construct new research laboratories on a 22-acre site leased from Stanford University at Palo Alto, and also will create a new missiles base near there at Sunnyvale, Calif.

The Lockheed division in Van Nuys has been under the general supervision of Hall L. Hibbard, Lockheed vice president, since the resignation of Lt. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, U.S.A.F., ret. His resignation over policy was followed by the resignation of a grou pof top scientists.

WOMAN, MAN FOUND DEAD AFTER SHOVELING SNOW

Mrs. Gertrude Dreifus, a seamstress, 3832 Wilmington avenue, and John Henry Koesters, retired, 5206 Grace avenue, were found dead yesterday a short time after they had been shoveling snow.

Police found Mrs. Dreifus, 65 years old, in the backyard of her home. A snow shovel and flashlight were beside the body. Koesters, 84, collapsed and died in the kitchen of his home after he had been outside shoveling snow. His wife said he had been under a doctor's care for a heart condition.

Valle Emil Feltz Jr., student, 4454 Mohegan drive, Affton, suffered multiple fractures of his left ankle last night when he fell from a sled on Art Hill in Forest Park. He was taken to Deaconess Hospital.

HOMICIDE VERDICT AGAINST FATHER IN SHOOTING OF BOY

Anthony Bellinger, a brewery worker, was named in a verdict of homicide today by a coroner's jury, following an inquest in the killing of his 12-year-old son, Donald, in their home, 729 Fillmore street, last Saturday. His wife, Hazel, shot four times, is in City Hospital in serious condition.

Policemen testified that Mrs. Bellinger told them her husband shot her and the boy, but she gave no reason for the shooting. The officers said a woman friend of Mrs. Bellinger told them of a conversation in which Mrs. Bellinger said her husband "made trouble when he isn't working, and when he drinks." Two sons, Arthur and Robert Bellinger, testified their father had made no threats and they did not know he owned a pistol.

Bellinger did not testify on advice of counsel. Police testified that when they arrested him shortly after the shooting he was "belligerent," but did not appear drunk. They said he expressed regret that "Donald had to get it." Bellinger has been charged with murder in a warrant issued by the circuit attorney.

BIDS ON CONVERSION OF CLAY TENNIS COURTS

Bids on conversion of 37 clay tennis courts in nine city parks to all-weather courts with asphaltic surfaces at an estimated cost of $125,000 will be received by the Board of Public Service March 6. Funds for the project will come from the $110,639,000 bond issue voted last year for public improvements.

Parks in which the all-weather courts will be constructed and the number of courts to be paved in each are: Carondelet, five; Francis, six; Marquette, three; Sublette, four; Forest, four; Sherman, two; Tandy, four; Fairgrounds, five, and O'Fallon, four.

The Board of Public Service granted permission to the Public Service Co. to revise looping of the north terminus of the Union bus line. Busses, which now turn around at the intersection of Union boulevard and West Florissant avenue, will go east in West Florissant to Geraldine avenue, south to Harney avenue and west to Union.

HOLDUP VICTIM SHOT BY ROBBER IN PISTOL DUEL

One of Two Thieves Believed Wounded Also as Filling Station Man Opens Fire.

William Kellow, attendant at Thoni's Gas & Oil Co.'s filling station, 4610 Page boulevard, was wounded last night in an exchange of shots with one of two holdup men who robbed him of $45. One of the robbers was thought to have been shot also but made his escape.

Kellow and his wife, Judith, were in the station when a man came in and asked for change for a dollar bill. Short in stature, the man was followed by a taller companion who pushed him hard against Kellow, knocking the attendant to the floor with the short man on top.

In the struggle, the short man took $45 from Kellow's pocket. As the robber stood up, Kellow produced a .32 caliber revolver from his pocket and began firing. The tall man returned the fire, one of the bullets grazing the right side of Kellow's chest.

The tall man was observed to clutch his stomach as if shot, but he and his companion managed to flee. Both were Negroes. Mrs. Kellow was not injured. Her husband was taken to City Hospital.

Mrs. Uthel Redman, 1324 Goodfellow boulevard, was robbed of $130 when her purse was snatched while she was shopping in a 10-cent store at 6108 Easton avenue last night.

She told police she had placed a shopping bag on the floor and her purse on the bag. She said she saw a Negro man pick up the purse and run. Despite her cries, he got through the door and fled down a nearby alley.

'VOODOO' JET REFUELED FIRST TIME IN FLIGHT

The first in flight refueling of the F-101A "Voodoo," the new supersonic jet fighter being manufactured by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. for the Air Force, was accomplished earlier this month, it was announced today.

The refueling operation was conducted by a crew of airmen from the 340th Bomb Wing of the Eighth Air Force stationed at Whiteman Air Force Base, Sedalia, Mo., after a mission-briefing session with project personnel at the McDonnell plant at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Crews of the Voodoo and the KC-97 tanker plane which assisted in the refueling operation experimented with aerial refueling techniques for three hours, during which time several hookups between the planes were effected.

TWO FUGITIVES SENTENCED ON U.S. AUTO THEFT CHARGES

William J. Marlowe and Harry E. Farr, both of whom escaped from the Ohio penitentiary at London, O., were sentenced to five years in federal prison today by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham in East St. Louis. They pleaded guilty to charges of transporting a stolen automobile across a state line.

Marlowe, of Battle Creek, Mich., and Farr, of Xenia, O., fled the penitentiary on Nov. 12. They were arrested by federal agents in Belleville after having stolen two cars. Farr was serving a sentence for embezzlement and Marlowe was serving a term for theft at the time of their escape. It was Farr's third escape from confinement.

HUSBAND FINDS WOMAN FATALLY SHOT IN HOME

The body of Mrs. Edward T. Fuchs, 206 Eldridge avenue, Rock Hill, was found by her husband last night in the basement of their home, with a bullet wound in the head and a .32 caliber rifle lying across her body.

Fuchs told Rock Hill police his wife had been under treatment for a nervous condition for the last four months, but that she had been in good spirits when he last saw her at noon yesterday. Fuchs is employed as a clerk in a grocery in Webster Groves, and his wife also worked there.

YOUTHFUL INDIAN REDS HEAR TALK BY BILLY GRAHAM

NEW DELHI, Jan. 31 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, continuing his tour of India, drove 150 miles yesterday from Kottayam to Palayamkottai, where he is scheduled to address a public meeting tonight.

The drive was interrupted at several points. At Putthanpuram townspeople gathered to serve Graham a roadside breakfast. In one small village the people erected a road block to halt Graham's party and give him bananas.

At one point Graham stepped from his automobile to deliver a brief sermon to a group of 40 or so parading Red-shirted Communist youths. Graham told them Christ and Christianity are the best answer to world problems.

CHINESE INTENDS TO STAY IN HONG KONG

Former Missouri Mental Patient Does Not Want to Go to Mainland.

HONG KONG, Jan. 31 (AP)—A Chinese recently released from a Missouri mental hospital to return to his home in Red China said he did not want to go to the mainland when he arrived in Hong Kong today.

Liu Yung-ming, 36 years old, told newsmen he is a resident of Hong Kong and intends to remain here. His father, wife and 7-year-old daughter live in Hong Kong.

Surprised British immigration authorities said they would allow Liu to stay while they investigated his residency claim.

Liu, who had been a patient in Missouri State Hospital at Farmington since 1949, denied Red charges that he had been mistreated while in the United States.

"I was free to go anywhere I wanted," he declared.

Liu went to the United States as a student in 1948 before the Communists took over the Chinese mainland and undertook studies at the University of Missouri in 1949. He went to the mental hospital suffering from chronic schizophrenia May 1949.

Red Chinese authorities recently charged that Liu and 37 other Chinese students were being detained in America in violation of an American-Chinese agreement reached at Geneva four months ago on exchanging nationals of each country.

United States immigration officials said Liu's deportation actually had been ordered in 1951 but he had been unable to get the British transport visa required for Hong Kong, entry point to Red China. The visa now has been provided.

Liu will be placed in a hospital here for further observation.

When Liu departed from St. Louis Jan. 7 the Immigration Service reported that, although his destination was the Chinese mainland, he was allowed to assume that he was going to remain in Hong Kong to prevent him from being upset.

SOIL BANK PREDICTED BY ADMINISTRATOR

D. A. Williams Says Public Feels Need to Conserve Remaining Land.

Watershed problems in managing soil conservation programs were discussed today at the Soil Conservation Service conference at Hotel Statler. The sessions started yesterday and will end tomorrow.

D. A. Williams, Soil Conservation Service administrator, said in an address yesterday that he was "almost positive" Congress would pass legislation establishing a soil bank of some kind. "Today there is a new high in public recognition of these (soil conservation) problems," he said.

Estimating that 1,000,000 acres were going to non-agricultural use annually in the United States and that 400,000 acres are lost by soil deterioration, he said he felt the loss coupled with population increases would put more emphasis on working to preserve the remaining crop land.

Turning to a proposed soil bank, Williams said he thinks Soil Conservation Service will have an appropriate part in such a bank if one is adopted.

"It is too early to tell what part SCS will actually have," he said, "because we don't know what it will involve."

It could involve some 39,000,000 acres of land that Williams said was planted in crops which would do better in another soil.

Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University of Missouri, addressed a dinner meeting last night. He announced that the university's new $13,500,000 hospital should be ready for operation by September. He noted the enrollment is now at the highest point in the post-war period. He said he expects the university's facilities to be heavily taxed when the present eighth, ninth and tenth grade pupils reach college age.

NAVAL BASE ON TACHENS

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Official Central News Agency says the Chinese Communists are converting the Tachen islands into a submarine supply station and forward naval base.

The islands, 200 miles north of Formosa, were abandoned by the Nationalists last February.

Down comes the price of this family uplifter

We know a lot of people who have always wanted a Buick Estate Wagon—and for good reason.

It's such a wonderfully useful car for big families, for do-it-yourself folks, for campers, for golfers, for week-end shoppers, for people on the move and with lots to move.

So we're happy to say we have news for such folks—big news: the price of the Buick Estate Wagon has been lowered substantially for 1956. And that goes not only for the spirited Century, but also for the already-rock-bottom-priced Special pictured here.

That means more people than ever before can now have this all-purpose car with its sweep-ahead styling and living-room comfort.

They can have the agile might of its big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine—now raised to new highs in power and compression.

They can have the smoothness and new cruising-pitch getaway—and the extra gas-saving mileage—of its advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Most of all, they can have this Buick thrill and style and comfort with the versatile handiness of this sweet-riding carry-all.

They have ample room for six full-grown passengers and their luggage or gear.

Simply by folding down the rear seat, they have a solid and level covered platform 83 inches long with the tail gate closed, 99.6 inches with it open.

And, as an option, the folding rear seat comes in a split-section arrangement that provides room for both rear-seat riders and extra-long loads like skis.

So if yours is the kind of family that goes for such fun and fashion, such room and comfort, such performance and value—then maybe your time has come to move into the big-buy Buick Estate Wagon for 1956. Come in and see—this week.

STOCK PRICE UPTURN ON MODERATE TRADE

Santa Fe Stock Split of 5 for 1 Gives Impetus to Issue and Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The stock market made good progress today in quiet dealings.

There were gains of 1 to around 3 points in the list. Losses were fractional for the most part.

The market started higher and maintained its advantage quietly throughout the day. At the close it was showing mild improvement.

U.S. Steel closed up ⅞ at 55 and then reported record high earnings. Union carbide also reported record high profits after the close. It gained ⅝ at 103⅞.

The list was composed of 1172 individual issues of which 609 advanced and 320 declined with 11 new highs and 10 new lows for 1955-56.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.90 at $175.50 with the industrial component up $2.00, railroads up $3.00, and utilities up 20 cent.

Volume amounted to 1,900,000 shares as compared with 1,830,000 shares traded yesterday.

Trading dwindled to 1,800,000 shares, lowest in around three months. Yesterday's total was 1,830,000 shares with the market slightly higher.

Oils, steels and coppers were the best while railroads, chemicals, aircrafts, and some motors did well.

Santa Fe Railroad directors proposed a five-for-one split. The stock at that moment was selling unchanged at 138, and it immediately went to 139¼ before trading was halted. The stock reopened with buying and selling orders matched in a block of 4000 shares up 10 at 148.

Ford Motor bid price over the counter slipped below 64½, its issue price which has been maintained since Thursday, after the underwriting syndicate announced it had completed distribution of the 10,200,000 shares and lifted all trading restrictions imposed on underwriters. Most of the day, however, the stock was quoted at 64½ bid and 64¾ offered.

Among higher stocks were Union Pacific, Texas Co., Royal Dutch Petroleum, American Telephone, Magma Copper, American Cyanamid, Westinghouse Electric, American Hawaiian Steamship, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, and Federated Department Stores which had a block of 2200 shares up 1 at 68½.

Standard Oil (N.J.), up 2½ yesterday, was up between 2 and 3 points today, still responding to its report of record high profits for last year. It opened on 4500 shares up ⅜ at 149⅞.

Kennecott Copper was up around 2 points after reporting 1955 profits equal to $11.61 a share as against $7.20 the previous year.

BUSINESS WORLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway directors proposed a five for one split of the company's common and preferred stocks. If the proposal is approved by the stockholders and the Interstate Commerce Commission it will become effective Aug. 1. A special meeting of stockholders will be called April 26 to seek approval of the directors' action.

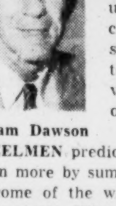
FOREBODINGS OF PRICE RISES

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP).

PRICES continue to creep higher. And ahead lie two things that might bring them from creeping to at least the toddling stage.

These are: The rise in the federal minimum wage rate March 1; and the upcoming round of wage negotiations—notably in the basic industry steel.



Sam Dawson

Consumers may note the result of the first fairly soon. The effects of the second will come along gradually and later.

Iron and steel prices, according to the Bureau of Labor statistics, have risen 17 per cent in the last 4½ years. After the wage settlement last summer they went up $7.35 a ton. Since then there have been creeping advances on various steel products, averaging out at around $1 a ton.

THIS TREND CONTINUES, WITH SOME STEELMEN predicting prices will advance as much as $2 or $3 a ton more by summer. What will happen then depends on the outcome of the wage negotiations that will get under way in late spring. The minimum wage hike to $1 hour some four weeks from now will affect mostly industries making goods that consumers buy—such as hosiery and clothing. It is estimated that some two million workers will get a raise. But as one mill owner says, "If I give the man who sweeps out the mill $40 a week. I must raise the skilled and semi-skilled workers, too, or face trouble." This might mean pay raises for two or three million more workers in the low-wage industries. Some estimate the total cost to industry could reach two billion dollars a year. Unless consumers go on a buying strike, this increased cost is likely to be passed along in higher prices.

FOR THE CONSUMER THERE IS, HOWEVER, THE PROSPECT that food prices will remain fairly steady. Since about 30 per cent of the average family budget goes for food, the housewife is slow to complain about the high cost of living as long as food doesn't advance. She buys other things less frequently. But for the business man it's different. Prices of industrial materials have been rising steadily. Two thirds of the purchasing agents polled this month reported a continuing rise in prices, the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents say. A long list of metals and other industrial materials are reported in short supply.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD NOTES that the average prices of industrial materials rose 4 per cent in the last six months of 1955. Capacity operations in many industries, with considerable over-time work, sent costs up. At the same time, demand for materials rose steadily from manufacturers striving to keep up with growing consumer demand. There is always a time lag between these rising industrial prices and higher prices at the store. They are beginning to appear now in some instances. Offsetting them, to the consumer's delight, has been some price cutting by manufacturers of small appliances as a competitive move. The retailers have been asked to tighten their profit belts and take lower markups.

ANOTHER offsetting factor that could develop is seen in the first signs that some of the push is going out of the business boom. Cutbacks in some industries have spelled the end of over-time pay. As, and if, production drops below capacity, there'll be less pressure for rising prices. But until this happens, if it does, the path for prices on most things other than food seem to be upward.

U. S. STEEL NET $6.45 A SHARE IN 1955

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—United States Steel Corp., the world's greatest steel producer, reported today record-breaking 1955 net income of $370,197,625, equal to $6.45 a share, compared with the previous record of $271,500,000 or $4.72 a share in the World War I year of 1916, on the basis of the number of shares now outstanding.

The board of directors, meeting after the close of the New York Stock Exchange, declared a dividend of 65 cents a common share, payable March 10 to holders of record Feb. 10. This compared with previous dividends of 65 cents declared in October and 50 cents in July, the latter being the first dividend afterthe 2-for-1 stock split in May and comparable with $1-a-share dividends on the old stock declared in April and January.

For the last quarter of 1955, the nation's greatest steelmaking year, U.S. Steel reported net income of $102,690,682, equal to $1.80 a share, compared with $57,061,698, or 95 cents a share (adjusted for the latest stock split), in the last quarter of 1954.

U.S. TREASURY LIST SHOWS EARLY GAINS

Selected Convertibles Leads General Market Upward.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Selected convertibles and rails led the bond market moderately higher in late trading today.

American Telephone 3⅞s and Bethlehem 3¼s advanced ¾ each at 135½ and 121¼, respectively, at one time.

Dow Chemical 3s and General Dynamics 3½s added ⅞ each at 126 and 106¾, respectively, at one time.

U.S. Treasury early rose fractionally in the over-the-counter market. Both long range and intermediates registered gains of 2-32. Volume, however, was thin.

C.I.T. Financial Corp. has borrowed $100,000,000 on 20-year 4 per cent notes from an undisclosed insurance company. The loan was equally divided between senior subordinated and junior subordinated notes.

American Investment Co. of Illinois sold $10,000,000 of 25-year 4½ per cent convertible capital notes to a group of 31 life insurance firms, investment and pension trusts. Proceeds were used to reduce current short-term bank loans. The notes are convertible into common stock at prices ranging from $20 to $22 for each share of common. Repayments are to begin in 1962.

DIVIDENDS REPORTED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—National Tea Co. declared today a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock, payable March 1 to holders of record Feb. 16. Previously the quarterly payments were 40 cents a share. The company in 1955 declared an extra dividend of 40 cents which was paid last Jan. 17.

Koppers Co., Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on common stock payable April 2 to holders of record March 21. In each of the past six years Koppers has paid four quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share and an extra dividend of 50 cents on common.

General Steel Castings Corp. declared a quarterly dividend of 45 cents a share on common stock, payable March 30 to holders of record March 20. For several years the company has maintained a 30-cent quarterly rate usually supplemented by year-end extra dividends.

American Meter Co. proposed an increase in authorized capital stock from 640,000 shares to 1,000,000 shares and announced that the directors intend to declare a 10 per cent stock dividend in May if the increase is granted. Stockholders will act on the increase at the annual meeting April 18. William G. Hamilton Jr., president, said the company expects to maintain dividends at the annual rate of $2 a share after the stock dividend.

Filtrol Corp. declared a quarterly dividend of 45 cents a share on common stock payable March 3 to holders of record Feb. 13. It paid 30 cents a share in previous quarters.

CORN STRENGTH AIDS WHOLE GRAIN LIST

Buying of Coarse Cereal Partly Reflects Belief It Had Lagged.

CHICAGO, Jan 31 (AP)—Grains overcame early easiness to move ahead briskly during the second half of the session on the Board of Trade today. Buying first centered in corn and then spread to the rest of the list. Corn had lagged in yesterday's upturn and some grainmen felt it was behind the market. Good export business, light receipts of cash grain, belief price supports on basic crops might be raised and a favorable interpretation of a soybean crushings report were behind the advance.

TRADING RESTRICTIONS ON FORD STOCK TERMINATED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Common stock of Ford Motor Co. was quoted fractionally lower at $64.25 bid — $64.50 asked today after representatives of the underwriters of the 10,200,000-share offering announced that trading restrictions had been terminated. The original offering price was $64.50. Later the shares were quoted $64.50 bid and $64.75 asked.

The stock at one time hit a high of $70 after the initial public offering Jan. 18 but never fell below $64.50 until today.

Restrictions which had curbed trading in the stock by the underwriters were lifted today when the underwriters announced that the distribution had been completed.

292 Million Tons of Steel Made.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The world produced about 294,000,000 net tons of steel in 1955, about 20 per cent greater than the 1954 total, and 39,000,000 tons more than the record 255,000,000 of 1953, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported.

NEHRU ADMITS LANGUAGE STATE IDEA WAS MISTAKE

NEW DELHI, Jan. 31 (UP)—Prime Minister Nehru admitted in a public meeting here yesterday that he "erred" in trying to break up India into linguistic states.

The reorganization plan, fixing state boundaries according to language spoken in the regions, touched off bloody protest riots throughout India.

Nehru appealed to Indians not to let language differences disrupt the nation's unity and progress, and warned that attempts to settle internal disputes by violence would result in military rule for the nation. He addressed a large crowd at a rally marking the eighth anniversary of the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

He indicated that future state reorganizations would depart from the previous linguistic considerations and might follow the pattern set in the recent merger of Bihar and Bengal state. In the latter case, the two states decided to join into one unit dispite different languages.

The TRUMAN MEMOIRS

Mr. Truman Carries His Fight to the People in 'Whistle Stop' Crusade . . . Projected Vinson Mission to Moscow.

By HARRY S. TRUMAN
Thirty-third President of the United States.
NINTH ARTICLE, VOLUME II.

THE stage was now set for the active 1948 Presidential campaign. I picked Labor Day, which was on September 6th, to sound the starting gun of my bid for the Presidency, and most of my opponents did the same.

The Labor Day speech at Cadillac Square in Detroit set the pace for the campaign speeches which were to follow. "As you know," I told a nationwide audience, "I speak plainly sometimes. In fact, I speak bluntly sometimes. I am going to speak plainly and bluntly today. These are critical times for labor and for all who work. There is great danger ahead. Right now, the whole future of labor is wrapped up in one simple proposition.

"If, in this next election, you get a Congress and an administration friendly to labor, you have much to hope for. If you get an administration and a Congress unfriendly to labor, you have much to fear, and you had better look out."

There were over 100,000 people massed in Cadillac Square, and I was encouraged by their response. It was a good start for my campaign.

On September 17th, I began an extended tour. I had warned my staff and the reporters who prepared to make the trip with me that I was going out to win the election. "I'm going to fight hard," I told Senator Barkley. "I'm going to give them hell."

'One-Man Circus' Draws the Crowds.

At first, the critics referred to my tour as a "one-man circus" and called it less efficient and less dignified than the campaign being put on by the Republicans. But as the crowds grew larger and larger and more people flocked to my train than showed up around the Dewey train, our opponents began to get worried.

The trip across Ohio from Cincinnati to Cleveland was made in the daytime on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad which goes through a whole string of little towns, and the crowds there were immense. Former Governor Lausche, who was a candidate for the governorship of Ohio, got on the train just south of Columbus, intending to get off again at Columbus. At that little town where Lausche got on there was a crowd of from six to eight thousand people, and at the next one the crowd was even larger. At Columbus the crowd was so big they could not even get into the station.

"Is this the way all the crowds have been?" the Governor asked.

"Yes," I said, "but this is smaller than we had in most states."

"Well," he said, "this is the biggest crowd I ever saw in Ohio," and he rode on to Cleveland with us. He gave our ticket his fullest support.

It was quite a campaign. I worked my staff almost to death. I believe that at one time or another I put them all to bed, and despite its long hours and hard work I gained weight in the campaign. I worked the reporters very hard, too Simple, Straightforward — No Gimmicks.

The technique which I used at the whistle-stops was simple and straightforward. There were no special "gimmicks" or oratorical devices. I refused to be "coached". I simply told the people in my own language that they had better wake up to the fact that it was their fight.

If they did not get out and help me win this fight, I emphasized, the Republicans would soon be giving the farmers and the workers the little end of the stick again. I spoke bluntly and sincerely, and warned the people that if they were fools enough to accept the little end again, they deserved it.

I also clarified the issues which the Republicans were trying to make complex for the voters. I talked to them as human beings with real needs and feelings and fears. I talked to them about their jobs, their homes, and the cost of living. I treated them not like crowds of people but like businessmen, tenant farmers, housewives, married veterans, laboring men, teachers—individuals with interests for whom I, as President, had a genuine concern.

One of the things which I tried to keep out of the campaign was foreign policy. I even asked that a teletype machine be set up on the Dewey train so that the Republican candidate personally could be informed on all the foreign developments as they progressed. I saw to it that Dewey received important messages that came to me on the subject of international affairs.

There were many danger spots in our foreign relations at the time. The Jews, Arabs, Egyptians and Syrians had been fighting a shooting war, and I was trying to get an agreement among those people to stop the shooting. Also, we were endeavoring in every way we could to get the free countries of Europe in a cooperative mood in order to meet the Soviet threat to take over the free world.

Government Business Goes On as Usual.

The business of the government went on as usual from aboard the Presidential train. As in all of my absences from Washington, long or short, the mail pouches were delivered to me from the White House every day. I always had a regular staff with me so that the White House was wherever the President happened to be. I also held a lot of conversations by telephone over a communications system installed on the train, and I always maintained a complete and close contact with the government.

A President can never get away from the urgent and never-ending duties of his office. A political campaign provides no escape. It increases his burdens, and this was critically true during 1948. The autumn of that year was the worst possible time for me to have to wage a political campaign, for at the same time we were negotiating foreign policy matters with the stubborn and suspicious Russian totalitarian government.

We were rapidly exhausting all traditional avenues of negotiation. The United Nations forum—the organization which had been set up for the exchange of views and the adjustment of differences—was being subverted by the Russians into a propaganda sounding board, and our normal diplomatic channels were being stifled and frustrated by Russian truculence.

What we most urgently needed, I felt, was a totally new approach—along with the right man to make it. The current political contest for the Presidency was a serious handicap, for though the State and Defense Departments were kept out of the campaign, they were at the same time part of my administration.

Projected Vinson Mission to Moscow.

In the meantime, the Wallace Progressives were gathering steam with their shrill campaign of "war mongers" which they directed at both major parties. This was precisely the line of propaganda used by the Communists, and it made for a further irritant in an already bad situation. The Wallace theme of preaching appeasement found emotional response among several minority groups who innocently swallowed the tempting potion of peace at any price. I believe that Wallace himself was a victim of his own naivete.

It was for these reasons that I found it necessary to interrupt my scheduled activities right at the height of the campaign so as to work out some new approach to the Kremlin in an effort to ease the tensions and to get on with our many unfinished negotiations with the Russians. I thought of sending Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson on a special mission to Moscow for an informal exchange of views and impressions with Stalin.

I telephoned Justice Vinson on Sunday, October 3d, and asked him to meet with me on a most urgent matter.

When Vinson came to the White House, I outlined to him what I had in mind. When I finished, he remained silent for a considerable time. When he spoke, he said he fully understood the gravity of the situation, and that he wished he could undertake this cruicial mission, but that if the decision were left solely to him, he would be compelled to decline.

Vinson held that the Justices should confine themselves to their Court duties and stay out of all side activities, especially in a political year, and he added that he, as Chief Justice, could not break his own rule, even on a matter of such overriding importance. I then waited for Vinson to say what I knew he would.

"Mr. President," he said, "as Chief Justice I must decline to undertake this mission to Moscow. But if you make it as a Presidential request, I shall have a clear duty to comply."

"I am sorry, Fred, to do this to you," I said to him, "but in the interest of the country and the peace of the world I am compelled to request you to go."

Vinson's response was: "I'll be ready in a few days."

Situation Explained to Vinson.

This was the situation as I presented it to Chief Justice Vinson:

The Russians simply did not understand—or would not—our peaceful intentions and our genuine desire to cooperate through the United Nations toward the establishment of a climate of peace; that we did not want and had no intention of forcing our way of life upon them or anyone else, as we would resist to the utmost any attempt to impose another system upon us; that I wanted to see if we could not understand one another a little better, and we had to do something about our poor communications. Surely our side had tried. The Russians must also try if the future of the world and the very survival of civilization was not to be lost.

One of our big international issues of the moment was the organization of a set-up by the United Nations for the peaceful handling of atomic energy, and the wrangling about the key point of inspection was now in full swing at the United Nations

RUSSIA, BRITAIN INVITE VIEWS ON VIET NAM ACCORD

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Foreign Office said last night that Britain and Russia have invited the views of 10 interested countries on ways of fulfilling the Viet Nam armistice agreement in Indo-China.

It said that Red China's Premier Chou-En-lai, first to reply, proposed a new 12-power conference.

The Foreign Office statement was made after details of Chou's proposal were broadcast by Peiping radio.

The 1954 Vietnamese accord at Geneva ended the Indo-Chinese civil war, but the governments in the Communist north and the pro-Western South are reported not respecting all terms of the armistice.

President Ngo Dinh Diem, the South Vietnamese leader, has made it clear he has no intention of joining in country-wide elections by next July to unify the divided land, as envisaged in the Geneva agreement.

Britain and Russia, as joint chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference, acted last Dec. 21 to get the views of the other Geneva conference powers and the countries of the supervisory commission.

La Prensa to Publish Friday.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz said last night his newspaper La Prensa will begin publishing again Friday morning. This will be five years and eight days from the time the outspoken daily was silenced by ex-dictator, Juan D. Peron.

Farm Message Giving Benson New Troubles

Lack of Grass Seed, Trees, Money Threatens His Program.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1956.)
WASHINGTON

EZRA TAFT BENSON, the harassed Secretary of Agriculture has even more worries than the public knows about.

After the Eisenhower farm message was sent to Congress it was believed all would be calmer on the farm front, but certain kinks have been discovered by those reading the fine print of the message.

The first problem concerns the soil bank program by which farmers will set aside part of their land for a long period and plant it in grass or trees. The difficulty is that there won't be enough grass seed to plant the soil bank of some 25,000,000 acres.

It is now discovered that there is only enough grass seed in the United States to plant 15,000,000 acres and this seed is largely suitable for east of the Mississippi where water is more plentiful. Grass seed needed for arid areas west of the Mississippi is more difficult to get.

Reason for the scarcity is that one of the first things Benson did as Secretary of Agriculture was to remove the price supports on grass seed. So, many farmers stopped producing.

However, if a farmer decides to plant trees instead of grass, it will take him two years to get them.

This is because Benson in 1953 abolished all Agriculture Department nurseries, then part of the soil conservation program. He didn't think the Federal Government should be raising trees, so he turned the nurseries over to the states. Many states didn't have the funds and wouldn't accept. Others accepted and let the nurseries grow up in brambles.

So it will take some time to get enough young trees to make any dent on the soil bank.

The second problem pertains to the acreage reserve, the "quickie" plan by which farmers would get some money this year from setting aside surplus acreage. This was supposed to be financed by selling surplus farm commodities on the domestic market.

But Senator Humphrey of Minnesota sat up one night studying the fine print of the farm message, and next day pointed out that the sale of surplus crops would depress the entire farm commodity market. Such a farm drop would be far worse than no acreage reserve at all.

Immediately a number of Republican Senators from farm states descended on Benson, protested that he could not dump these surpluses on the domestic market. So he retreated.

Since then Benson and staff have been burning the midnight oil trying to figure out how they can pay the cost of the acreage reserve. They face the fact that Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey won't give Benson any more money, for this would unbalance Humphrey's ambitious plans for balancing the budget.

Somehow or other, Benson has to figure out how he is going to pay money to farmers with no money.

GALLUP POLL

More Than Half of Voters Now Think Eisenhower Will Run

Survey Shows 56 Pct. Predict Candidacy —Only 29 Pct. Held This Opinion Last October.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 31.

THERE is a growing conviction among United States voters that President Eisenhower will seek re-election.

As speculation over "the question" fills the political air, the Institute finds that, for the first time since the President's heart attack in September, a clear majority of voters feel Mr. Eisenhower will be the G.O.P. nominee a second time.

Sentiment on the question of his running again has come full circle since before his illness. Surveys prior to the heart attack consistently found a large majority of voters holding the belief that Mr. Eisenhower would run again.

The first survey completed after the attack, however, revealed that six out of 10 persons felt the President would not seek his party's nomination again. Since that time, the number who believe that he will run has grown steadily larger.

The question put to a scientifically drawn cross-section of voters:

"What's your best guess at this time—will President Eisenhower run again in 1956, or not?"

The results today among all voters:

Will run — — — — — —	56%
Will not run — — — — —	33
Don't know — — — — —	11

Here is the trend of the thinking on the subject as recorded in surveys both before and after the President's heart attack:

	Yes, will run
Feb. '54 — — — — —	65%
Dec. '54 — — — — —	57
April '55 — — — — —	73
Heart Attack, Sept. 24, '55
Early Oct. '55 — —	29
Late Oct. '55— — —	33
Dec. '55 — — — — —	48
Today — — — — — —	56

There is an indication of some "wishful thinking" in the vote of both Republicans and Democrats in today's survey.

Close to seven out of 10 in the G.O.P.'s rank-and-file now believe that the President will seek re-election this year.

On the other hand, slightly less than half of all Democratic voters interviewed in the survey feel that he will run again, although the weight of sentiment in this group is that he will be the next G.O.P. nominee.

Here are the results by political affiliation:

	Will Run	Will Not	Don't Know
Republicans	69%	20%	11%
Democrats	47	44	9
Independents	51	34	15

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Foul Weather Friends

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Whenever snow or sleet or ice make driving hazardous the Missouri Pacific's local is host to its many foul weather friends.

The Pacific Local, sole remaining St. Louis commuter train, runs regularly rain or shine. It isn't ordinarily delayed by sleet, snow, fog, or ice and rolls blithely along past rush hour traffic tie ups. It faithfully carries close to 400 regular riders into and out of the city.

A great many of these regulars have been riding the train for years, day in and day out. They like the freedom from congested traffic, the infrequent stops and starts, the regularity in all kinds of weather, none of which they could have, at least not to the same degree in more "modern" bus or automobile transportation. The Local serves them well and they are its friends.

But the Pacific Local has other friends. At the slightest indication of bad weather—rain, snow, ice—they will be found on the train too; filling the seats, standing in the aisles, crowding the vestibules, sometimes even making it difficult for regular riders to get aboard.

If these "foul weather friends" find the train so convenient on traffic snarling days they might be pleasantly surprised to find it's just as convenient in nice weather too.

Commuter service in St. Louis isn't very profitable. In fact the train probably runs at a loss. But if enough people would patronize it regularly the service might be made to grow and help relieve the worsening traffic situation. M.W.W.

Job for Senior Citizens

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Are we not overlooking a wonderful opportunity in our senior citizens? Could they not perform many useful public services? For instance, as Aldermen these still alert people would have valuable experience to offer, and would be less subject to influence by pressure groups. They would have the satisfaction of making fine contributions to the community.

WILLIAM C. FISCHER JR.

X + Y too Many

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The other day a Russian marshal said, "The Soviet Union has surpassed the United States in hydrogen bomb weapons." This was countered by one of our officials who said Russian assertions of H-bomb superiority were mere "propaganda."

So it goes, and so be it. But, let's put it this way: Russia has X H-bombs; the United States has Y H-bombs. Now, it is quite clear that X + Y H-bombs are sufficient to destroy, or seriously cripple, not only the civilization of Soviet Russia and the United States, but of a good share of the rest of the world too. And that, it would seem to me, is the more pertinent point.

In my opinion, X + Y H-bombs (and atomic bombs) are exactly X + Y H and atomic bombs too many for the good of humanity. They should be deactivated and, if possible, put to some peaceful, humane use.

It is to be hoped, moreover, that as United States and Russian spokesmen play the silly, puerile game of "my-father-can-lick-your-father," the fathers don't lose their tempers and foolishly decide to find out which one is champ.

THOMAS BRODERICK.
Schenectady, N.Y.

They Haven't Won Yet

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We are now being solicited for funds to send our amateur athletes to the Olympic Games.

According to the American and foreign press the Russian athletes have been picked, trained and paid by their government ever since the 1952 Olympics. I was innocent enough to believe that only amateurs were permitted to take part in the Olympic games, but by no stretch of the imagination can the Russian athletes lay claim to being amateurs.

Why should we send our amateurs against Russian professionals? We should withdraw from the Olympics and so kill the phony propaganda Russia will make out of winning the Olympic Games.

MARTIN B. LECHNER.
Maplewood.

Scientific and Amusing

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am always amused by an article appearing every so often in your editorial section. "Unbiased, scientific." I refer, of course, to the Gallup Poll department of the G.O.P. propaganda machine. G. H. STEPHENS.

Literacy in the South

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I would like to comment on the letter you printed from Randolph Gregg about the Virginia vote. I believe I am qualified, for I was born in Oklahoma and spent my first 22 years in Oklahoma and Texas.

Mr. Gregg states that Negroes have a lower level of intellectual achievement than whites because of environmental factors. He goes on to say that integration would thus lower educational standards.

This might be true for a few years, but the standards would soon rise, for the purpose of integration is to give everyone an equal opportunity for education. Southern literacy would not suffer nearly so much as Mr. Gregg implies; for it isn't so good today.

I know, for I went to primary school in the South, and I find that my fellow students, educated in the North, are ahead of me.

Chicago. GEORGE GRAY.

Year for Highway Action

Congress spent much of its last session debating America's vast highway needs without agreeing on how to meet them. This year House leaders of both parties promise a "compromise" plan which should mean action.

The plan calls for spending $51,000,000,000 on highways in 13 years, with financing by new taxes. The Administration has now completely abandoned its original idea of paying for new roads with special bonds issued outside the federal debt.

Critics of that proposal charged that nearly half of each dollar raised by such bonds would have gone for interest payments, not for road construction. Certainly the tax method is the least expensive way to build highways in the long run.

Now that the principle of "pay-as-you-ride" highway financing seems settled, the question is just how much should be spent for roads.

President Eisenhower originally suggested spending 101 billions on highways in 10 years. The Gore bill passed by a Democratic Senate proposed 18 billions in five years. The Fallon bill defeated in the House called for 48 billions in 12 years. Now the plan is to spend 51 billions in 13 years.

These total figures suggest greater differences in the four road plans than really exist, for two reasons. Some of the totals include state expenditures. All are for different periods.

The best basis of comparison is to see what each plan would mean in terms of yearly spending by the Federal Government alone. Both the Eisenhower and Gore plans represent about three billions a year in federal road money. The Fallon bill called for a little more than two and a half billion, and the new plan calls for just under three billions.

Thus it appears that Congress, and the Administration as well, are generally agreed upon the level of federal highway spending, as well as upon the general means of financing.

In fact, the new bi-partisan highway plan is remarkably similar to last year's bill offered by Representative George H. Fallon, Maryland Democrat. Both plans suggested a 1-cent increase in the 2-cent federal gas tax, a steeper increase on Diesel fuels, a 2 per cent rise in taxes on trucks and busses and heavier taxes on tires and retreading material.

Is this similarity with the Fallon bill an asset or a liability for the new road plan? For the House defeated the Fallon bill by 292 to 123, and members made no secret of the powerful anti-tax influence of the truck lobby.

Fortunately the interim between sessions has changed the whole prospect for highway legislation. Last year congressional disagreement involved both parties and principles. This year, encouraged by the Administration, partisanship has faded into agreement on a pay-as-you-go program.

Nobody denies that America needs better highways, and there is no point to stalling. Determined bi-partisan support can construct a good roads program this year.

Mencken's Day

H. L. Mencken devoted a lifetime to driving stupidity, cant, hypocrisy and drivel out of the market place of ideas. Every literate American living owes something to the sage of Baltimore for what he thinks and perhaps even why he thinks. Mencken wrote, spoke and lived with an invective that had gusto, point, and the flavor of the German he loved to sprinkle in when the English ran a little dry. He liked beer, cigars, the piano, good books, good company, and the kingly sport of flailing the Philistines.

If the '20s were as exciting as it is the fashion nowadays to make out, Mencken and Nathan were two of its most exciting figures. George Jean Nathan the man-about-town and Mencken the solid burgher were perfect foils for each other, and both of one mind, skeptical, critical, forever insistent that homo sapiens—a favorite term of theirs—should make some sort of sense.

Under their editorship the magazine Smart Set emerged from frivolousness and insignificance to give a first hearing to Eugene O'Neill, Sherwood Anderson, Ben Hecht and other writers whose influence and lasting value in American literature proved the soundness of the editorial judgment. It was Mencken who fought for Theodore Dreiser's novels against the massed phalanxes of bluenoses at a time when a spade was called a spatula and a leg a limb. Sinclair Lewis has reason for gratitude to this same perceptive and indefatigable fighting patron of the arts.

The American Mercury, which Mencken and Nathan went on to edit from 1924 to 1933, was a magazine the like of which no longer exists. It was a merciless scourge of mediocrity in every form, a delight to every youngster bursting with radical ideas, a pitiless goad to every oldster nursing his ossified notions. The Americana section of The Mercury created a new form of satire and held up to the mercilessness of its own mirror what Mencken called the booboisie, the Bible Belt and the Babbitts.

At bottom, Mencken was an intellectual snob with Nietzschean overtones of the superman. But he fought like a libertarian Tom Paine for the freedom to write and print. What he himself wrote and printed was like heat lightning, clearing the overcharged air.

Would there were an editor like him practicing his trade in the country at this moment!

One Man School Board

The disclosure that St. Louis politicians have been cut in for a modest piece of the School Board's insurance business is important for reasons that go beyond the money involved.

A single member of the Board—Charles J. Dyer—personally directed the cozy little arrangement under which five Democratic state senators, two aldermen and others were credited with brokerage fees on insurance premiums paid by the Board. In doing so, Mr. Dyer acted without the approval and evidently without the knowledge of his 11 colleagues on that body.

How was it possible for Mr. Dyer to work into such a position? Simple. First he opposed a move suggested by a committee of the Insurance Board of St. Louis to set aside brokerage fees on school business for public purposes. Then he had himself named chairman of a special committee to examine all aspects of the Board's insurance program.

After that he persuaded the Board to begin paying fees on board business. Then he ignored the two other members of his committee and began giving direct orders to a Board employe as to which politician would get what.

If the names of those to be permitted a bit of the gravy had first been approved in committee and recommended to the full board, the whole deal would have come to light. Or if the employe to whom Mr. Dyer transmitted his orders had resisted this kind of meddling, it is possible the payments might never have been made. School employes were not born yesterday, however, and they realize that an order from a member of Mr. Dyer's power is resisted at their own risk.

But Mr. Dyer is not the School Board: he is only one-twelfth of it. And his unilateral meddling in what is essentially an administrative matter certainly is not in harmony with the spirit of the state school statutes. These make it clear that the Board is elected to set policy, not to run day-to-day business. The latter is a job for the paid employes.

If Mr. Dyer's excursion into one-man rule becomes a precedent for others, the school system could be cut up into a dozen principalities ruled over by a dozen bosses dispensing favors. Is this what Mr. Dyer's colleagues want?

Self-Inflicted Toll

The terrible price which some Southern states are making themselves pay for racial prejudice is only gradually becoming apparent. New areas of self-inflicted damage are appearing all the time, as Sam B. Armstrong, national correspondent of this newspaper, reports from Atlanta.

Difficulties in the marketing of school bonds are being experienced and undoubtedly will spread if the present folly continues. Mr. Armstrong reports that Florida, which has not even passed any of the legislation which casts doubt on state securities, felt compelled to withdraw a bond issue of more than $10,000,000 when the high interest rate of 3.11 per cent was demanded. Investors are not eager to put their money into public school systems whose future is clouded.

Industrial growth of the Southern states also may be affected. The retiring Governor of Mississippi, Hugh White, so believes. Civic leaders are suggesting, Mr. Armstrong says, that executives of Northern concerns desiring to establish Southern plants may not want to move to a region where inferior schooling for their children is to be expected.

Add to these damages the loss of good teachers, actual and prospective; the deliberate degradation of the public school system; the wasted public funds; the cruel hurt to morale, among both pupils and teachers; and the general unrest that has been stirred up. Add all these things, and we but barely begin to see how heavy and long-suffered will be the loss unless emotional bigotry can be replaced with calm sense.

When They Clamber Aboard

One of our readers raises an important question about the "foul weather friends" of the Missouri Pacific's "Pacific Local," the only commuter train serving the St. Louis area. In bad weather the train attracts riders as honey draws flies. Why don't these same people ride in good weather as well?

They don't have to. They have the option of riding the train, driving their automobiles or taking streetcars or busses. The only way to change the railroad's foul weather patrons into fair weather friends is to make the rail service the most attractive; as of now it isn't, except on bad days when it can't be beat.

This is where the Missouri Pacific has an opportunity to display some enterprise. If the commuter operation were transformed into a park-ride plan, wouldn't it be possible to increase speed? Would new equipment—self-propelled rail diesel cars, for example—cut costs, improve comfort and provide the flexibility for running perhaps two trips a day each way? Would an earlier schedule be more convenient and attractive? Would a new terminal—say, Eighth and Olive—improve service? Or failing that, would a bus-transfer arrangement help?

We could go on. But if the Missouri Pacific wants a longer list, all that is necessary is to talk to a few of its foul weather friends.

A Second Airport Is Needed

The problem of airports and safety for persons living in their vicinity is a national one. It has been increasing as the airways become more congested and pistons give way to jets. Mayor Thomas C. Boyle of Berkeley, which borders Lambert-St. Louis Field on the east, and other St. Louis county civic leaders, are greatly concerned over the three crashes of military planes near the field in the last seven months.

Mayor Boyle cannot be blamed for wanting the Civil Aeronautics Administration to make a study of operations at the field with a view to reducing hazards to nearby residents from falling aircraft. There is the ominous reminder of Elizabeth, N.J., where three airliners fell within two months in 1952, killing 119 persons, 11 of them on the ground. Sterling P. Davidson Jr., president of the County League of Municipalities, in supporting Mayor Boyle's proposal summed up the situation when he said: "The county has become too metropolitan in character to have this hazard facing it."

Yet the accidents at Lambert-St. Louis Field have not been anything like as serious as those at Elizabeth nor have they been of a pattern. They were caused by three completely different things: the wing of a carrier-type plane folded; a jet flameout; a takeoff in an underpowered plane. St. Louis wants to keep the Navy and Air National Guard stations, but these three accidents indicate that the hazard over Lambert Field has been increased by the advent of the military jet. It is to be noted McDonnell Aircraft Corp. says that it is seeking a new area for its test flights.

The Municipal Airport Commission has proposed an expansion of land and runways at Lambert along with a second airport, costing $7,500,000, and with federal aid as a possibility. The new field, like Lambert, could also be capable of handling the fastest jets. Materialization of this second field in a proper safeguarded location would do much to eliminate some of the hazard now present.

This second field has been a dream for more than 10 years. With the first commercial jet airliners expected in 1959, and with the airways becoming more and more congested, this dream will need to become a reality within a short time if the present traffic control problem is not to assume even larger proportions. Meantime, CAA may make suggestions or find ways to reduce the hazard that goes with a field that frequently is overcrowded.

To a Politician, It's Clear

Fabulous are the conclusions reached by politicians' logic. And endless are the evidences of this. The latest example is furnished by Republican Senator Ives of New York with his formula for ending the uncertainty about President Eisenhower's candidacy for a second term.

Instead of continuing to be noncommittal and referring to a physical examination sometime in the future, the President, according to Senator Ives, should say: Yes, I will be a candidate—if my health permits.

Both "I have not yet decided" and "Yes, if—" leave the non-political mind bogged in uncertainty. Neither seems to answer the question one way or another. But that is only because the non-political mind has an almost unsurmountable lack of capacity for the subtleties of politicians' logic. Sad!

SEGREGATION'S LAST STAND

The Merit vs. the Spoils System

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Civil service can be ruined by complacent or hostile administration; but the complaints that it leads to inferior workers and prevents all political activity are false; by comparison, the spoils system costs millions and debases government.

Murray Seasongood, Professor of Law, University of Cincinnati and Former Mayor of Cincinnati, in the Vanderbilt Law Review

Editor's Note: Prof. Seasongood is speaking Thursday at the three-day Institute on the Government of St. Louis under the sponsorship of the League of Women Voters.

In no other place where the two party system obtains is the filling of offices and positions on the basis of vote-getting service and strength and political contributions made or secured for the party so predominant a part of political activity. Patronage is the backbone in the United States of the political parties in federal, state and local political operations. There is in this country no other effective party discipline.

Even now civil service, in anything approaching genuineness, does not exist in perhaps half the states of the Union.

The set-up of a bipartisan two-member commission appointed by the executive is a poor one. The appointed member of opposite politics to that of the executive is often a friendly Indian who goes along.

Like as not, these appointments will be made on recommendations of the governing parties of the two machines and may be of persons who have been and continue to be intensely partisan, with little sympathy for, or even with hostility toward the system they are supposed to administer.

If the director is a machine politician or otherwise out of sympathy with the merit system, he can easily sabotage its operations.

In recent times, security checks and unsubstantiated aspersions on the loyalty of the employe to the Government are convenient excuses to get him out.

The British Civil Servant

One stock objection to the merit system is that once an incumbent comes under the protection of the classified civil service, he becomes bureaucratic, unco-operative, mechanical in his operations or slothful, since he knows it is very difficult to get rid of him. The incorrectness of this fault-finding is apparent by reference to British civil service public employes. They may often be somewhat rigid, technical and unimaginative in the performance of their duties. But their traditional, long time standards of character, efficiency and fidelity to duty are the highest.

The fact is, removal of an unfit or disloyal employe in the classified service is not too difficult, if the appointing officers utilize their right to grade the performance of the incumbent below a figure that must be attained for retention in office, or to file charges and dismiss.

It is often asserted by those wanting to pick employes on a political basis that it is not practicable to make appointments on the basis of open examinations; and so, as an example, lawyers should not be under the merit system.

If they are employed on the basis of merit better appointments will be made and the sound lawyer will apply himself, as in the private practice, unremittingly to the law without the necessity of time-consuming deflections incident to doing political work and the fear of rendering opinions or conducting legal matters in a way that a political superior might not favor, even though legally sound and proper.

Another favorite argument of the unfriendly is that under the merit system implemented by the prohibitions of the Hatch Political Activity Act the public employe is deprived of his rights as a citizen freely to participate in political affairs, and that such insulation is against public policy. But the civil service employe is not forbidden to vote as he pleases or freely to express his political opinion.

Conceding there can be sometimes valid objections to the workings of the merit system (not a large concession, really, since the same could be said of any human institution), any such must be weighed against the counter evils of the political patronage formula.

The damage resulting, from the spoils system is incalculable, debasing and needlessly takes untold millions from the taxpayers' resources. As one example, in the months between February and December, 1951, more than 50 political appointees in the Internal Revenue Department resigned under fire or were dismissed; many were indicted and a number were convicted.

Administration's Spotty Record

Appointed under patronage procedures, the Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of the Tax Division of the Department of Justice was dismissed. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Assistant Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner in Charge of the Alcohol Tax Unit resigned.

Six of the country's 64 collectors resigned or were dismissed.

The attitude of the present national Administration is, as respects the merit system, mixed and spotty. On the bad side is a Personnel Procurement Procedure of October 1954 ukase seemingly issued from the White House purporting to impose on all departments and agencies a requirement that vacancies be referred through the Republican National Committee to Senators and Congressmen.

The prestige of the Civil Service Commission has been greatly impaired by the confused handling of the security issue. The political issue of this serious problem has contributed greatly to undermining the prestige and morale of the public service.

Executive Order No. 10577

The Commissioners' action in removing nine hundred deputy marshals from the competitive service is viewed with suspicion as to political motives especially as the Hoover Commission recommended placing not only such deputy marshals but marshals as well in the competitive system, to remove them from the political arena.

On the good side, the President's Executive Order No. 10577 of Nov. 22, 1954, amended the civil service rules and authorized a new appointing system for the competitive service.

Only public spirit, unselfishness, persistence and the creation of an overwhelming public sentiment through dissemination of facts will make manifest the menace to the republic of the spoils system and the advantages of higher type employes and the savings resulting in greater efficiency under a genuine merit system.

A Bridge by Any Name

From The Commonweal

Camden, N.J., is having difficulty naming a new bridge. Walt Whitman's name was suggested, but met with strong objection. A contest was sponsored among children to pick a name which would redound with more honor to the state. Few states would be able to nominate stronger competition than Woodrow Wilson, one of the suggested alternatives. But we hate to see Walt Whitman sold down the river, and we would like to join the children of Camden in offering a suggestion. We would offer, as a happy compromise, the W. W. Bridge. And those who do not like either Walt Whitman or Woodrow Wilson may deny them honor by fording the river on their own.

Between Book Ends

Covering the Oil Industry

SPEAK TO THE EARTH, by Max Miller. (Appleton-Century-Crofts, 310 pgs., $3.75.)

Max Miller of San Diego is a literary man who has calmly and competently written a great many books, besides some movie scenarios, since his successful "I Cover the Waterfront" of about 20 years ago. So when he turned his sure hand to writing the story of the oil industry—after some prompting by the American Petroleum Institute and the industry itself—it was expected that the result would differ from the ordinary narratives about the "romance" of a particular industry that are sometimes commissioned by corporation tycoons.

Mr. Miller never mentions any company or contemporary individual by name and he approaches his subject with the open mind of a good reporter. In so doing he has caught much of the grandeur and simplicity of the oil derricks, the great cylinders of the tank farms, the miles of pipelines, the offshore wells in the Gulf of Mexico, the river barges, as well as the army of drillers, geologists, scouts, roughnecks, toolpushers, truck drivers and service station attendants that have come into being since Aug. 27, 1859, the day the Drake well came in at Oil Creek, Pa.

Max Miller

These pages have all of the excitement of a new oil gusher, and the story is studded with historical facts and legends about the dramatic development of the petroleum industry in America. Beginning at the Williston Basin in the northernmost part of the country, which is the newest oil region in the nation, Mr. Miller in his search for material, traveled eastward to the oldest oil region in Pennsylvania, rode a barge on the Ohio river, visited a well off the shore of Louisiana, then turned to famous Spindletop field in Texas, the rich fields of Tulsa and Oklahoma City, and the Permian Basin of West Texas, before returning to look at the oil fields of Southern California.

Everywhere he journeyed he learned a little bit more about America's last frontier, which he describes as "straight down," and the vastness of the petroleum world and our dependence upon it for hundreds of products from clothing made of synthetic fibers to road surfacing. And so his book gradually grew.

Because of his readable style, which skips over all the technical aspects of the oil drilling and marketing processes, "Speak to the Earth" should prove to be of wide general interest. The title is from the Book of Job, "Or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee."

In Days of Charles Stuart

MARY OF CARISBROOKE, by Margaret Campbell Barnes. (Macrae Smith, 318 pgs., $3.75.)

To Mary Floyd, the Island of Wight was the most beautiful spot in the entire world. Peaceful and tranquil, it seemed remote from the mainland and its troubles with the king. But no place was remote during the revolutionary war, and one day Charles Stuart, deposed King of England, came to the castle of Carisbrooke seeking succor, only to find entrapment.

Mary, in her position as daughter of the sergeant of the castle guard and niece of the castle housekeeper, was drawn into the plots revolving around the king. She smuggled his letters in and out of the castle and willingly entered into all his plans for his escape. But although Mary was sympathetic to the King, she was primarily interested in one of the King's men, Harry Firebrace. However, before the King was taken from Carisbrooke, Mary's heart was broken and she knew tragedy. As in all romantic love stories, she found another love and another king to serve, even though it was not on the Isle of Wight.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Oil Prosperity at Taxpayers' Cost

WASHINGTON.

YOU may have wondered about the free and easy fashion in which big oil companies throw their money around to protect themselves in politics. How, for example, they quickly raised a fund of $1,500,000 to lobby for the bill now before the Senate to exempt them, as natural gas producers, from regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

How they scattered contributions about for campaigns of individual members of Congress at widely assorted parts of the country — far from Texas and Oklahoma and California and Louisiana, and without respect to party label. Well, one reason why they can afford to be so lavish is a "kitty" they are handed by Congress, for which the rest of us taxpayers foot the bill. This is the 27½ per cent depletion allowance, a flat deduction before they start to figure their income taxes.

Stokes

Treasury Loses $750,000,000

This, on top of all other deductions they get such as business operating expenses, depreciation, outlays for research, exploration and development, losses on abandonment and so on, brings the average income tax on the big oil companies down to around 22 to 26 per cent compared with the 52 per cent flat rate that other corporations pay, though some few oil companies get off for much less.

All this is revealed, with some very interesting case histories, in data supplied by the Treasury to various committees of Congress from time to time.

The most recent study, a report on which was issued a few days ago, was by the Tax Policy subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report.

We can get some idea of the size of this "kitty" available for use in politics from an estimate made for the committee by a recognized expert in this field, Dr. Horace M. Gray, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, that the loss of potential revenue to the Treasury through the oil depletion allowance is around $750,000,000 a year.

Gravy Buys More Gravy.

That would provide plenty of money for lobbies in Congress and for campaign contributions —as, indeed, it does. Incidentally, if this and other special tax privileges for special groups were removed from our law, then the rest of us could get some reduction in our taxes. As it is, it it we who pay to make up for the losses in revenue from oil.

Big Oil has a sort of endless merry-go-round. Through its tax savings by the depletion allowance it has its "kitty" to use to influence Congress to keep that tax dodge in the law, as well as to help it to get other special favors it wants from time to time, like the tidelands oil bill of a couple of years ago, and the natural gas bill now.

Dr. Gray explained that there was an economic reason for the oil depletion allowance back in 1926 when it was written into our tax laws, as it was needed to provide a stimulus under then existing technological conditions to encourage discovery and development of new oil and gas deposits.

Private Tax Exemption.

"During the subsequent 30 years, however," he said, "this restricted privilege, designed to serve the public interest, has been transmuted into a generalized tax immunity, or subsidy, which seriously depletes the public revenue, creates grave social injustices and produces serious distortions in the economy.

"In short, the depletion allowance has become primarily a private tax-escape device . . . it has degenerated into a lucrative, generalized and largely functionless subsidy the benefits of which accrue primarily to a few large corporations."

In a recent book—"Monopoly in America"—of which Dr. Gray is joint author with Dr. Walter Adams of Michigan State University, there are some ominous conclusions about the economic and political danger of this depletion allowance device, as follows:

Industry Scares Congress.

"The net effect is that the taxpayers of the United States have been compelled, generally without their knowledge and certainly contrary to their interest, to subsidize, through tax rates higher than otherwise would have been necessary, the concentration of economic power in the oil and gas industries. This is difficult to reconcile with the canons of democratic taxation.

"The Federal Government taxes one man for the private gain of another: it uses its tax power to abet monopoly and to place independent competitive business at a relative disadvantage.

"Despite the questionable equity and the untoward economic consequences of this policy, the political power of these subsidized interests is so formidable that all attempts to abolish, or reduce, or differentiate the depletion allowance in favor of small producers have failed."

How true that is, the kowtowing and cowering before Oil, is driven home every day during Senate consideration of the natural gas bill which represents the most recent favor big oil courts.

MRS. LLOYD A. M'MASTER DIES OF HEART AILMENT

C. E. TAYLOR DIES; BUILT FIRST U.S. PLANE ENGINE

SAN FERNANDO, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—Charles Edward Taylor, who built the country's first aircraft engine, died last night in a sanitarium less than two months after a special fund had been created by the aircraft industry to maintain him for the rest of his life. He was 87 years old.

Taylor was destitute when he was admitted to a hospital early last month, suffering from asthma and infirmities. He had been living on an $800-a-year pension from the will of Orville Wright. The Aircraft Industries Association arranged the fund to care for him.

He designed and built the airplane engine used by the Wright brothers in their first flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. He built later engines that powered military aircraft and pioneer cross-country planes.

HUTTON WEBSTER, PAINTER, DIES; WON PULITZER PRIZE

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 31 (AP) — Hutton Webster, Pulitzer Prize winner for art in 1933, died here last night. He was 43 years old and had suffered from arthritis for most of his life.

Stricken while in high school, Webster went on to college and studied in Europe after he won the Pulitzer Prize. His paintings hang in the Library of Congress, the National Gallery of Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

He came to Tucson for his health in 1943.

ALFRED J. BREMER DIES

Alfred J. Bremer, a member of the University City Fire Department for 30 years, died yesterday of a heart ailment at St. Luke's Hospital. He was 59 years old.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Clark undertaking establishment, 1125 Hodiamont avenue. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. Mr. Bremer is survived by his wife, of 520 Westgate avenue, University City.

'TEA AND SYMPATHY' STILL ENGROSSING

Returns to American With Maria Riva in Deborah Kerr Role.

By MYLES STANDISH

"Tea and Sympathy," Robert Anderson's penetrating and sensitive study of herd persecution of the "off-horse," in this case a "long-haired" boy who does not fit in a New England boys' school, returned to the American Theater last night under the sponsorship of a new producer, George Brandt, who has taken it over from the Playwrights Company, and again proved itself a wisely written play and completely engrossing theater.

Sy Milbert's new direction followed that of Elia Kazan in the original like a carbon copy. The ingenious Jo Mielziner set showing a cross-section of a house in the school was retained. Alan Baxter was held over from the Playwrights production, seen here last February, in his forceful playing of the bullish, arrogant housemaster, the man's man type angry over his wife's opposition to his ruthless stamping out of the off-horse—a 17-year-old lad unjustly suspected of homosexuality merely because he was seen with a master who was fired from the school for that cause. Robert Higgins, a tall, slender youth, underplays Tom Lee in the same effective way it was done before—a hurt, bewildered and pathetically shattered boy, deserted even by his own father. So with the minor exception of a few minor roles of boys and the father which are not as well cast as before, the chief difference in this production and the first one lies in the two feminine stars.

Maria Riva, daughter of Marlene Dietrich, and a prominent television actress in her own right, plays Laura Reynolds, the housemaster's wife, the role that Deborah Kerr made famous, and in which Miss Kerr was seen here last February. Perhaps it is unfair to draw a comparison with Miss Kerr's brilliant work, but such a comparison does serve to point up the difference between a good actress and a great one.

* * *

Miss Riva, whose high forehead, high cheek bones and warm voice remind one of that ageless beauty who is her mother, is a competent actress and an intelligent one. She played each scene faultlessly as to nuance, as to pace, inflection and intensity. She projected tenderness, indignation and compassion, as she fought to save the boy, with sureness and skill. By any fair standard, it could be called a good performance.

But one could not help recalling the magnetism and vibrancy which swept across the footlights from Miss Kerr in the role, the warm rapport established between the audience and the woman she represented, so that her anguish was shared and the devastating emotional power of her acting glowed and throbbed. This is a quality for which we certainly don't expect many actresses to have—it is a rare magic thing, not to be acquired through skill, something that is simply there, or isn't.

But I still want to emphasize that, in the hands of Miss Riva, Mr. Baxter and Mr. Higgins, this is a highly rewarding play. It deserved better than the audience last night, doubtless cut down by the weather, which filled not much more than half the house. The play will run a week.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR MRS. MARK CRAWLEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mark Crawley, widow of the former vice president of F.D. Hirschberg and Co., insurance brokers, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. Burial will be in Zion Cemetery.

Mrs. Crawley died Sunday night of a heart attack suffered after she stopped her car when driving in Webster Groves. She was 70 years old and had been active in her late husband's insurance firm following his death in 1933.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arnold Schoene, 2023 Bland avenue, Maplewood, and Mrs. Ruth Heath, who lived with her mother at 408 Bradford place, Webster Groves, and one sister.

CARL W. HAUCK FUNERAL

Funeral services for Carl W. Hauck, a foreman at Goodwin Brothers Printing Co., will be at 9 a.m. Wednesday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, 1134 St. Cyr road, Bellefontaine Neighbors, with burial in Calvary Cemetery. He was 55 years old and died Saturday at Desloge Hospital of complications.

Mr. Hauck, who lived at 9448 Duenke drive, Bellefontaine Neighbors, was a member of International Typographical Union Local 8. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marie Euler Hauck, and two sons, Dr. Charles F. Hauck of Las Vegas, Nev., and John M. Hauck.

DUTCH PRINCESS IS 18; MAY REIGN IN HER OWN RIGHT

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 31 (UP)—Princess Beatrix reached her eighteenth birthday today—the legal coming of age that means she is old enough to reign in her own right if necessary and is entitled to an income of $79,000 a year.

The princess, eldest daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, also became a member of the State Council, highest advisory body in Holland through which all government bills have to pass on the way to Parliament.

At 18 she is entitled to have her own flag and her own household staff, paid for with the yearly allowance of 300,000 guilders (about $79,000). She probably will remain in school instead.

She is gay and healthy and likes to be "like all other girls." Her hobbies vary from horseback riding to sculpturing. In the words of Dutch author Hella Haase, she is "warm-hearted but she can also have a frightening temper."

Actress Jane Seymour Dies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Jane Seymour, stage and television character actress, died yesterday in Memorial Hospital. She appeared in many later Broadway hits, though rarely as a star. In later years, she performed mostly on television.

5 ST. LOUIS ARTISTS WIN NEW HONORS

Included Are Quest, Reinhardt, Jackson, Solomon and Edward Thias.

Five St. Louis artists have earned various kinds of international and national honors, it was learned today. They include Charles Quest, Siegfried Reinhardt, Bill M. Jackson, Robert Solomon and Edward J. Thias.

Quest, a member of the Washington University School of Fine Arts faculty, will be represented by "Still Life With Vise," a wood engraving, in a State Department show that will begin a tour of Europe next month, it was announced by New York's Museum of Modern Art, owner of the print.

Other proofs of the same print, also owned by the Modern Museum, have been included in recent or current shows at Salzburg, Austria, three cities in Norway and two in the East Indies. Still other impressions of this print are owned by Israel's Tel Aviv Museum, the Brooklyn Museum and St. Louis private collectors.

Reinhardt and Jackson have been named by a committee of authorities on contemporary American art among 100 artists who constitute this country's "outstanding new talent for 1956," it was announced by "Art in America," published at Cannondale, Conn.

Reinhardt, whose one-man show of new oils and drawings will open Sunday at Martin Schweig Gallery of Modern Art here, is an instructor this year at Washington University School of Fine Arts.

Jackson, a St. Louis artist who teaches at the University of Illinois, is represented in current shows in Washington, D. C., and Wichita, Kan., and is among 43 American artists whose work has been chosen for a traveling show of illustrations for the poems of Adam Mickiewicz, Polish author who died 100 years ago.

The February issue of "Art in America" contains reproductions of work of some of the artists honored by the magazine. Members of its editorial board are directors, curators and trustees of the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, Pittsburgh's Carnegie Institute, the Art Institute of Chicago and other leading museums.

"Two Flowers," a print by Solomon, People's Art Center instructor, has been chosen for the Society of Washington Printmakers' twentieth annual exhibition, which will close Thursday at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum, Washington, D.C.

Edward J. Thias, Brentwood artist and architect, is represented by a water color, "Urban Core," in "Water Colors by Midwest Architects" at Manhattan, Kan. The show will travel later this year to 12 eastern universities.

Art Museum Friends to Hear Experts on 'Obscurity.'

Gordon B. Washburn, director of the fine arts department of Pittsburgh's Carnegie Institute, will speak tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at City Art Museum on a Georges Braque painting owned by the museum. His talk will be part of a panel discussion, "Obscurity Made Clear," at which the audience will be friends of the museum.

Other speakers will be Leigh Gerdine, music professor at Washington University, who will discuss the second movement of Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra, and Jarvis A. Thurston, associate professor of English at Washington University, whose topic will be a poem by Wallace Stevens.

The Associated Artists of New Jersey will open a month-long exhibition of 35 prints tomorrow at Central Public Library art room. Among 34 to be represented are Luigi Rist, Minna Citron, Lesley Crawford, Carolyn Keskulla, Louis Lozowick and Grant Reynard.

ROBERT D. SNYDER CHOSEN AS COUNTY 'YOUNG MAN OF '55'

Robert Donald Snyder, superintendent of the Parkway Consolidated School District, was given the annual Distinguished Service Award of the St. Louis County Junior Chamber of Commerce last night as the county's "Outstanding Young Man of 1955."

The 34-year-old educator, a former chairman of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations, was selected by a secret panel of judges from several candidates nominated as having made significant contributions in the field of community service.

Snyder, who lives at 6026 Washington boulevard, received his Ph.D. degree in 1954 from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education. He was one of 20 men in the United States selected by the Kellogg Foundation School Award Committee for post-graduate work at Harvard.

Hugh F. McKenna, national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, addressed last night's meeting, held at Belvedere Joe's Restaurant in Brentwood. He called on all young men to interest themselves in community service work, without seeking a monetary reward for their efforts.

W. German President Is 72.

BONN, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Theodor Heuss was 72 years old today. Congratulations, flowers and gifts poured in from friends, admirers and government leaders of other nations.

REWARDING RECITAL BY MELVIN RITTER

Assistant Concertmaster Shows High Competence as Violinist.

By CHARLES MENEES

Melvin Ritter, new this season as assistant concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, gave his first public recital in this community last night. It was a rewarding evening of music for the rather slim audience that heard the free performance at Sheldon Auditorium. Ritter offered abundant proof that he is a highly competent violinist, and is thus a valuable addition to the city's musical life. May this not be his last such recital.

Ritter's program was well chosen to demonstrate that he is capable of meeting head on just about anything in the violin repertoire. He was deft and assured; he played without strain but with temperament. He did violinistic stunts a la Paganini and Eugene Ysaye. And he contrasted high candlepower with lyricism that soared most of the time. He displayed a smooth bow arm. Except for an occasional acid shade on the E string, his tone in all registers was warm and full of coloring. His violin is a fine one, a Nicolo Gagliano.

The program opened impressively with the Auer transcription of Vitali's Chaconne. The adagio of Mozart's E Major Concerto (K. 261) had bad intonation at the start but this was corrected. Over-all, the piece had feeling that was more affecting than academic. The Friedberg transcription of Schubert's familiar Rondo and Ysaye's Sonata No. 3 followed as good foils, the first skipping brightly, the second replete with demonic fury. The Ysaye sonata, written for unaccompanied performance, was surprisingly modern in its sounds. Multiple stopping was clean cut for the most part.

The rarely-heard E Flat Sonata of Strauss, somewhat dated as music, reflected the soloist's power of concentration. The big climaxes of the first movement were well proportioned in tone weight and the andante contabile was full of singing tenderness. In the concluding Paganini group were the Sonata No. 12, Caprice No. 1 and the "Moses Fantasy," based on a Rossini operatic theme, and played entirely on the G string. The audience won encores by William Kroll, who was one of Ritter's teachers, and by Sarasate and Kreisler.

There were times during the evening when the bright acoustics of the hall were not too kind to combined sound of violin and piano. Evelyn Rubenstein was the accompanist.

Scandinavian Speed Skaters and Skiers Slow Russia in Olympics

U.S. Girls One-Two In Fancy Figures

CORTINA, Italy, Jan. 31 (AP) — America's Tenley Albright, fighting back against the pain of her right leg and the misery of a cold, built up a strong lead in the women's figure skating competition today while Austria, Norway and Sweden temporarily halted Russia's runaway in the winter Olympics.

Miss Albright, attractive 20-year-old world champion from Newton Center, Mass., took a substantial edge over her 16-year-old teammate, Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., after a brilliant performance in the five compulsory figures.

Compulsory — or school figures—counts 60 per cent in the competition. The other 40 per cent is graded on free skating, scheduled Thursday. Since Americans traditionally are the world's best in free skating, the United States seems assured of a gold medal in this specialty.

Toni Sailer, a 21-year-old daredevil plumber from Austria, made a bid to become the games' individual standout when he made two daring runs down the icy, hazardous Canalone course to add the men's special slalom title to the giant slalom championship he captured earlier. He will go after a third medal in the downhill race, his specialty.

Sigge Ericsson, Sweden's all-around speed skating champion, smashed the Olympic record in winning the 10,000 meter speed skating championship in 16 minutes, 35.9 seconds. Sverre Stenersen, a leathery young veteran of 26, gave Norway its second gold medal by winning the Nordic combined event—ski jumping and cross-country—with a smashing victory in the 15-kilometer (9 miles, 560 yards) cross country.

Russian Favored.

Stenersen captured the Nordic combined by winning the 15-kilometer (9 miles, 560 yards) cross country race in 56 minutes, 18 seconds, finishing eight full minutes ahead of Russia's Yry Moschkin, who had won the jumping event.

Americans finished far behind. Marvin Crawford of Denver was twenty-sixth in today's race in one hour, two minutes, 25 seconds. Lynn Levy of New Orleans was thirty-third in 1:05.42. Charles Tremblay of Keene, N.H., was thirty-fourth in 1:07.40.

Brooks Dodge, a 26-year-old engineer from Gorham, N.H., was a surprise fourth in the men's special slalom, with a 3:21.8 aggregate.

Ralph Miller of Hanover, N.H., registered 1:34. Tommy Corcoran of Westfield, N.J., had 1:37.1. Wallace (Bud) Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., slipped and fell on the hazardous course and withdrew.

Stenersen, a tall, blond business man, finished just 2.5 points behind Russia's Moschkin in the jump. According to the way they figure this championship, Stenersen needed to beat the Russian by 45 seconds in the ski race.

He accomplished that with a flourish, finishing a full eight minutes in front of Moschkin who was timed in 64:18.

Stenersen, beaming happily, said, "This is the greatest happiness in my experience. I had not expected to win. I thought the Russian, Moschkin, would be as good in cross country as he was in jumping."

It was Norway's sixth victory in this event in seven winter olympics. The only non-Norwegian to break the monopoly was Hasu in 1948.

Tenley Near Tears.

Miss Albright finished the compulsory figures, elaborate figure eights, with a total of 1080.7 points. The 16-year-old Miss Heiss had 1054.95. Miss Wendl remained third with 1008.1.

(Tenley was almost in tears after executing today's difficult figures, the United Press reported. She gashed an ankle Jan. 19.

("Now I can admit for the first time that it hurts," she said. "I couldn't say anything earlier because they would say it was an excuse if I didn't win. But since I have won, I admit it. It's been hurting all along."

(Tenley hasn't won the gold medal yet, but she has a commanding lead and apparently is confident she can hold it because she is an excellent free skater.)

America's No. 1 bobsled, driven by Art Tyler of Rochester, N.Y., was second only to Italy's Eugenio Monti in today's training runs for the four-man Olympic competition Friday and Saturday.

Monti was timed in one minute, 18.18 seconds for the one mile, 109-yard course. Tyler was clocked in 1:18.99.

Japan's Chiharu Igaya, a Dartmouth student who holds the United States slalom title, had an agregate of 3:18.7, which put him second to Sailer in the special slalom. He became the first non-European to finish that high in the Alpine event.

In the day's first hockey game, Sweden shut out Czechoslovakia, 5-0.

Russia scored its second straight hockey victory by shutting out Germany, 8-0.

The unofficial team point totals after 13 of the 24 events (first places in parentheses):

1. Russia (4) 89; 2. Austria (2) 46; 3. Norway (2) 41; 4. Sweden (1) 39; 5. Finland (1) 28.

6. Switzerland (1) 18½; 7. Italy (1) 18; 8. Germany (1) 10; 9. U.S.A. 9½; 10. Netherlands 7.

11. France 6; 12. Japan 5; 13. Poland 4; 14. Spain 3; 15. Canada 1.

'I Can Do Anything Better'

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Actually baseball star TED WILLIAMS (left) and golfing great SAM SNEAD, partners in a fishing tackle business, disagree only on their relative ability as salt-water Izaak Waltons. Here, they pose at the Biltmore dock at Palm Beach, Fla., before beginning a duel to see who can land the most and biggest sailfish. Snead went 1-up after the first day, spending eight exhaustive hours in the fishing chair of a boat, bringing in two sailfish out of four tries. Williams, fishing out of a different craft, went "1 for 3." His catch measured nearly 7½ feet.

Cards Obtain Collum For Lawrence, Plus Minor League Player

By Bob Broeg

The Cardinals today traded pitchers with Cincinnati and threw in an extra hurler, a minor leaguer, as they regained little lefthander Jackie Collum and sent husky righthanded Brooks Lawrence to the Redlegs.

The minor leaguer in the deal announced by General Manager Frank Lane was Sonny Senerchia, former Pittsburgh third baseman who exchanged a bashful bat for a pitcher's toe-plate last year at Allentown, Pa., Redbird farm club in the Class A Eastern League.

Lane's trade, his first as general manager of the Cardinals, not including previous straight-cash acquisitions, was explained this way:

"It's not a big deal, but, we hope, a good one. I like Collum for spot pitching, either in relief or starting. He's not a great pitcher, but he is a great competitor, and Bill Posedel (pitching coach) recommended him for his heart and his desire."

Cards to Reds.

Collum, 27, a native of Victor, Ia., and only five feet seven inches tall, was traded by the Cardinals to Cincinnati in May, 1953 for righthander Eddie Erautt. The Redbirds even threw a spot of cash into the transaction—about $5000— but Erautt was shipped to the minor leagues that fall. Collum, meanwhile, won 23 games and lost 22 for Cincinnati the next two-plus seasons. He had a 7-3 won-and-lost record and 3.76 earned-run average in 1955.

Lawrence, 31 years old Monday, came up unheralded to the Cardinals in June, 1954, then won 15 games and dropped only six the rest of the season, posting a 3.74 ERA while doing double-duty that won him the nickname of The Bull from Eddie Stanky, then manager.

Lawrence Disappoints.

Last season Lawrence, the Redbirds' first Negro pitcher and only the second player of his race to perform with the St. Louis Nationals, was a bitter disappointment. Before he was optioned to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League, where he had a 5-1 mark and 2.37 efficiency rating, he suffered from wildness and general ineffectiveness with the Cards. He won only three times in 11 decisons and had a grim 6.56 earned-run average.

Senerchia, 24, was 8-8 with Allentown. Cincinnati transferred him to Seattle, a Pacific Coast League club with which the Redlegs have a working agreement.

The trade came just after the Cardinals had become the first club in the major leagues to announce signing of all their players for 1956. The last to accept terms was Outfielder Russell Rac. leading the Venezuelan League in slugging after hitting .312, belting 30 doubles and 21 homers and driving in 98 runs at Houston.

Social Outcast Will Carry Top Weight in McLennan Handicap

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—With Nashua out of it, racing director Charles J. McLennan yesterday assigned top weight of 126 pounds to Alfred Vanderbilt's Social Outcast for next Saturday's running of the $50,000 added McLennan Handicap at Hialeah.

Social Outcast, winner of seven stakes including the McLennan in 1955, drew two pounds more than Brookmeade's Stable's Sailor.

Grouped at 123 pounds in the mile and a furlong test for the $100,000 Widener of Feb. 18 are Dedicate, Platan and El Chama. The Australian star, Prince Morvi, and Sea O Erin each was allotted 122 pounds.

Nashua is scheduled to make his Widener tuneup in an overnight race instead of launching his 4-year-old campaign in the McLennan.

Two on Road For Concordia

Concordia Seminary's Preachers will play twice on the road this week, meeting Quincy College at Quincy, Ill., tonight and Lincoln University at Jefferson City Thursday. A third game within a span of five nights is against Tennessee State of Nashville Saturday, at the Concordia field house.

Pete Pederson's Concordia squad won a big one last weekend from Indiana State, 60-51, after losing at Canton, Mo., to Culver-Stockton. The Preachers' over-all record is 8-5, but only 1-3 away from home.

At Quincy, Concordia will face Ed Crenshaw, former Sumner High player, who broke the college's scoring last year with 564 points and a 22-point average.

$1,500,000 Offer for Nashua Is Rejected by New Owners of Horse

MIAMI, Jan. 31 (INS)—Leslie Combs, Lexington, Ky., breeder who heads the syndicate which purchased Nashua for $1,251,200 last month, has turned down an offer of a million and a half dollars for the four-year-old champion.

Combs said he had been approached by an agent at Hialeah yesterday but that he had no idea who the intended purchaser was.

One source hinted, however, that it was S. Niarchos, British steamship magnate who has invested lavishly in racing recently, including a record $126,000 payment for Nashua's mother, Segula.

Nashua currently is training at Hialeah for the $100,000 Widener Feb. 18.

Combs has indicated Nashua can win back at least a fifth of his purchase price in racing purses. He then would be retired to stud probably sometime next year for a dozen or more years, receiving a stud fee of between $10,000 and $15,000 a mare.

Harry Guelker One of Palace Bowl Owners

Harry Guelker, manager of Du-Bowl Lanes for the past 10 years; Mike Vigano and Vince Venegoni are the new co-owners of Palace Bowl, Southwest and Kingshighway, and will take over the management at midnight tonight. Charles and Dave Brusatti are the former owners.

Guelker, who has been in the bowling field for 30 years, will serve as president of Palace Bowl, Inc. Vigano, secretary of the St. Louis County All-Star League at Silver Shield Lanes for the past years, will serve as secretary and Venegoni is treasurer.

The grand opening is scheduled Feb. 18 at 8 p.m.

Fitzsimmons Will Manage Binghamton

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Freddy Fitzsimmons, coach of the New York baseball Giants for the past six seasons, was named manager of the New York Yankees' Binghamton club in the Eastern League. Fitzsimmons was manager of the Philadelphia Phils of the National League for three years before joining the Giants.

He succeeds George Stirnweiss, former Yankee infielder, at Binghamton.

Scott AFB Wins.

Scott Air Force Base defeated the Bruce Campbells, 108 to 102, in an overtime basketball game last night at Art Hoech Junior High School. Frank Mowery scored 39 points and Jim Metcalf 22 for the winners, while Ted Allwardt, with 26, Rich Rockefeller, with 24, and Bob Riley, with 22, paced the Campbells. The season record for both teams now is 9-7.

Alston Thinks Dodgers Need More Lefties

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Walter Alston sees no danger of complacency on his 1956 Brooklyn Dodgers after their first World Series success.

"They all know they had to hustle to get up there and they'll have to keep hustling to stay," Alston said yesterday after signing to manage the Dodgers again for a reported $32,500 salary. "They all realize this is another year."

Alston pointed to Catcher Roy Campanella, Pitcher Don Newcombe and Third Baseman Jackie Robinson as he spoke of his hopes for the new season. He discounted the problem of the Dodgers' advancing ages.

"Campy, Newk and Jackie look pretty good to me," he said. "I think they all lost weight since the end of the season. Although they're a year older, they'll still get us plenty of runs.

Looking for Trouble?

"Pitching could be a problem, if we still have sore arms. It all depends on how Carl Erskine, Karl Spooner and Billy Loes come around. Roger Craig and Don Bessent should be better, but you never can tell about young pitchers."

Alston singled out Second Baseman Charley Neal, (.274), Outfielder Gino Simili (.306) and lefthanded Pitcher Ken Lehman (22-9) as newcomers from the Montreal farm with "good reports."

Admitting the Dodgers had "as good a chance as anybody else," Alston cautiously listed New York, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia as the top opposition.

"Maybe we'll need more left-handed pitching," he said. "It looks as though the league might be more left handed (more left handed batting power), especially Cincinnati, St. Louis and New York and maybe Milwaukee.

"We don't know how long Johnny Podres will be around before he goes into the Army. But he should be a better pitcher after that job in the series."

Jackson vs. Robinson.

Alston said the third base rivalry between Ransom Jackson, the former Chicago Cub who was acquired in a December trade, and Robinson would have to be worked out in spring training. He wouldn't scratch Robinson entirely from the left field derby and added, "I don't know, maybe Jackson can play left field, too."

The news of Alston's return for another one-year contract, his third, came at a press conference following a luncheon at which Alston had been honored by Sport Magazine as "The Man of the Year in Sports in 1955."

Indiana U. Declares U.S. Hurdles Champion Campbell Ineligible

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 31 (UP)—Indiana University today declared Olympic hope Milt Campbell, the national high hurdles champion, ineligible scholastically to compete in track and field this spring.

He was the third Hoosier athlete to fail mid-term examinations. Previously declared ineligible were sophomore basketball stars Charley Brown and Paxton Lumpkin.

Campbell's ineligibility means he has to get ready "on his own" for the United States trials prior to the Olympics at Melbourne next December.

Campbell, also No. 1 halfback at Indiana won the A.A.U. Decathlon title in 1953 after winning second place in the gruelling, 10-event test in the 1952 Olympiad. Last summer he captured both the A.A.U. and N.C.A.A. high hurdles crowns.

Another Tax Lien Is Filed Against Louis

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Another tax lien against former heavyweight champion Joe Louis was filed yesterday with County Recorder Joseph Ropa by D. J. Luippold, acting director of the Internal Revenue Department.

The lien was for $650,827 and increased to $1,199,437 the amount the former titleholder owes in back taxes and interest.

The amount covered taxes and interest on earings in 1946, 1947 and 1948. Of the amount $187,783 was interest and $463,043 principal.

Duquesne Will Defend NIT Tourney Honors

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (INS)—Duquesne University has accepted an invitation to defend its National Invitation Basketball Tournament championship at Madison Square Garden March 17-24.

The Dukes are the first of 12 teams invited to the annual classic. A major power with All-America Dick Ricketts last year, Duquesne is not even listed among the 20 teams this year.

HANDBALL

NORTH SIDE Y.

CLASS A—Walter Woodruff and Ray Franks defeated Joe Stratman and Chester Maness, 21-13, 21-20; Adolph Jacobsmeyer and Paul Noel defeated Bob Lutz and Ernst Grote, 21-10, 15-21, 21-18.

CLASS B—William Dillon and William McGuire defeated Gerard Halloran and Dudley Dean, 21-2, 21-15; Gene Poelker and James Knoll defeated Bob Foth and Winston Tompkins, 21-16, 21-13.

CLASS C — Martin Danzer and Charles Bischoff defeated Charles Hagemeyer and Jack Hughes, 21-14, 20-21, 21-9; Paul Dohrmann and Bill Pohlman defeated John Weber and John O'Connor, 18-21, 21-6, 21-9.

Y.M.H.A. CLASS A.

High School Coaches to Meet To Make Soccer Tourney Plans

By Dent McSkimming

Coaches whose teams will compete in the St. Louis District high school soccer championship tournament will meet tomorrow night to make final plans.

Present indications are that 10 or 12 schools will compete, including the six members of the Catholic Athletic Conference, plus Christian Brothers, St. Louis U. High, Laboure, St. Johns, Country Day, Western M. A., and John Burroughs. Eight or 10 "B" teams will compete in their own title meet.

Although good teams could be recruited at three of the public high schools—Cleveland, Beaumont and Southwest—it is doubtful if any of these will enter, this year.

Sponsoring the tournament is the Catholic Athletic Conference under Fr. John Ratterman, who has invited all high schools of the area to compete. The organization meeting will be held at 7304 Goff avenue, Richmond Heights.

Junior Championships Open.

Seven games in the first round of the national Junior soccer championship tournament will be played here Sunday. One of these will be the meeting of St. Paul and St. Ambrose teams in the 12 o'clock preliminary to the C.Y.C. senior doubleheader at Grounds Two, Fairground Park.

Others: St. Pius vs. St. Cecelia, 1:15, Carondelet; St. John's vs. Nativity, 1:15, Sublette; St. Engelbert vs. Fifth District Youth Association, 1:15, Sherman; Resurrection vs. St. Philip, 2:30, Carondelet; Holy Rosary vs. Little Flower, 2:30, Sherman; St. Agatha vs. Sabers, 2:15, Cherokee; Tabacchis, bye.

Soccer leaders who have followed the Junior teams here this season are impressed with the increased number of such players but are not sure that any one team has the polish needed to win the national title.

"I think we have more junior players of championship class than in any previous season," said one official. "But I have not yet seen a team that impresses me as the equal of the Seco team that brought the national title here in 1951." That's the team that had the benefit of expert coaching by Oscar Mossmann and the late Hans Strnadl.

Chile Beats Brazil.

Brazil, an acknowledged leader in South American soccer, has its troubles in the big tournaments. Most recent disappointment was a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Chile in the South American championship tourney in progress at Montevideo. Other recent results: Argentina 2, Peru 1; Uruguay 4, Paraguay 2. Each tournament game is drawing a capacity crowd of 80,000.

Poirier Beats Fiore; Wants Vejar Contest

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Gene Poirier, shifty Niagara Falls, N.Y., youngster, credits his 10-round victory over Carmine Fiore, veteran Brooklyn left hooker, to added confidence.

"The last time I fought I wasn't sure of my ability to go 10 rounds," said Poirier. "Now I know."

Fiore, an 8 to 5 favorite, won the vote of only one official, Judge Arite Aidala (5-4-1), last night at St. Nicholas arena. Referee Barney Felix (6-3-1) Judge Harold Barnes (6-4), the AP (6-3-1) and most of the 1500 customers thought Poirier won it. Poirier weighed 151, Fiore 150½ pounds.

Fiore was strong in the early rounds, but went into a shell trying to protect his right eye, after Poirier opened a gash over the eye in the fourth.

Irving Cohen, Poirier's manager, said he would like to match his boy with Chico Vejar, Danny Giovanelli or Oscar Pita.

bottle after bottle . . . the same fine Old Forester

Whenever, wherever you ask for fine bourbon, make sure you'll always enjoy the same bottled-in-bond flavor—the carefully controlled quality that have made Old Forester famous since 1870. Say simply, "Old Forester, please," and know why the label sincerely states:

Illini Sink 31 of 37 Free Throws to Keep Big Ten Lead

Here and There.

SIDE glimpses of college basketball, taken from wire service reports:

Phil Woolport, coach of the 40-straight San Francisco Dons, doesn't think his team will let down.

"Sure the pressure is off the squad a little," he said after the victory over California Saturday, "but I don't see much chance of a let-down."

"You can't let down," says the Dons' 6-10 center Bill Russell, "against a team that leads the league." San Francisco, with a 3-0 California Basketball Association record, plays San Jose (4-0) in a league game tonight.

Strange is the reaction of fans sometimes when their pet team is called upon to combat a deep freeze employed by an inferior opponent. The San Francisco Chronicle reported that its switchboard was swamped by phone calls from irate television viewers who blasted the California stall against the Dons as "unsportsmanlike" and "un-American."

It's strange because the deep-freeze approach can be essentially a tactical maneuver rather than a contest-degrading resort to inaction. Who should know better than the coach presumably most offended? After the game, Woolpert said:

"I would have done the same thing if our positions had been reversed."

* * *

Aptly-Named Terriers.

ST. FRANCIS of Brooklyn, one of the three major college teams still unbeaten (along with San Francisco and Temple) has a run of 13 victories and is considered to have practically assured itself of a National Invitation Tournament berth.

The Terriers of St. Francis took a big step toward the tournament by beating Seton Hall last week and following that game Seton Hall Coach Honey Russell was warm in his praise for the winners.

"Their unbeaten record is no fluke," he said. "We played a pretty good game and they still beat us. They don't have any All-Americas but they've got six or seven real good players. They are in there fighting and digging all the time."

Danny Lynch, coach of St. Francis, doesn't expect his team to continue unbeaten in a schedule that includes Creighton, Manhattan, St. Joseph's (Pa.) and Siena in remaining games.

"I'll be very surprised if we go through unbeaten," said Lynch. "The day of the undefeated basketball team is gone and forgotten. I can't remember the last time a team won all its games over an entire season.

"There are too many good shooters, even on these so-called little teams. All you need is for one of them to suddenly get hot against you one night and there goes your undefeated season."

Because of academic qualifications—St. Francis doesn't have enough books in its small college library—the Terriers are not eligible to belong to the N.C.A.A. and play in its tournaments. But in view of their schedule, the N.C.A.B. (statistics bureau of the N.C.A.A.) rates them as a "major college" team. St. John's of Brooklyn, one of nine major foes of St. Francis, was one of the Terrier victims.

No Charity.

ADOLPH RUPP referred with a touch of displeasure to the Kentucky loss at Vanderbilt. . . . "We lost that game on the free throw line," he said. "We had five more field goals than they did but they got 33 free throws out of 40 and we made only 15 out of 24." Previously, a turning point for the better in the Kentucky progress had been the December game with St. Louis, Rupp recalled. . . . It was the first contest in which the Wildcats employed the double pivot and found that to be a means of keeping greater control of the backboards. In that St. Louis game, of course, Kentucky had control of everything and put the Bills in its hip pocket.

Ed Wilks of the A.P. in New York observes that San Francisco Coach Phil Woolpert uses the old saw, "We'll play 'em one at a time," in referring to the Dons' remaining 11 games on the regular schedule. . . . Wilks adds the Dons probably could take 'em all at once!

Winter rhubarb, Rocky Mountain variety, continues to grow in abundance in the Skyline Conference, says a report from Salt Lake City. . . . The rumpus is over basketball officiating. . . . Fans, coaches, sports writers and others are taking pot-shots at what they consider poor officiating.

Minnesota Late Rally Falls Short

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Thanks to some fancy free-throw shooting, Illinois still was at the head of the pack in the hot Big Ten basketball race today.

The Illini sputtered again but sank 31 out of 37 foul toss attempts to squash Minnesota, 95-84, on the Gophers' court last night.

The triumph hoisted Illinois' perfect conference record to 5-0, when a loss would have meant dropping into a tie for first place with idle Iowa. What's more, it extended Illinois's winning streak to 11 games and its over-all record to 12-1.

Gophers Prove Tough.

Illinois, ranked third in nation right behind San Francisco and Dayton by the United Press Board of Coaches, couldn't shake off Minnesota until the closing minutes of this tough tussle. The Gophers rallied to trail by only 72-71 with six minutes left, but Illinois ripped off six straight points and led comfortably the rest of the way.

Actually, Minnesota had 33 baskets to Illinois' 32, but those free throws told the tale. George Bonsalle got 24 points for the Illini, but Jed Dommeyer had 27 for the Gophers.

Purdue climbed into third place in the Big Ten race by defeating Northwestern, 78-68, in the only other league game last night.

Indiana, minus two of its regulars, tripped Notre Dame, 81-76, in a non-conference tilt as Archie Dees and Wally Choice each scored 24 points for the Hoosiers. St. Louisan Lloyd Aubrey got 15 for the Irish.

Kentucky Whips Tech.

In an important conference clash at Atlanta, Kentucky bounced back with an 84-62 triumph over Georgia Tech—more revenge for Tech's two victories over Kentucky last year, which were Kentucky's only defeats all year.

Bob Burrow had 27 points and 17 rebounds and Jerry Bird had 24 points and 10 rebounds to pace the Wildcats. Kentucky, ranked No. 9 nationally, thus got back on the winning track after being upset by Vanderbilt last Saturday and knocked out of the Southeastern Conference lead.

In other leading games last night:

Holy Cross, ranked fifth nationally, pushed its record to 14-2 by swamping Georgetown (D.C.), 88-68; Kansas State seized a half-game lead in the Big Seven by beating Oklahoma, 71-63, despite 23 points by the Sooners' Joe King; West Virginia clung to first place in the Southern Conference by crushing V.M.I., 103-68, as second-place George Washington trounced Virginia Tech, 92-70; Louisiana State routed Tulane, 87-66, in the Southeastern, where Georgia beat Florida, 93-73.

Wichita beat Detroit, 99-79, in the Missouri Valley, as soph Joe Stevens set the pace with 31 points; seven-foot Don Boldebuck scored 30 points in only 24 minutes to lead Houston to an 87-59 victory over Sam Houston State; Hubert Reed racked up 28 for Oklahoma City in a 75-56 rout of Texas A. & M.; Seton Hall whipped Creighton, 86-73; Clemson downed the Citadel, 86-70; Texas beat Border Conference leader West Texas State, 76-56, and Toledo edged St. Francis (Pa.), 96-93.

Moore to Meet Reno Boxer in Non-Title Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore will meet Howard King of Reno, Nev., in a non-title, 10-round bout here at Winterland on Feb. 20, it was announced by Promoter Jimmy Murray.

It will be Moore's first bout since he was knocked out by heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in the ninth round of their world title bout in New York last Sept. 20.

King, a hard-punching heavyweight, has been fighting professionally since 1952 and restricted most of his activity to the West Coast area.

The bout will not be televised.

Illini Still Going Up

Just like the nationally-ranked team for which he plays, HARVEY SCHMIDT (right) of the dark-uniformed Illinois team strains to get higher as he goes up for a rebound in competition with JERRY KINDALL, Minnesota forward, and another Illini player. Once-beaten Illinois continued to go up by winning the Big Ten game at Minneapolis, 95 to 84.

Hawks Seek First Victory Over Celtics, Royals Meet Lakers at Kiel Tonight

By Harold Flachsbart

Bob Cousy, the National Basketball Association's greatest gate attraction and the circuit's highest-priced magician of the hardwood, will be on parade at Kiel Auditorium tonight as the Boston Celtics—featuring also the one and only Easy Ed Macauley—will try to make it 5 out of 5 over the Hawks this season.

Red Holzman's rejuvenated Hawks, on the other hand, working on a rookie-fired victory streak, will be seeking their fifth straight decision in the second game of a doubleheader that will pit Cousy, the master ball-handler, against St. Louis's ball-hawking Bobb Pettit, scoring leader of the N.B.A.

The Hawks, last in the Western standings, could take third place with a victory over Red Auerbach's sharp-shooters if second-place Rochesters's protesting Royals were to defeat third-place Minneapolis in the first game. If George Mikan and the Lakers would win, and the Hawks, too, St. Louis would be only a half game from second place, which would be taken over by Minneapolis, and only seven percentage points from third. If the Hawks lose? They're not even thinking of it.

New Hawks Aid in Surge.

Ever since Holzman has worked his two former Rochester hands, Jack Coleman and Jack McMahon, into a unit with Rookies Al Ferrari, Jack Stephens, Med Park and the tall boys—Charley Shane and Alex Hannum—to work with Pettit and Capt. Bob Harrison, the Hawks have been flying high.

They started their victory streak a week ago Sunday against Syracuse and beat, in order, Rochester, Syracuse and Minneapolis to put themselves into the thick of contention in the Western race. With 26 defeats, they have fewer setbacks than the second and third-place clubs.

Pettit, the Stan Musial of the St. Louis squad, leads the N.B.A. in scoring with 1033 points in 43 games, an average of 24. Macauley, the slender hand-off star who put the St. Louis University Billikens in the national collegiate picture some years back, is Boston's leading point man with 861 points in 45 games, or an average of 19.1. Macauley now plays the outside—seldom the post—and is not expected to get rebounds that Boston players like Arnie Risen, Jim Loscutoff and Dick Hemric latch onto. Pettit, a 6-9½ former Louisiana State star with tremendous concentration on the court, is the league's leader in rebounds with 685.

Cousy a Dribble Wizard.

Cousy, highest salaried player in the N.B.A. at about $20,000 a season, can do things with a basketball that even Goose Tatum hasn't done when closely guarded by jealous rivals. He's fundamentally a playmaker, and he's a wizard in the reverse dribble, pass-off dribble and behind-the-back dribble. On top of that, he drives in for lay-up shots or shoots from the outside to the equal of Macauley. Cousy has 859 points in 45 games and the same average as Macauley, 19.1.

Other figures, supplied by the Hawks' after-dinner speaker-publicity director and jack of all trades, Marty Blake: Boston has averaged 104.8 points a game and yielded an average of 102.9; the Celtics have gone over 100 exactly 31 times in 45 games and the opposition 34 times! The Hawks have averaged 91.4 a game and have given up an average of 97.2, which includes 133 and 122-point totals by Boston.

Minneapolis, which will play Boston in the first game of another big Kiel doubleheader Thursday night (the Hawks then will oppose Fort Wayne) has averaged 97.4 but yielded an average of 100.7. So why worry, if the officials call one or two bad ones!

This will mark Mikan's first appearance as a player in St. Louis since the Bomber days of 1949-50, when he and Macauley, a freshman that season, were arch rivals on the post. Mikan, who recently came out of retirement to give the Lakers a shot in the arm, will be a rival of Macauley's in Thursday night's twin bill.

Texas Loop Extends President's Contract

DALLAS, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Dick Butler of the Texas League yesterday received an extension of his contract and a bonus clause after turning down an offer to be general manager of the Kentucky State Fair.

Bonneau Peters, president of the Shreveport Sports and league vice president, said the unanimous action was taken by league directors in a telephone poll. Butler's new contract will run through 1959.

Bears Depart On Three-Game Northern Trip

By Harold Tuthill

Washington University's basketball team will be busy Bears this week after a 12-day layoff for mid-year examinations. The Bears will play at Valparaiso, Ind., tomorrow night, meet Wayne at Detroit Friday and University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Saturday.

The team left Delmar Station this afternoon and is scheduled to arrive in Valparaiso late tonight. Coach Gullion headed a 17-man delegation from the Hilltop.

One of the pleasing features to the defense-minded Gullion has been the steady improvement of Jim Paul, former Bayless High player, as a board-clearing center. The 6-5 Paul, who frequently has to give away height and weight, now leads the team in rebounds, 103. Jim Barton, the Edwardsville eagle eye, is next with 97, followed by Granite City's Art Borchers, 94, and John Burrough's Bill Gullion, 80.

Paul also is near the 100 mark in scoring, 96 to 13 games for an average of 7.4. Leading the team, however, is Barton, whose total of 283 has helped the Bears into a season record of 10-3. Jim's average is 21.3.

Ed (Bud) Cristal has 171, Borchers 156, Gullion 70 and Bob Casten 60 to account for most of the Bears' 892 points. The opposition has been held to 767, an average of 59 per contest.

Valpo, which now has a 6-9 record, lost to the Bears here, 67-55, but on their home court the Crusaders from Northern Indiana figure to make it much closer.

Prep Wrestling.

In a Suburban League wrestling meet, Ritenour defeated Ferguson, 22 to 21, giving the defending champion Huskies a record of seven victories and no losses in league competition.

The results:

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Illinois High School Association district and regional pairings for the 1956 state basketball tournament provide few tests for favored powers.

District tournaments will be played Feb. 20-24, regionals Feb. 27-March 2, and sectionals March 7-9.

The 15 sectional winners and the Chicago Public League champion will open the 16-team finals at eight sites, Northwestern University, Bradley University, Decatur, Hinsdale, Moline, Salem, Springfield and West Frankfort, on March 13.

The eight survivors will meet in the finals at the University of Illinois March 16-17.

Dogfight Shapes Up.

One of the regionals with a number of strong teams will be the Collinsville tourney. Edwardsville, Alton and Collinsville all will play here. Edwardsville and Alton are in the same bracket.

At Dupo, East St. Louis, Belleville, Dupo and possibly Freeburg's Midgets, who should win the Columbia district, will provide some close games.

A check of the pairings showed that Rockford West, 1955 champion, runner-up Elgin, Pinckneyville, Galesburg, Quincy and undefeated Shawneetown all should be heavy favorites to win their regionals.

Pinckneyville at Du Quoin.

Rockford West will open its defense against Rockton Hononegah. Other teams in this regional include Harlem, Rockford East and St. Thomas.

Pinckneyville's competition in the Du Quoin regional includes the host club, Red Bud, Campbell Hill, Sparta, Nashville, Chester and the winner of the Marissa district.

Galesburg, beaten only twice this season, should have little trouble with Avon, Abingdon, ROVA, Knoxville, Cambridge, Galva and Galesburg Corpus Christi.

Shawneetown's Indians, the small school surprise of last year's tourney, could have a tough battle with Carrier Mills if both get to the final at McLeansboro.

Crystal Lake appeared to be the hardest regional foe for Elgin.

Quincy Top Choice.

Tenth-ranked Quincy looked like an odds-on choice at the Quincy Notre Dame regional.

Peoria Central, East Peoria, Washington and Peoria Woodruff all are at East Peoria.

Moline and Rock Island, only two conquerors of Galesburg, could meet head on in the Moline regional. Herrin, high-ranked southern Illinois power, is at Marion, where the host club is also in the upper bracket, and other clubs include Carbondale and Carterville.

In eastern Illinois, Paris is paired with Casey in upper bracket play at Paris, with powerful Charleston in the lower bracket.

Oak Park and Maywood Proviso are both at Elmhurst.

Mercy's O'Brien, Leiding Score 35 Points Each

Central Is Mauled in Tourney

By John J. Archibald

Two times 35 is 70, and you just can't hardly beat that when it comes to basketball. In a rare double scoring performance last night, Mercy High's Bill O'Brien and Fred Leiding each dumped in 35 points as they out-totaled the entire Central High in an opening round game of the DeAndreis Tournament. Mercy won, 36 to 67.

In the other game, McBride had little trouble with a Chaminade team that had just been dealt a one-two punch by mid-year grades. The Micks built up a 25-point lead before using substitutes throughout the final quarter, winning by a score of 66 to 55.

Two More Tonight.

Two more first-round games will be played tonight. Second-seeded Laboure will meet Southwest at 7:30 and third-ranked DeAndreis will play St. Mary's at 9.

McBride and Mercy will be opponents in a Wednesday semi-final, as will the winners of tonight's contests. The championship and third place games will be Thursday.

Despite the final spread of 19 points, Mercy had more than a few anxious moments with Central. Because 5-11 Rich Bushart was as hot as anybody on the court, Central was able to pull ahead of tournament favorite Mercy several times during the first half and at the intermission was tied at 35-35.

Bushart, trying to match the ball-stealing O'Brien and the repeated tip-ins of 6-foot-7 Leiding, had 13 points in the first half. O'Brien had 15 and Leiding 14.

In the third quarter Bushart picked up 10 more points, but Leiding had 12 and O'Brien six, as Mercy took a 59-50 lead by the end of the period.

Central's chief hope for a second scoring threat, Ernest Fields, fouled out at the start of the fourth after getting 11 points in the game. Bushart kept up his bull's-eye shooting despite heavy guarding and wound up with 33 points. O'Brien and Leiding were dropping in field goals every time the ball changed hands, however, as they both raised their totals to 35 points.

Larry Scherer led a fast-breaking McBride team with 20 points during the three quarters he played. Bob Graves had 14.

Chaminade was handicapped by the loss of one starter and one much-used reserve because of poor grades for the first half-year's work. The Flyers shot pretty good whenever they got the ball, but were no match for the well-drilled McBride squad. Jim Lee had 18 points and Bud Faron 16 to lead the Chaminade scorers.

Soldan Is Beaten.

Soldan of the Public High League bowed in the first round of the South County tournament, losing to Eureka, 49-46. In other first round games, Mehlville defeated Valley Park, 54 to 44, and Hancock won from Lindbergh, 59 to 51.

Belleville Cathedral, the Catholic League leader, nipped St. Peter's of St. Charles, 52 to 42, after the teams had been tied at the end of the first half, 24-24.

Scores in the Suburban League B tournament: University City 53, Clayton 48 (overtime); Brentwood 45, Ladue 33; Ferguson 62, Wellston 46; Webster Groves 48, Normandy 44.

Wheelchair Basketball.

The St. Louis Jets will oppose the Illinois Gizz Kids in a wheelchair basketball game Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Concordia Seminary fieldhouse. Admission will be 75 cents.

Lindells Bowl 770 Game for 3-Man Record

For the second time in a month, the national 3-man bowling record was broken in a league match at the Arcade Lanes, it was reported yesterday by Barney Vehige.

This time, Ken Rothermich, Cleo Benoist and Vince Anello, forming the Lindell team, rolled a high single of 770 against the Seven Ups. The previous high for three-man teams in the country was 759, rolled by the Arcades, Jan. 5. The Lindells are second in the County Scratch League standing.

Anello missed a perfect game by three pins in leading his team with a 297 total. Rothermich shot 237 and Benoist 236.

Three Bradley Basket Players Ruled Ineligible

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 31 (UP)—Three Bradley basketball players, including the team's leading scorer, center Barney Cable, were declared ineligible yesterday following semester examinations.

Other varsity players ineligible were Don Carothers, a junior from Moline, Ill., who also was rated a standout decathlon competitor in track, and Guard George Macuga, from Tilden Tech High school, Chicago.

Cable, a 6-foot 7-inch center from Rochester, Pa., was Bradley's leading scorer with a 16.5 point per game average. He also was the third leading scorer in Missouri Valley conference play with a 22.5 average.

Cable, it was understood, did not fail any courses, but received D's in a mathematics course and in a physical education course to bring his over-all average below the points required to maintain eligibility. He announced he would remain in school to attempt to regain eligibility next year.

Two freshmen also failed to maintain an average high enough to remain eligible. They were Bobby Joe Mason, an all-state player last year from Centralia, Ill., and John Modricker, Logansport, Ind.

The Braves three weeks ago lost their second leading scorer when Sophomore Shellie McMillon was operated on to remove a torn ligament in his right knee. McMillon injured the knee last year and earlier went through another operation.

meeting in Paris. The uncompromising position which the Russian bloc took on this decisive provision left little hope that we would reach a practical and enforceable international agreement on the control of atomic energy with the Communist bloc.

I told Vinson that the Russian spokesmen were acting as if they intended to wreck any sane proposal for the handling of atomic energy by the United Nations. Perhaps we were not making our position and ourselves clear to the Russian high command. I warned Vinson that the Russians would not trust either us or themselves to talk freely and frankly. I hoped that this new approach would provide Stalin an opportunity to open up, and I wanted to try it.

Above all, I hoped that Vinson's mission, as an off-channel approach to Stalin, might expose the Russian dictator to a better understanding of our attitude as a people and of our nation's peaceful aspirations for the whole world. I had a feeling that Stalin might get over some of his inhibitions if he were to talk with our own Chief Justice.

I asked Vinson to point out to Stalin that the folly and tragedy of another war would amount to an act of national suicide, and that no sane leader of any major power could ever again even contemplate war except in defense. Surely the next war—an atomic war—could have no victors, and the total annihilation of vast areas was as unthinkable as it was abhorrent.

Play it by ear, I said to Vinson. Let Stalin see clearly, from the outset, that this is no probing maneuver in the accepted diplomatic sense. Make it clear that this is on the highest level of frankness—a free, uninhibited expression of attitudes, doubts, fears, suspicions and perhaps even ambitions.

If we could only get Stalin to unburden himself to someone on our side he felt he could trust fully, I thought that perhaps we could get somewhere. But, of course, if the Russians were hell-bent for communizing and dominating the world on a rule or ruin basis, there was little we could do by the negotiation route. Even then we had to exhaust every conceivable avenue of approach, as I told Vinson, and we had to keep trying. That was why I wanted him to go to Moscow and to see if he could not get Stalin to open up.

Vinson and I had a second visit on this subject that same Sunday evening, and we reached an agreement on the scope of the mission, the timing, the clearances and the public statement.

Unfortunate Leak Spoils the Plan.

Sunday afternoon I instructed Press Secretary Charlie Ross to notify the networks to allocate a half hour for a public statement of major importance. I also alerted the Under Secretary of State, Robert Lovett, to make the necessary preparations for clearances with Stalin to receive Vinson on arrival in Moscow and told him that I was preparing a personal message to Stalin regarding Vinson.

But before the complicated international machinery could be coordinated and all clearances obtained, there was an unfortunate leak to an unfriendly newspaper, and a big outcry of "appeasement," "politics," "unilateral action," was picked up by other newspapers and press services. The Vinson mission was severely embarrassed before it could even be fully explored with all the powers concerned. Most of the outcry by the press was, as usual, the result of poor information, half truths and deliberate distortion of the facts.

Following the premature publication of the proposed Vinson mission to Moscow, a number of complications set in that compelled me to reconsider the advisability of this mission. I had a talk with Secretary Marshall in Paris and found him upset over the misinterpretations by other delegates of the purpose of this mission. It seemed that there had developed a feeling that by this move I was circumventing the United Nations, which would tend to undermine their prestige and their authority. This was precisely what I wanted to avoid, and why I insisted that great care be taken to clear with all governments concerned before formally announcing the nature and purpose of the Vinson mission.

But the damage was done. There was no longer any use in going ahead with this project. I thereupon summoned Secretary Marshall to return to Washington for a meeting with me to repair some of the damage and use the occasion to clarify some of the speculations that had risen in the wake of the now much-talked-about mission.

Back to the One-Man Crusade.

As the campaign gathered speed, I stepped up my schedule of the whistle-stops. In all, I traveled about 31,700 miles and delivered more than three hundred speeches—356 to be exact. I was used to hard work, and my job was cut out for me. I campaigned for 35 days and averaged about ten speeches every day. On one single day, I delivered sixteen speeches.

My one-man crusade took effect. The people responded with increasing enthusiasm as the day of election neared. I never doubted that they would vote for me, although my advisers were still not optimistic and the polls continued to hack away at my chances of getting elected.

On October 31, 1948, I returned from the bedlam of the longest and hardest political campaign of my career to the restful quiet of my home in Independence. The tumultuous weeks of speech-making, handshaking, and traveling day and night had culminated in St. Louis the night before in a tremendous rally. I felt that I had given the voters a clear view of the choice before them and that the response from grass roots of America was so great that it would carry me back to the White House for four years as an elected President.

At four-thirty in the afternoon on election day, Jim Rowley and Henry Nicholson, who were first and second in command of the White House Secret Service detail, drove with me from my home down to The Elms Hotel at Excelsior Springs, Missouri, a resort about thirty miles northeast of Kansas City. We had slipped away from the reporters who spent the rest of the night trying to find me.

At Excelsior Springs, after taking a Turkish bath, I went upstairs to my room at six-thirty, had a ham sandwich and a glass of milk, turned on the radio to listen to some of the eastern returns; and then went to bed. I was reported some thousands ahead.

I awoke at midnight and again listened to the radio broadcast of Mr. H. V. Kaltenborn. I was about 1,200,000 ahead on the count, but according to this broadcaster, was still undoubtedly beaten.

About four o'clock in the morning, Rowley came into my room and advised me to tune in again on Kaltenborn's broadcast. I did so, and learned that at that time I was over 2,000,000 ahead, but the commentator continued to say he couldn't see how I could be elected.

I told Rowley and Nicholson that we had better go back to Kansas City, because it looked very much as if we were in for another four years, and we arrived in Kansas City at about six o'clock Wednesday morning, November 3d. At ten-thirty I received a telegram from Governor Dewey congratulating me on my election.

The final figures showed that I had received 24,105,695 votes, carrying twenty-eight states. Dewey had 21,969,170 votes, carrying sixteen states. Wallace and Thurmond polled slightly over 1,000,000 votes each. I lost four of the southern states to the Dixiecrats—South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. But I carried all thirteen of the country's biggest cities and seven large agricultural states—Missouri, California, Iowa, Illinois, Texas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. If it had not been for the half million American Labor Party votes which went to Wallace in New York State, I would have beaten Dewey in his own state by a majority of about 300,000. As it was, he carried New York by only 61,000 votes.

My majority in the electoral college was greater than my popular majority. I had 304 electoral votes (it was finally 303, because one fell out in Tennessee), despite the loss of thirty-eight votes to Thurmond.

The key states in the election had been Ohio and California, which had fluctuated throughout the night until the late counting of votes had put them in the Democratic column to stay. Without Ohio and California, I would have been assured of only 254 electoral votes, twelve less than the required 266.

The 1948 election proved the pollsters and forecasters so wrong and unreliable that to this day their reputations have not been fully restored and their influence is much reduced.

'An Historic Victory for the Party.'

What I tried to do in 1948, as always, was to make a living, going Democratic Party that stood and fought for human rights. I wanted to keep it a party that represented the common people, no matter how it was maligned or how many attempts were made to destroy it from within. The effort succeeded in spite of the two splinter groups, and won with almost a majority of the popular vote.

The greatest achievement was winning without the extreme radicals in the party and without the Solid South. It is customary for a politician to say that he wants all the votes he can get, but I was happy and pleased to be elected to the Presidency by a Democratic Party that did not depend upon either the extreme left-wing or the Southern bloc. And, of course, I did not want the reactionary votes which went for my Republican opponent. The fundamental purpose of the campaign in 1948 was to put the Democratic Party on its own feet and to leave it intact. This was achieved.

It was an historic victory for the Party. The Democrats recaptured the Republican House by a landslide and obtained control of the Senate. My long campaign against the 80th Congress had convinced the voters that a turnover was necessary, and I was given an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress to replace the one which had blocked the administration's domestic progress for two years.

Two days after the election the Presidential special train took me to Washington. There was a great demonstration in the Union Station in St. Louis, and when I arrived in the capital city, one of the largest crowds I have ever seen in Washington took part in a "homecoming" celebration.

As the Vice President-elect and I rode up Pennsylvania Avenue to the plaudits of immense crowds, I saw a sign on the front of the Washington Post building which said: "Welcome home from the crow eaters."

I sent that great newspaper word that I did not want anyone to eat crow, that I was not elated or in a mood myself to crow over anyone. I said I felt the tremendous responsibility that was mine for the next four years, and that I hoped for the support of all the people in carrying out the program which I thought they had entrusted me to accomplish.

I also sent the following message:

"I have no desire to crow over anybody or to see anyone eat crow, figuratively or otherwise. We should all get together now and make a country in which everybody can eat turkey whenever he pleases. Incidentally, I want to say that despite what your commentators and polls said, your news coverage of my campaign was fair and comprehensive."

UNIVERSITY CITY ABANDONS PLAN TO DEPUTIZE POLICEMEN

A plan to have University City policemen deputized as members of the St. Louis county police department was canceled last night by the city council.

The council, in its resolution, objected to a bill pending in the county council which would require members of the county police department to live in the county at least one year prior to appointment.

Elder Gunter, city manager of University City, said some city council members felt the bill, if passed, would prevent the county police department "from operating at the highest possible level" and, therefore, University City would not want to take part in the department's deputization program. County Police Superintendent Albert E. DuBois said he was "very much" concerned over University City's action.

FATHER OF 4 GETS 10 YEARS FOR ASSAULTING GIRL, 12

Neil G. Christopher, father of four children, today was sentenced to 10 years in prison when he pleaded guilty of statutory rape before Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein at Clayton.

Selection of a jury to try Christopher had begun when the defendant changed his plea from not guilty. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Don Lasater had asked questions of prospective jurors indicating he would demand the death penalty.

Christopher, who lives in the 6500 block of Manchester avenue, was charged with criminal assault of a 12-year-old girl last August.

84 BEAVER PELTS SOLD IN CITY BY MISSOURI TRAPPER

The almost-lost art of fur trapping in Missouri has been revived in a big way by farmer-trapper Lloyd Klosterman of Portland.

With 18 double-spring steel traps and 50 miles of the Missouri river to work along, Klosterman set out Dec. 1, opening day of the beaver season, to add to his farm income and enjoy one of his favorite sports.

Yesterday, after 45 days on the river he took his catch of 84 beaver and a number of raccoon and possum skins to the F. C. Taylor Fur Co. at 400 South Seventh street. Nelson R. Darraugh, president of the firm, said he believed it was the largest haul of beaver by an individual in recent years.

Klosterman, who gets up to $16 for a beaver pelt, traps the section of the Missouri river between Hermann and Jefferson City. Portland is about 90 miles west of St. Louis, in Callaway county.

HOW DO YOU STOP A 1,000 M.P.H. FIGHTER?

Sure challenging is an over-worked word. But can you think of a better one to describe the problem of bomber defense in an era of 1000 m.p.h. fighters, ground-to-air and air-to-air guided missiles?

That's the problem engineers are working to solve at General Electric's Aircraft Products Department.

In the past three years these engineers have made an impressive record. Since the establishment of the department in 1953 they have provided armament for such outstanding aircraft as the B-47, B-66 and B-52.

Now the growth of the department and the scope of the engineering problems with which it deals have created new openings for engineers. If you're looking for assignments which will demand the best thinking you can offer, check the job descriptions below.

In terms of interest, of professional advancement, of salary and benefits, of exceptionally fine living conditions, these career positions deserve investigation.

IMMEDIATE OPENINGS FOR ENGINEERS IN THESE FIELDS:

System Analysis
Data Conversion
Instrumentation
Field Test
Flight Test

Servomechanisms
Radar Systems
Reliability
Missile Systems
Engine Controls

Design of:
Modification Equipment
Electronic Circuits
Electronic Packaging

BIDS & PROPOSALS WANTED 286

Bids will be received at the office of the Board of Public Service, Room 208, City Hall, until 12:00 o'clock noon, Tuesday, February 21, 1956, for the Construction of Fire Station No. 9 on the south side of LaBeaume Street between Broadway and Ninth Street, St. Louis, Missouri. Detailed plans and specifications may be obtained by giving three (3) days' notice and a deposit of Thirty Dollars ($30.00) at the office of the President of the Board of Public Service, Room 301, City Hall.

KILLER OF RABBITS ON MASS BASIS PENALIZED $14

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

PARIS, Jan. 31—Prof. Paul Armand-Delille, 82-year-old member of the French Academy of Medicine, who has been held responsible for spreading myxomatosis, the disease that has killed millions of rabbits in Western Europe and England, has been ordered to pay 5000 francs ($14) in damages to a neighbor by a Paris appeal court.

The court confirmed a previous verdict against Prof. Armand-Delille

The plaintiff demanded 1,000,000 francs ($2856) damages, but the court granted him only 5000 francs, holding that the loss suffered by the death of rabbits "had been largely compensated by the profit gained in the disappearance of rabbits on his agricultural exploitation."

The virus of myxomatosis, originated in South America, was used in Australia to destroy rabbits.

Prof. Armand-Belille, fed up with the rabbits on his 750-acre estate, imported some myxomatosis from Australia and inoculated two rabbits. The disease spread to Holland, Belgium, Britain, Italy and Spain.

M'KAY STATES PHILOSOPHY IN USING NATURAL RESOURCES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—Interior Secretary. Douglas McKay said today there must be a "realistic partnership" of all the American people for a sound development of the nation's natural resources.

In his annual report to President Eisenhower, McKay said "Our system of individual enterprise with the Government working constructively to aid and assist but not to dominate and control" can best meet the problem.

Most of the detailed material in his report for the fiscal year 1955, ended last June 30, has been reported previously by the various agencies of his department.

Bar on Rifles Urged.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 31 (UP)—The Izaac Walton League announced yesterday it has passed a resolution urging the Iowa Legislature to bar rifles for all hunting during the open season on deer.

Do you work over 14 hours a day?
Are you an OVERWORKED YOUNG MOTHER?
Ladies' Home Journal tells what can be done

Are you up to your ears in work every minute of the day? Have you no time to relax? Are you exhausted when your husband gets home? Are you lonesome for talk with other adults?

If so, you're not alone!

In spite of labor-saving devices, young mothers today put in as much as 115 hours a week when few workers in business and industry are expected to work more than forty.

Because Journal editors recognize the importance of this problem, they called together four young mothers, whose problems are typical, to meet with experts in child care and family relations and discuss what can be done to help today's overworked young mothers.

In this revealing discussion, you'll read how these young mothers spend their busiest hours, their favorite hours; you'll learn how they shop and keep house. You'll sympathize with them as they tell about their most acute crises, reveal what in their lives they most want to see changed and modified.

You'll read how husbands help around the house . . . what part they play in taking care of the children. But still more help is needed! Where will it come from? What part can your community play?

With millions of young marrieds having millions of babies, be sure you read "The Plight of the Young Mother." Show it to your husband, discuss it with your friends.

At the Edge of the Shadow
THE JOURNAL'S COMPLETE-IN-ONE-ISSUE CONDENSED NOVEL
The pitilessly real story of one wife's struggle against alcoholism and her fight to redeem herself and save her family and her home.

DR. SPOCK . . . the Journal's authority on child care . . . gives practical pointers to help your child learn good manners.

"My husband wanted me . . . and the other woman, too."
Florence was everything his wife was not . . . pretty, vivacious, and lots of fun. Learn how the marriage counselor helped his wife win him back . . . helped them both find a new and happier life together.

VOLCANO BUILDS UP STEAM

Smoke and steam pouring from the cone of New Zealand's volcanic Mount Ngauruhoe, 7515 feet high, in the volcano's first eruption in nearly two years. Though no lava has flowed over the cone, the eruption is expected to be of major proportions. The mountainside still carries scars of the extensive lava flows of 1954, when boulders and molten rock were thrown into the air in a series of violent outbursts. There is no threat to life or property because the mountain is in the barren center of New Zealand's North island.

RETRIEVER IN ACTION

Huge landing craft retriever, latest tool in the Army's roster of salvage equipment, moving into position to straddle a crippled landing craft in recent tests at Virginia Beach, Va. The 101-ton machine can lift a landing craft from the ocean bed, cradling the vessel in its U-shaped frame. The unit was developed when Army studies showed that the majority of landing craft lost in World War II were damaged by rough seas, not by enemy action.

DC-8 IN DUPLICATE

Plywood mock-up of the four-jet swept-wing DC-8 airliner takes form in the vast hangar of the Douglas plant in Santa Monica, Calif. The full-scale mock-up is exact in every detail, and represents an investment of $250,000. It will be used for testing and statistical purposes, and will provide information to be incorporated into the giant jet liner, scheduled to fly in 1958.

Frustration of the Outdated Quiz Whiz

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.

THE lonely, the lost, the neurotics of all stripes have their little peculiarities. Some take to food, others to drink. Then there's the brand new breed; they take to the TV camera. They just have to get their faces on camera and once they have done it—like the first drink to an alcholoic—they're lost. We may yet live to see the start of Camera Anonymous, an organization dedicated to saving the addicts from themselves.

JOHN CROSBY

This has been the year of the big quiz show—the "$64,000 Question" kind of thing—and it has created its special hazards for the camera addicts. There was a time when the addict was content with 30 seconds on the Steve Allen show which was seen by Aunt Gertrude in Duluth and all the boys in the pool room.

★ ★ ★

BUT THEN CAME the $64,000 Question" and things got much worse. Overnight, the addicts get recognition not only from Aunt Gertrude in Duluth but from everyone. Their pictures were in the paper the next day. If they were Gino Prato, they went to Italy and had drinks with Clare Luce and then came back to be guest star on Perry Como's show. Heady stuff. Not the drinks, the cameras.

As it must to all men, oblivion eventually descended on the Shakespearean experts, the baseball intelligentsia, the boxing whiz kids. They were supplanted in the popular favor by the food maniacs, the nature fanatics. Hell hath no frustration like a Dickens expert who has been elbowed aside by a geography man. Pretty soon the Dickens guy is calling Garry Moore or Jack Paar pleading for a chance to show again how much he knows about "Martin Chuzzlewit." But by then "Martin Chuzzelwit" has lost its appeal; the fickle crowd is making its obeisance to the guy who has at his fingertips every last crumb of information about jazz.

AS A RULE OF THUMB, the regulars at any show that uses audience participation fall into two broad groups—the greedy and the exhibitionist. There is no reason why they can't be both and they frequently are. But the exhibitionist, while not exactly spurning the free watches, will appear for love alone if he has to.

These folk soon get to know which seats are best for grabbing the star when he comes down into the audience, exactly where he will go with the mike, and where the lighting is best in the theater. The pros grab the aisle seats on the side the star works. Never do they grab the seats under the balcony where the lighting is too dim for the cameras. And they will do anything—including pinching their babies and making them squeal—to attract attention and get on camera.

★ ★ ★

WHEN JACK PAAR was doing "Take It or Leave It" in California, one old quiz trotter turned up day after day, pleading to get on. Paar kept explaining to him that his face was too familiar; he'd been on every quiz show in town. Finally, he agreed to use him if he told what he really did as a professional quiz trotter. He hesitated 30 seconds, then agreed.

On the show, he explained that he was one of a group of about 20 people of all ages who met regularly at Hollywood and Vine to exchange information about audience shows. If a show was looking for a postman with 20 grandchildren, someone would be assigned to rush over and represent himself as that.

★ ★ ★

PAAR ASKED THE MAN: "Do you mind if tourists get on?" He replied that he didn't mind if tourists got on once in awhile so long as they didn't dominate the industry. It wouldn't be right, he said, if the tourist took over entirely because it was the professional attenders who supported the industry, who were always prepared to fill a spot, and who had the stories to tell and knew how to tell them. These people who appear to have no pride at all—they'll do anything to get on camera—do have a sort of pride in their work.

After the show, Paar got a phone call from the man's wife. He'd deserted her and his children in the Middle West.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER EXPLAINS: "My husband's sister comes to visit us once a year and stays about two weeks. We expect her in the not too distant future and believe me, Mrs. Post, I am certainly not looking forward to her visit. She is very critical of everything I do, and I have all I can do to control my temper and not blow up in front of her. I don't want to cause any unpleasantness in the family, but I don't know how much more of her criticism I can take. Is there a polite, but firm way, to tell her that I do not like her interfering with the way I run my house?"

EMILY POST

The only solution for your problem that I can think of is to have your husband explain as tactfully as he can to his sister, how you feel.

★ ★ ★

DEAR MRS. POST: Is a hostess ever expected to supply transportation for her guests?

Answer: Not unless she is taking them to the theater after lunch or dinner, in which case she must arrange for those who have no cars. Also, if she has asked people to come from the city to the country by train, she ought to arrange for their transportation from the station to her house—and back again.

AL CAPONE, notes Chicago columnist Irv Kupcinet, had a favorite florist who had a standing order to send an elaborate floral wreath to the family of every hoodlum the Capone mob rubbed out. It was a lucrative business, and the florist showed his appreciation by getting the wreath over while the body was still warm. One day, in fact, he overreached himself. The wreath, with the victim's name tastefully worked out in white carnations, arrived before the police had even identified the body.

COL. BIDDLE AND FAMILY were immortalized by King Edward VII of England. "In Philadelphia, when I was the Prince of Wales," His Majesty recalled one day, "I met a large and interesting family named Scrapple. They served me a rather delicious native food, too—something, I believe, called Biddle."

Report on Snow Tires Vs. Chains

By Lawrence Galton

INVESTMENT NOTES: Interest rates on savings, as previously indicated here, have been rising generally. But they vary considerably and a Bluebook report notes marked increase in savings-by-mail, as many people deposit even cross-country to get up to 4% interest. One caution: Not all high-interest institutions have deposit insurance, something worth checking. . . . Worth noting on Government "E" bonds: Since you can elect not to pay taxes on interest until cashing bonds, and can hold them up to 20 years, they may have advantage if you're saving for retirement or unemployment nest egg. If you cash them later, when you have little or no other taxable income, you may legally avoid taxes on accumulated interest.

TRENDS AND TIP-OFFS: Latest tests show snow tires give advantage in loose snow and slush, are little more effective than regular ones on ice or hard-packed snow. Other tests show reinforced tire chains can halve braking distance on snow and ice and, because of projecting teeth on each cross chain, are best not only for stopping and traction but for resisting side skids. . . . In Baltimore, Real Estate Board and Home Builders Association are at work on plan for a used house exchange where any home owner could use equity in present house as part payment in buying new house from any builder or in buying another used house.

* * *

HOME REMINDER: A new bulletin board may have many uses—as family message center, for recording phone calls, instructions to kids, holding bills, letters, invitations, reminder cards. It's 16 inches by 24 inches, has soft gray-black area at top serving both as blackboard and magnet board for small papers. Just below is pad for shopping list, another for more permanent information. Below and at sides is area for hanging big papers, personal telephone directory, keys, etc., simply by pushing golf tee through holes provided. Board comes with four magnets, hanging tees, pencil on brass chain.

* * *

WATER SAVER: In the average home, seven of every eight toilet flushings is for liquid waste. Using the full five gallons in the tank is unnecessary for this purpose yet ordinary tank ball can't reset until all water in tank drains out. A new ball, easy to install yourself, can be adjusted so only enough water to flush liquid waste is used. Pressing lever a second time empties tank when full flushing is needed. Savings: about 50 per cent of the 35 to 50 gallons of water used daily by each person in average house.

* * *

BATTERY JACKET: For your car battery, there's an insulated jacket said to increase starting power in any temperature. In tests at 20 below zero, jacketed batteries delivered 72 per cent more power than unjacketed. Readily installed and designed to be left on year-round, protecting in summer from hot sun and engine heat, the jacket is made of heavy Vinyl plastic, with fiberglas insulation backed with aluminum foil, and stitched with Orlon thread to make it fire, acid and grease resistant.

* * *

GARDEN HOUSE: If you need a place for year-round storage of garden gear and other equipment, a pre-cut garden house, easy to erect and relatively inexpensive, may solve the problem. Complete with all hardware, it can be assembled in a short time, using only hammer and screwdriver. It's 3 feet deep, 8 feet long, 6 feet 4 inches high. Construction: exterior plywood, 2x2 framework, with roof (plywood sheet covered with roofing paper) extending one foot over front of building. It's weatherproof.

If you'd like further information on any of the above items, write Lawrence Galton in care of the Post-Dispatch, identifying item, giving date of appearance and inclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope. Inquiries must be sent no later than two weeks after the appearance of the item.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. SHOULD A CAREER WOMAN SELECT A HUSBAND MORE CAREFULLY THAN OTHER WOMEN?
YES ☐ NO ☐
2. WHEN SOMEONE IS DEPRESSED, SHOULD YOU TRY TO CHEER HIM UP?
YES ☐ NO ☐
3. CAN A PERSON COMPLETELY CONTROL HIS EMOTIONS?
YOUR OPINION ____
1-18

Answer to Question 1.

YES, in some respects. The wrong kind of husband will likely find fault with her seeming "neglect" of him for "outside interests" which he does not appreciate or understand. She may be fired when he has plans for diversion, or she will be preoccupied with her own plans and will not give what he thinks is proper attention to his plans. Unless she is fortunate enough to secure a husband who understands her passion for self-realization the situation eventually causes irritation, even disaster.

Answer to Question 2.

Not unless you are an expert cheerer. Prof. Harry Overstreet, philosopher, an expert in this line, says, "It is poor technique to try to cheer up a fellow with the blues. He does not need to be told he is making a fool of himself. He knows it. Nor is it the time to put your arms around him, say you love him, best thing is to let him alone." Interesting yourself in others is the prime cure for depression.

Answer to Question 3.

If he did he would be a mere machine—a robot. Even when all our bodily functions are going on happily and smoothly, we have an emotion of "well-being." But, suppose we suddenly meet great danger. Instantly the adrenal glands throw extra sugar into the blood to strengthen us to fight or run, and this produces a strong emotion of fear or rage—in spite of ourselves. If a person controlled his emotions at this time he would be killed.

Secrets of Charm

A More Attractive Smile

YOU CAN IMPROVE YOUR SMILE.

IF you find that your expression takes on a smirk because your mouth is too small, try parting the lips when you smile. Do this in front of the mirror and see the improvement over the old method.

If your mouth seems way too large to you, learn to smile with closed lips. Some girls do this in such a convincing manner that you are sure they are laughing very hard.

Many a girl has a short upper lip, revealing gum margins . . . some more than others. But, this can be trained and sometimes elongated. These exercises actually did more than surgery could for one woman's smile after her lip had been injured and shortened by an accident.

1. Stretch upper lip over front teeth . . . then try to push teeth forward. Say "moo."

2. Hold upper lip between teeth and smile.

3. Purse lips, pull them downward and grin.

4. Let lower jaw fall and try to touch nose with upper lip.

Three to six months of daily practice are needed before a less fulsome smile comes to the lips without constant watchfulness.

Whatever you do . . . smile and "the world smiles with you." The only excuse that any woman could have for withholding a smile is that her teeth need attention. If so, she can take her problem to the dentist and have it solved.

Cheese Cake Is Test of Good Cook

By Edith M. Barber

CHEESE CAKE. There is an art to making and baking this rich, delicious dessert. The texture must be smooth and there must be no separation of "whey" from the cheese.

Many good cooks feel they have really arrived when they can make a cheese cake successfully. Of course a good oven is essential, but there is more to the problem than this. The recipe I have worked out from one whose source is Pennsylvania Dutch suits me.

Recently, however, I found in Carolyn Coggins's book "Fabulous Foods for People You Love" a recipe that calls for a vanilla pudding base. This seems to be almost an assurance of success. A variation of an old recipe may sometimes improve it, and when this is the case I am always ready to admit it.

Both cream and cottage cheese are the ingredients. The light cream may be replaced by top milk if you like. A choice of flavoring is given. I usually like vanilla, but rum extract is good. If I should be using rum itself I should increase the amount as its flavor is far milder than that of the extract.

When I am making a cheese cake I always use a spring form as it is difficult to remove the cake from casserole.* Of course it could be cooled and served in its own baking dish. It will taste just as good as when it is removed but the appearance will not be as interesting.

When we go to the trouble of making a cheese cake we like to have our handiwork admired, even before it is tasted.

DE LUXE CHEESE CAKE EVELYN
("Fabulous Foods for People You Love")

Ingredients: Three-fourths cup finely crushed graham cracker crumbs, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons butter, melted; one package vanilla pudding, one-half cup sugar, one cup light cream, one pound (two cups) cottage cheese, at room temperature; one-half pound cream cheese, at room temperature; four egg yolks, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon dark rum, rum extract or vanilla, four egg whites, beaten to soft peaks.

Combine crumbs, one tablespoon sugar and butter, mixing well. Press mixture on bottom of nine-inch spring form or three-quart casserole. Combine pudding mix, one-half cup sugar and light cream in a saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Combine cottage cheese and cream cheese and mix well. Add egg yolks one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add salt, nutmeg, vanilla and cooked pudding. Blend well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour over crumb mixture in pan. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) one hour. Cool to room temperature, then chill thoroughly.

Variation
LEMON CHEESE CAKE

Use lemon pudding mix instead of vanilla. Increase sugar to two-thirds cup, omit rum and use one teaspoon lemon extract flavoring.

Curing Damp and Cold Masonry Walls.

IF, for one reason and another, you ever spent any time in a medieval dungeon you probably noticed that the heavy masonry walls got a little cool and damp during certain times of the year.

This same condition can occur in homes with interior walls of masonry unless the walls were properly treated to prevent the interior surfaces becoming so cold that condensation occurs.

Just in case this happens to be your trouble, here is the way to correct it. First thing you do is to fasten 2 by 4 inch wood studding to the wall with the 2-inch wide face against the masonry wall. These pieces of studding should be spaced either 16 or 24 inches from center to center. Now the next thing to do is to insulate between these wood strips. You can use any type of good quality insulation for this job, but it should have a vapor barrier on one side and this barrier should face the room. It should not face against the masonry. It's also important that you keep the insulation from coming in direct contact with the masonry.

Standard insulation comes in several thicknesses and for this particular job it's best to use the thinner two-inch thick material so that it can be fastened to the studding with an air space between it and the masonry wall as well as between the interior wall (that goes on later) and the vapor barrier side of the insulation.

After the insulation is in place any type of good grade dry wall material such as gypsum board, plywood, hardboard or insulating board can be applied over the insulation to provide an interior wall surface.

Pork Chops.

Pork chops that are half an inch thick will need to be braised, after browning, for one-half to three-quarters of an hour.

IRONIC that Mickey Rooney will replace Donald O'Connor in the "Francis" films. There was the time when Mickey was on the top rungs and many Hollywood people rated O'Connor a minor-league Rooney. Now the cycle has come full swing; Don's on top and Mickey replaces him in Grade-B flickers, besides signing a seven-year teevee contract. . . . Curiously, you can be a Movietown success and still be as little known as Daniel Mann, who directed the current click pictures, "Rose Tattoo" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow." . . . The Broadway theater will offer 18 premieres before the season's final gasp. Five are revivals. . . . Gisele Neiman starred in Belgium in "Gigi." She also appeared in "Mad Woman of Chaillot" there. She is now here studying with the Actors' Lab when she isn't hatchecking at McGinnis's on Main Street at Forty-eighth. . . . His complete name is Francis Albert Sinatra. . . . It's never a cinch, folks. During 1953-54 Dana Wynter, the leading lady, often went hungry struggling for a role on Broadway.

MICKEY ROONEY . . . IT'S IRONIC.

Dieting Secret

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

PEOPLE often ask: "What is the key to the secret of weight reduction? Why do some persons have to work hard at it to lose an ounce? Others seem to shed weight easily."

DR. STEINCROHN

There really is no secret to losing weight. It is as simple as 2 plus 2 makes 4. It's a matter of intake and outgo. Eat less than your body needs to sustain you and you will waste away. However, if you cut down the excess calories to a normal intake, then you will stay in normal weight balance.

"We agree," you say. "It's logical. But everybody knows that. What we'd like is the secret. What one hint will assure weight loss in those of us who have been unable to lose?"

The answer is so obvious, you will probably discard it as being unimportant. Yet, here it is: If you really want to lose weight you must first instill deep in yourself the will to lose.

★ ★ ★

SOUNDS RIDICULOUS, doesn't it? You will say, "Of course everybody who wants to lose has the will to lose." But in my practice I have found that there is a distinction between the superficial and deep desire to melt off those pounds. Most people who decide to go on a diet make only a superficial effort to do so. They quit at the end of a day, a week, a month. Or, sometimes, they do a good job for three to six months. At the end of that time, like chronic alcoholics, they fall off the wagon and fatten up again.

The reason? Their will to lose has disintegrated. People who want to lose—yet haven't a strongly developed will to lose—give many reasons for their repeated failures in reduction. Week after week they will return without having lost an ounce. In fact, often they gain while on a reduction regime.

★ ★ ★

SOME PATIENTS will swear they eat very little. They can't understand why the weight just piles on. Then you uncover clues that they were perhaps unaware of. For example, some eat little until the hours between 6 p.m. and midnight. A large dinner plus television refreshments and midnight snacks easily counterbalance the effects of low calorie breakfasts and lunches. You will agree, when the will isn't there, the calories have a way of finding their way in.

★ ★ ★

I know how difficult it is to abstain from eating too much. I know that dieting is "no picnic." Nevertheless, I have given you the secret. You will lose—and stay thin—as long as you have deep within you the will to lose. This will overcome any and all dietary temptations. And you know, of course, how much normal weight will do for your health and looks.

Circulating Library About the South

Mrs. Henry F. Chadeayne, Its Founder, Serves as Volunteer Librarian for Confederate Daughters

By Mary Kimbrough

A St. Louis home, where portraits of Conferedate immortals occupy places of honor, serves as headquarters for a small but bustling circulating library, with a reading clientele throughout the country whose common bond is a devotion to Dixie.

It's the Southern Book-of-the-Month Club, organized two years ago by the Confederate Dames chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and indorsed enthusiastically by the state and national organizations. Its purpose is to encourage people—Yankee and Rebel alike—to read more books about the South in addition to new works by southern authors.

Although the library is a chapter project, its founder, Mrs. Henry F. Chadeayne, serves as volunteer librarian and the project headquarters are in the Chadeayne home at 4459 Lindell boulevard. A Marylander, named for one of Gen. Robert E. Lee's daughters, Mildred Chadeayne offered to circulate books from her own bookshelf to sister members of the U.D.C., and it was from that offer that the Southern Book-of-the-Month Club had its start.

Every morning, when the postman brings orders for new books (usually a half-dozen a day) and returns those already read, Mrs. Chadeayne checks the records, boxes up the requested books for mailing and takes them across the street to the mailbox. That done, the library can close up shop for the day.

Those orders come from 18 states, from big cities where public libraries abound and from tiny villages with no library service. They may inclose requests for a biography of Beauregard or Jesse James, the story of Missouri's role in the Civil War, or a new mystery by a southern author.

For $3.50, a member of the club can receive the loan of six books, one each month, from a list furnished by the library and revised quarterly by Mrs. Chadeayne as new books come on the market. The club pays the postage to the reader; the reader pays it coming back. If she decides she wants the book for her own library, she sends the loan copy back with the listed retail price of a new one and the order is placed with the book department of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney.

"The store gives us the books at cost, so we can make a profit on each sale," said Mrs. Chadeayne. "Anything we earn goes into our pension and scholarship funds or toward our share of the cost of the new U.D.C. headquarters in Richmond, Va. We feel that one real value of the library service is to give people an opportunity to read books before they buy them. Then they know whether or not they really want them for their home libraries."

Incidentally, when the headquarters building is completed in Richmond—selected because Richmond was the capital of the Confederacy—thousands of records will be moved from St. Louis. For many years, St. Louis has been the official headquarters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and a room at 5330 Pershing avenue houses all available biographical material on Confederate veterans and their descendants.

A woman must be able to trace her family to the military ranks of the Confederacy or to those who gave the cause material aid in order to be eligible for membership and sometimes, Mrs. Chadeayne pointed out, that requires patient and painstaking search through family Bibles, geneology books and historical records.

"WE were organized to help provide funds for Confederate soldiers' wives and families," she said, "as they were allowed no pensions by the Federal Government. In addition, we maintain homes for veterans' families and finance scholarships to colleges throughout the country for worthy Confederate descendants.

"Our St. Louis chapter formerly raised funds through such projects as card parties, but we have adopted the library plan because not only does it provide the money we need but it encourages people to read more about the South and about a period in our national life that was fascinating and important."

The project began on a small scale when Mrs. Chadeayne, a former president of her own chapter and now president of the Missouri division, offered to circulate her own books among her U.D.C. friends. She established "book runs" of 10 women, sending each volume to the first name on the list. When that reader had finished it, she sent it to the next, and on down the line until it came back to Mrs. Chadeayne who then placed it on another "book run."

The idea was so successful on a local level that when she presented it to the Missouri division, she won the delegates' enthusiastic indorsement, and last November the general convention gave the plan its unanimous approval. Among its subscribers are the organization's president-general, Miss Edna Fowler of Los Angeles, and honorary president, Mrs. Annie Rogers Newell of Charlotte, N.C.

As the requests for books increased, Mrs. Chadeayne established "book runs" on a national scale, circulating a certain volume among 10 readers living in the same state or the same city.

She also began to write reviews for the organization's magazine, recommending certain books. In that way, she came to the attention of publishers who now frequently send her galley proofs before the book is off the press. If she likes the book—even though she may not agree with it—she will accept it as suitable for the U.D.C. reading plan. But if it is lightweight fiction with no more appeal to southerners than its southern locale, she may reject it and give the publishers her candid opinion.

* * *

"SOMETIMES, a book will make my blood boil," she said, "because I don't think the author is fair or right, but we can't make this a partisan affair. We want to know the other side, too.

"Now take 'Andersonville,' by MacKinley Kantor. That's on our list, even though it tells how terribly the Union soldiers were treated in a Confederate prison. But we also know that the Confederate soldiers went through terrible ordeals in Union prisons, so we can remember that it was not one-sided."

She has included also "Woman With a Sword," by Hollister Noble, which deals with the planning of one of Gen. Grant's campaigns. It may be painful reading for many southerners, but it discusses an important phase of Civil War history and is especially recommended to Missourians because the campaign was drafted in St. Louis by Anne Carroll, of a prominent Maryland family.

Another which Mrs. Chadeayne recommends to local and and state readers — even though she disagrees with the author's viewpoint — is "Civil War on the Western Border," by Jay Monaghan, the story of Missouri's role in the conflict.

But off-setting these are such sympathetic biographies as "P. G. T. Beauregard," by Williams; "Jefferson Davis," by Strode, and "Sam Houston," by Friend. "Freemantle Diary," by Walter Lord, and "Heroine's of Dixie," by Katharine Jones, are among the most popular. There is also "Jesse James," by Carl Breihan, a St. Louis author.

* * *

MORE than 400 books, as well as southern magazines and record albums about the Confederacy, have been included on the reading list from time to time since the plan was started. Men as well as women have joined, and the reading clientele is by no means limited to those south of the Mason-Dixon line. But despite their long travels and the number of hands through which each volume passes, not one has been lost or seriously damaged.

"We feel," said Mrs. Chadeayne, "that this gives us all an opportunity to learn more about that era in our national history that brought Civil War. We also want to help support our southern authors, whether they are writing humor or mystery or recounting that magnificent time in the South's history of a century ago.

"We have been bequeathed a wonderful heritage, and we want to carry on that heritage. But we consider ourselves Americans first, then southerners. The Civil War was a crucial point in our history because it molded us into one people, citizens of a strong nation.

"I know people laugh at us sometimes and say we're still fighting the Civil War. We're not, at all. And we're not trying to keep animosity alive. Even when we read books which, to our way of thinking, have a slanted viewpoint, we agree with Gen. Lee who said after Appomattox that we are all Americans, and we must do away with any feeling of enmity for the North."

But, she added with a smile as she glanced at Gen. Lee's portrait on the wall, the southerners still don't have to believe everything the northerners write.

A cover-up for open shelves in a bedroom. Use cafe curtains made of printed fabric with matching dust ruffle for bed.

Insulation Tip

If you have bright uninsulated aluminum warm air ducts in your basement, don't cover them with asbestos paper insulation. Do, however, keep them clean for when the metal becomes dulled from dust and dirt it loses its value as insulation.

Ideas for a Boy's Room

By Elizabeth Hillyer

LET him use the odd and wonderful things he collects to decorate a boy's room, but give him a little help. Provide good backgrounds and settings for the various types of objects to make sure they end up as good room decoration.

A large piece of composition board that pins stick into is a good mounting board, but it's sure to be the decorative highlight of the room if you offer it already covered with colored felt.

Provide simple variety store inexpensive frames for objects such as coins. Cover up the pictures that come in the frames with felt and glue the coins on it. Instead of giving him just any shelves that aren't used otherwise, cut pegboard the right size to look good over a piece of furniture, paint it and set shelves on pegboard brackets.

All these ideas count on a boy's changing his enthusiasms.

TO HELP MAKE THOSE COLLECTIONS DECORATIVE.

When he has something new, it can replace something old—pins remove easily from the big board, the glue on the coins should dissolve easily and the shelves shift height with no trouble at all.

MRS. C. A. H., JR.—"I'd like a mirror for my living room and am thinking of a size five by four feet. Would the best place for it be between two small casement windows, or an another wall above a sofa?"

If the mirror is hung over a chest or sofa and is in good size relationship to it, it would be well-placed between the windows, but it might not look good otherwise. There's a matter of personal taste about hanging a mirror over a sofa. Some people do not like the effect of a big mirror close behind a seating piece. There may be another place for it that you will like better, but in any case, make sure the mirror is the right size to complete a well-proportioned grouping with furniture under it.

* * *

MRS. M. R. "My upholstered furniture is blue-green with a small black block pattern, and there is also a sandalwood-colored chair. Draperies have a white background with a two-tone green leaf and small cones in orange-cerise tones. What color should I choose for a wall and a rug? I'd like a plain rug or a two-tone leaf design."

The walls might be a pale shade of the blue-green white or a very much softer shade of bright color in the drapery pattern. With these the rug might be blue-green or a rich light brown. Walls in a warm light brown or beige might take a rug in a darker shade of the same color.

Contract Bridge

THERE was nothing spectacular about South's play of his three no-trump contract, below—he simply took advantage of the information given him by an opposing bid.

In case the previous comment may be taken to imply that West should not have opened the bidding on his 11 high-card points—no such implication was intended.

West assumed from the bidding that both of the missing heart honors were in South's hand and, determined to protect his double 10-ace position, opened the 10 of clubs. Although South was certain that his lead was not from the queen, he had nothing to lose by putting up dummy's jack. East covered and South conceded the trick. East made the natural return of a heart; West took his ace and returned a low heart, driving out dummy's king.

Now four rounds of diamonds were cashed, on the last of which declarer let go a low spade. West temporarily avoided embarrassment by discarding his club, but when the king and ace of clubs followed, he found himself in quite a dilemma. He gave up one heart but then, correctly analyzing that another heart discard (blanking the queen) would merely invite a heart lead from declarer, who was marked with the spade king for entry, West chose instead to blank his A-J of spades. That, however, was just as satisfactory to South, who promptly laid down the spade king. Whether West won this trick or not, he was hooked. To duck would only delay the inevitable, since declarer would lead another spade, so West took his ace, but he then could no no better than cash his heart queen for the fourth and final defensive trick.

Sheets, Pillowcases and Linen Supplied Free!

Here is a laundry service that furnishes you the linen. You don't buy anything. Modern Maid supplies you with sheets, pillowcases, towels, washcloths, napkins, and even floor mops. All you pay are the weekly rental charges.

Look at what you get: Fresh sanitized linen each week, top quality, beautifully laundered and finished. Sheets for double or twin size beds (contour type if you prefer); pillowcases; thick, thirsty bath towels; either huck or turkish hand towels; colorful dish towels; wash clothes; table linens.

You pay only one charge—the rental charge. This includes the cost of supplying and laundering the linen.

And this rental charge is even lower than average laundry charges where you supply the linen. (For example: the average laundry in St. Louis charges 14c a pound. The average sheet weighs 1½ pounds. That makes the charge 21c per sheet. Our charge is 18c and we furnish the sheet, too!)

With Modern Maid supplying the linen, here are some sample prices: Sheets, 18c; Contour-type sheets, 20c; Pillowcases, 8c; Bath Towels, 8c; Dish Towels, 5c; Hand Towels, 5c; Wash Cloths, 3c. Order sheets alone or any bundle you need. As low as 72c a week.

Thousands of people in the St. Louis area are already using this service. Call FRanklin 1-3727 and find out the details of this wonderful service.

Miss Katherine Moon Bride of B. J. Sargeant

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

MISS KATHERINE ELIZABETH MOON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moon, 7 Beverly place, and Ben Johnston Sargeant of Charlottesville, Va., were married this morning in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel of the St. Louis Cathedral. The Rev. Thomas F. Durkin officiated at the 11 o'clock ceremony before the immediate families.

The Sienna marble altar was simply decorated with bouquets of white stock and snapdragon and lighted with white tapers in gold candelabra. Ruby red silk taffeta gowns worn by the bride's attendants harmonized with the chapel's color scheme, a dominant underlying shade of red and a profusion of Venetian gold mosaic. Miss Julia Turner Lee of Fayette, Mo., was maid of honor for her cousin and Mrs. Robert R. Rosenthal Jr. (Barbara Bassett), and Mrs. Joseph O. Morrissey Jr. (Ann Griesedieck), were bridesmaids. Their dresses were designed with long fitted bodices, bracelet sleeves and portrait necklines. Street length skirts were gathered full and held out by taffeta and crinoline petticoats. The young women wore matching velvet half hats, trimmed with short veils and held bouquets of pale pink carnations.

Mr. Moon gave his daughter in marriage. She was in an ivory satin gown smartly styled with a rounded neckline, long tapering sleeves and a bouffant skirt which fell into a short train. Her fingertip illusion veil was held in place by a small lace cap and her bouquet was lilies of the valley, stephanotis and white orchids.

Mr. Sargeant, son of Mrs. George Harris Sargeant of Norfolk, Va., and the late Mr. Sargeant, had his brother, George H. Sargeant Jr., of Warwick, Va., as best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Stanley McDonald Moon, and Mr. Rosenthal.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Moon entertained additional guests at a reception at the University Club. White flowers and greenery provided a background for the receiving party. More white blossoms decorated the buffet table in the club's large dining room and smaller tables for guests.

Mrs. Moon wore a champagne toned taffeta gown, a matching, veil-trimmed hat and a corsage of brown and yellow cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother was in a French blue wool crepe gown, and a hat of the same shade. Her corsage was purple orchids.

Numerous Out of Town Guests

IN ADDITION to the bridegroom's mother those from out of town included Mrs. Moon's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Turner Lee, Fayette, parents of the maid of honor; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stuart Fitzhugh, Charlottesville, and their young son, Jerry; Mr. Sargeant's sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Francis, Norfolk, and Mrs. John G. Wallace Jr., Hickory, Va.; his sister-in-law, Mrs. George H. Sargeant, Warwick, Va.; his cousin, Mrs. Robert M. Hughes, Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bliss Linn, Zanesville, O., Mrs. George Bently, Hampton, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Edson, Greenwich, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Creekmore, Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Roy Langford Ballenger of Memphis, Tenn., the former Miss Xalissa Harris of St. Louis, and Mrs. Stanley McDonald Moon who accompanied her husband from Lincoln, Nebr.

The bride, a former debutante and a member of the Junior League, is a graduate of Villa Duchesne, Georgetown Visitation Junior College, Washington, and Washington University. Mr. Sargeant is a graduate of Belmont (N.C.) Preparatory School and holds two degrees from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, and a master's in economics from the University of Virginia.

After a wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Sargeant will live in Charlottesville.

MISS GERHARD . . . ART BAZAAR CHAIRMAN.

Miss Aurelia Gerhard, chairman of the bazaar, will introduce the speakers: Mrs. E. C. Mikkelson, whose subject will be "Oasis," which will emphasize how art training for children teaches freedom of expression and imagination wherein rules and regulations do not apply; Mrs. Frank E. Pelton Jr., who will explain the history and purposes of the Children's Art Bazaar, and Mrs. James B. Fisher Jr., who will comment on the rules governing the entry of children's paintings.

Tea table hostesses will be Mrs. James J. O'Leary, Mrs. Pelton, Mrs. Clarence L. Russell and Mrs. Francis A. Mesker. In charge of arrangements are Mrs. George J. L. Wulff, chairman, and Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. R. Walston Chubb and Miss Grace Parle, who serves in an advisory capacity on the board for the Board of Education.

The Children's Art Bazaar is sponsored annually for the benefit of a children's charity in Exhibition Hall of Famous-Barr's downtown store. Entries are limited to first to sixth grade students in the metropolitan area and a group of foreign exchange entries. The children's charity benefiting from this year's bazaar will be the Delta Gamma Foundation for visually handicapped pre-school children.

My Day

Reminder Of Indian Problem

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

IN Albuquerque last Wednesday one reporter asked me if our schools were doing enough to acquaint our young people with the world in which they were going to live.

It seems to me that from primary school on up we could do more than we have done in the preparation of our children for a new kind of world, and in New Mexico, where they are so close to the development of atomic energy, there should be a great understanding of the changes that lie before us.

In the Southwest one also is constantly reminded of the problem of our own Indian population. Nowhere, not even down there where one is accustomed to admiring their skills, can one feel the United States has adequately prepared these original citizens of our land for their citizenship in our modern civilization.

★ ★ ★

ONE of my correspondents sent me two poems while I was in Albuquerque. One expressed his gratitude to be able to live in New Mexico, in which he says:

"Land of enchantment, land I love,
Where mountains pierce the sky above,
Where valleys green stretch out in space
And weary hearts may find their place.
How came I here, I do not care,
But well I know, 'tis answered prayer."

★ ★ ★

WITH ALL his love of the Southwest and happiness in being there the Navajos trouble him, and he has put that problem into a poem, too. I am going to quote it in full:

"The white man asks:
Oh, Navajo, why the sad and stony face?
Immobile, silent, gazing into empty space;
Is it perhaps the dread that winter comes too soon,
Or white man's smog which dims the once-clear moon?

Has modern times so etched upon your brow, a scorn
Of all the progress here so lately born,
Or do you rue the day you smoked the pipe of peace,
And sealed your word to make the war dance cease?

And Navajo replies:
Why stony face? You ask of me, and I will tell;
Yes, face is sad, and heart is sad as well;
I dread not winter's cold, nor white man's smoke,
Nor modern things he brings, nor treaties broke.

You call me Indian, you 'merican, you say;
I here for ages past before you come this way;
I true 'merican, you foreigner to shore;
And now you ask, I tell you one thing more:

You conquer land; now air to breathe, he's not my own;
And freedom of my hunting ground, he's gone.
Perhaps you, too, would have the face of stone,
If all your ancient heritage were gone.

You'd gaze, like me, across the grassy knoll,
Defying powers that be, to ask, also, your soul."

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

WHAT do you think of neighbors who visit almost daily for two or more hours at a time, anywhere from 9 a.m. until past noon? I am a very busy housewife and have always kept a clean house and care for eight children. I used to keep things nice and was always complimented. Now these neighbors are beginning to tell me that I am slipping. I get suggestions on how to wash my clothes, what type of furniture and even what kind of clothes to buy. I was doing perfectly well before these neighbors entered the picture and I could still do it if they would let me have my morning hours to do my heavy work. Yes, I work while they are here, but you cannot do your work as it should be done and I am exhausted trying to keep up a conversation and working too, along with hearing all their suggestions. If any of you people who read this are keeping other women from their work, please take heed. If you can't find enough work to do around your own house, do some volunteer work or, if you don't like to work, please find someone like yourself who wants to loaf and don't bother some busy person.

READY TO DROP DEAD.

Maybe at the risk of a few interfering acquaintances, you'll have to get tough with yourself and with them. I agree that even though you go on with your work while they're hanging around, it's at best an awkward and uncomfortable situation. So maybe you'll just have to meet them at the door and say, "Look, I'd love to talk, but I simply have to work. Let's get together this afternoon instead." If you have a chance to get down to a frank discussion of the problem, point out that they are criticizing the way you do your housework—but they won't let you do it properly. As for their suggestions, they may merely be an evidence of friendly interest, not criticism of your furniture or your clothes or the way you do the week's laundry. Try not to be offended but accept what they say, then go on and do as you wish.

P.S. I hope the ones who have no housework to do take the hint and stop imposing on their busy neighbors. Volunteer work sounds like an excellent idea to take their time, assuming they'd give it more time and interest than they do their own homes.

Dear Martha:

RECENTLY YOU PUBLISHED a letter of inquiry about jewelry-making courses and you suggested the county Y.W.C.A. in Clayton. I and others of my class wish to thank you for introducing us to this course. I sincerely wish to encourage more participation in this hobby because I know everyone would find it most enjoyable. I personally urge anyone seeking an interesting hobby to join the class which meets at the county Y.W., 140 North Brentwood boulevard, Clayton, from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

CAROLE.

IN ANSWER TO Mrs. B.G.: There is no set rule on the order of the receiving line but if members of the wedding party are greeting friends in the church, I would say that the bride's parents should stand at the head of the line, followed by the groom's parents, the bride and groom, maid or matron of honor and bridesmaids. Ushers do not stand in line. The bride's parents do not leave the sanctuary until after the entire wedding party has gone out. Then ushers return to escort the mothers from the church, with the fathers walking directly behind them.

Delinquency Puzzle

By Ruth Millett

THE experts seem a bit puzzled over the reasons for the comparatively new problem of "suburban delinquency." To put it more bluntly, that's the increasing number of teen-agers from so-called "good homes" who are getting into serious trouble.

RUTH MILLETT

One of the answers may be that parents today are so concerned with Sis or Junior's being "popular" and being "well-adjusted" that they don't worry much about basic character traits. Parents once brought up their children according to a set of principles they felt were right. They made decisions concerning their children on the basis of what they felt was best for the children.

All too often today the deciding factor is, "Sis and Junior must be kept happy and allowed to do what all the other kids are doing so that they will be popular with their crowd." Over and over again you hear parents saying, "Well, I certainly don't approve of it but other parents seem to think it is all right, so what can you do?"

That attitude, it seems to me, is the underlying weakness in the way children in "good" homes are being brought up. Whatever Junior wants, Junior gets, providing he can convince his parents that all the other kids are getting what he is demanding.

So Mr. and Mrs. Jones say "yes" when they should say "no." They figure that they aren't to blame for what happens to Junior so long as they are just letting him do what other kids his age are doing. They ease their conscience by blaming the other parents.

The only way to curb "suburban delinquency," it seems to me, is for parents to get a little old-fashioned parental spunk and say "no" when they are sure that "no" is the right answer. The choice parents have to make is really this: "Do I want easy popularity for my teen-ager right now or do I want to be sure that every decision I make is based on what is best for my child in the long run?"

A Dark Spot

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

AS people grow older they are very often afraid. They are tense and they close mind and heart to any new venture. When you feel utterly lost, slow down and force yourself, if need be, to relax.

You must think things out for yourself and if you have lived to be one of the after-forty group you must know by now that something will happen and it might even happen for the best. A woodsman when lost in a forest doesn't go dashing crazily about. He sits on a log to try to get his bearings or he builds a fire and waits for a rescue party.

It is very seldom, though, that you have the possibility of a rescue party coming to your aid. You must rescue yourself. No amount of tears or frenzied panic will help. You must get hold of yourself. Relax and take stock of your real troubles and your imaginary ones. Line them up side by side, then list your assets, financial, of course, if it's that kind of dark spot that has caused your confusion. But if it's just "things," list your assets for combating your troubles. You know that common sense is often as useful as dollars and cents and a sense of humor will help you to stand anything. Calm down and start thinking.

Maturity in thinking and planning for escape from your dark spot is the important thing. Just make yourself believe that you will come out all right and you really will.

Groucho in Defense of Comedians

They're Scarce, and Should Be Used Sparingly, 'Elder Statesman' Says

By Charles Denton

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 (INS)
GROUCHO MARX, 60, sassy and satisfied, is like a flea in a dog pound. He has security, but he's still hopping.

And right now, he's hopping mad.

The wiry, be-mustached and enormously successful Groucho thinks it's high time someone took up the cudgel on behalf of his beleaguered comrades in comedy.

And since no one else seems anxious for the task, he has nominated himself to be a sort of elder statesman for all those harried, ulcer-ridden folk whose destiny it is to put a grin on the map of a grim world.

Groucho, whose dart-like wit has been taking the starch out of stuffed shirts for years, feels thoroughly justified in donning this somewhat incongruous cloak for two reasons—he's rich, and he doesn't care a click of his barbed tongue whether he ever headlines another show or not.

"I now have enough money that I'm going to blast everything," he announced suddenly after a table-hopping cruise across his favorite Hollywood restaurant.

"I think I should. I think it's a good thing for show business to have a few elder statesmen around who can rail against things they think need changing.

"And there are very few of us who ever get in a position to do it. Humphrey Bogart is, and I am."

Groucho, whose spontaneous jibing with butchers, bakers and what have you has kept his NBC show, "You Bet Your Life," far up in the ratings for nine years on radio and six on television, has one principal beef.

He believes that by killing off comedians — popularity - wise — through over-exposure, television is rapidly ridding the world of one of its most precious commodities.

"Look," he said, setting fire to a long cigar and puffing furiously, "there are two billion people in the world, and there aren't 50 good comedians. They should be cherished. Who can create laughter?

GROUCHO MARX . . . HIS SUCCESS SECRET, IN A WORD: "INSOLENCE."

"Take the movie industry. It's worth hundreds of millions of dollars, and how many good comedians does it have. I can think of five. There may be five more. Why don't they have more? Because there aren't any, that's why!"

* * *

THE most successful of the Marx brothers put most of the onus for this condition on TV sponsors, but he said comedians must learn to protect themselves in the clinches —or get someone to do it for them.

"Real comedians should be doled out sparingly. It's not a happy state to take these people and over-expose them."

Although six years of weekly TV exposure haven't damaged Groucho's popularity in the slightest, he's determined not to continue on his present 39-shows-a-year schedule.

If he signs a new contract next year, he will do no more than 26 regular shows, plus, perhaps, a few special appearances like his Sunday chore on NBC's "Inside Beverly Hills" spectacular.

"I might not sign at all," he said casually. "I don't have to work. But I don't think I want to quit.

"I like to work. I like the show, and I think I'm fairly good at it. There's always pleasure in doing something one does well. But I don't like the inflexibility of my life on this schedule. I want to move around a bit now and enjoy myself.

"Anyway, I can make as much money from 26 shows as I can make from 39. I figure I give the Government enough money in 26 weeks. Let 'em get the rest somewhere else. Let 'em get it from an oil well!"

* * *

ANOTHER thing that irks the budding "elder statesman" is the quirk of fate that prevents most men from knowing they're going to be rich until they are—and then it's usually too late for them to enjoy it.

"Boy, if I'd only known 30 years ago that I'd have money," he mused almost dreamily. "All those hotels I stayed in with the bath down the hall . . . All those halls . . . It's taught me a lesson, though. If I'm ever born again, so help me I'll spend it as fast as I get it."

Groucho isn't the least bit hesitant about disclosing his secret of success on television, and it turns out to be the same "secret" that made him a hit — with his brothers — on the stage and screen.

"Insolence, that's all," he said flatly. "Insolence and the privilege of saying what I feel with no admonitions from sponsor or network.

"I think I'm sort of an alter-ego for millions of people who would like to say what I say to politicians and stuffed shirts.

"Also, our show is honest— we don't help anyone — and comparatively intelligent compared with most shows.

"On the other hand, we don't ridicule anyone about how fat he is or how bald he is, and we don't try to make fools of the contestants. No one has ever been angry or insulted about our show. Anyone can stand a ribbing."

The Little Woman

She's Brushing Up on Her German

By Clarissa Start

SINCE I am going to spend four weeks in Germany, it occurred to me that it might be well to augment my slight acquaintance with the German language. Having been brought up down by the Gravois where the street car makes the bend, with German ancestry on one side of the family, I was familiar with some Deutsche. Songs like, "Ist das nicht eine Schnitzelbank?" and, "Du, du lieszt mir im herzen." Phrases like, "Du bist fericht, mein kind," and "Offnet die tur, bitte."

Clarissa Start.

On mulling over the situation, however, it was obvious that I wouldn't be doing much singing, that it might not be tactful to tell anyone he was crazy, especially using the familiar "du" form, and that, "Open the door," while a useful command, doesn't take the place of infinite other needs such as, "Please close the door," "No, thanks, I take mine black," and, "Pass the butter, dearie."

* * *

SO I PURCHASED a book, an excellent self teacher, and now I know more German than I did two weeks ago. Unfortunately I still have the uneasy feeling that this may not be enough. All language textbooks seem to have a certain unrealistic approach to the problems of life.

Some of the phrases I have mastered, sterling as they are, strike me as being inadequate.

For instance, I'm frightfully good at, "Das Buch ist auf dem Tisch," and, "Dar Bleistift ist rot." But after we've established the fact that, "The book is on the table," and, "The pencil is red," where do we go from there?

I can say, "Nein, ich bin nicht Frau Dietrich," in the highly improbable circumstance that someone mistakes me for Marlene Dietrich. And, "Der Haifisch ist der gefahrlichste Raubfisch" (The shark is the most dangerous fish of prey), should the subject come up.

But I haven't mastered such helpful ones as, "How much overweight is my baggage?" and, "Could I have an extra blanket, please?" and, "Have you seen an umbrella—I think I left it right here."

* * *

LUCILLE BALL on a recent, "I Love Lucy" show remarked that she was going to Paris and the only phrases she wanted to learn were, "How much is it?" and, "Wrap it up." Having neither Lucy's rating nor recompense, I'd like a few additional aids, such as, "Do you have anything cheaper?" and, "Is there any place I can get it wholesale?"

Only on one score do I feel safe. An Army colonel told me of an embarrassing incident that happened to an Arkansas soldier in his command in the occupation days. The boy saw two doors in a public place, marked, "Herrn" and "Damen."

"Well," he reasoned, "if that one's Herrn, the other one must be Hisn."

He was wrong, of course, and I'm one up on him there, at least. I know what "Damen" means.

"Ladies."

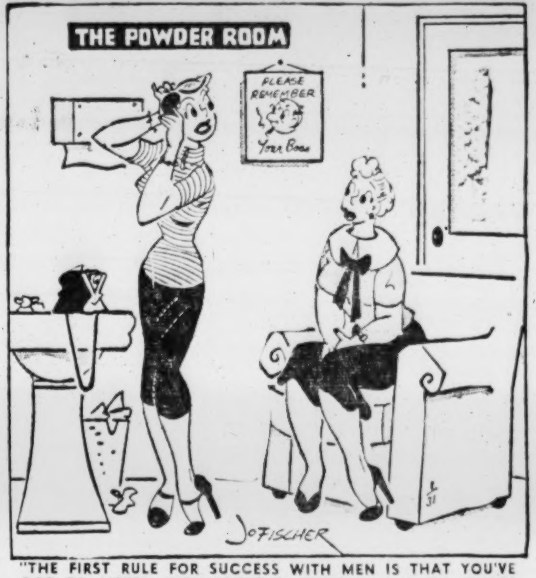
By for and about Women

FROM NINE TO FIVE By Jo Fischer



"THE FIRST RULE FOR SUCCESS WITH MEN IS THAT YOU'VE GOT TO LISTEN INTELLIGENTLY; ESPECIALLY WHEN YOU'RE NOT PAYING ATTENTION."

New Shrimp and Cheese Toast

Ingredients: One roll (3 ounces) sharp cheddar cheese, one can (4½ ounces) small wet pack cleaned shrimp, three tablespoons mayonnaise, one tablespoon chili sauce, one-quarter teaspoon onion powder one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, four to eight slices bread.

Method: Allow cheese to stand at room temperature to soften. Chop shrimp extremely fine with a knife. Mix together thoroughly the cheese, chopped shrimp, mayonnaise, chili sauce, onion powder and Worcestershire sauce. Makes about one cup. Use two to four tablespoons for each slice of bread. Spread mixture over one side of bread slices, making sure that edges are well covered. Broil until lightly browned. Serve at once. Makes two to four servings.

Love Is Eternal

By IRVING STONE

Mary Todd of Kentucky, who is visiting Springfield, Ill., has for the first time met Abraham Lincoln, her cousin's law partner, and finds herself strongly attracted to him.

CHAPTER THREE

MARY TODD'S sister Elizabeth gave birth to a son on Sunday, Dec. 15. The cotillion party at the American House in honor of the new Legislature was scheduled for the following day at early candlelight, and Elizabeth insisted that Ninian take Mary to the party.

Ninian was her partner for the first quadrille and then in quick succession she danced a waltz, cotillion and reel with Stephen Douglas, James Shields and James Matheny. Then Abraham Lincoln appeared at her side.

"Miss Todd, I want to dance with you in the worst way."

They stood in silence until the music began. Then a number of figures went through her mind: she was dancing with a broken windmill, with a ship in a storm at sea, with a flagpole waving in the breeze. When the music stopped she said wistfully: "Mr. Lincoln, you have achieved your ambition."

He stared at her uncomprehendingly for a moment, then threw back his head and laughed in high glee.

"A good line, Miss Todd. Do you mind if I add it to my repertoire?"

* * *

NEW YEAR'S DAY was the most social day of the year in Springfield. The Edwardses received their first caller at 9 in the morning, and it was not until 10 that night that the last of their guests had departed. Mary was about to go upstairs when she heard a faint knocking. She put the lamp she was carrying on a table and opened the door.

There, with his big beaver hat pressed against his chest, and a shy constrained look on his face, stood Abraham Lincoln.

"Mr. Lincoln! Last but not least. Won't you come in?"

"Thank you, ma'am. I know it's not what you meant but, just to keep the record clear, this is my first visit today, not my last. I waited until I was sure everyone else would be gone so I could have a few moments alone with you."

Mary's eyebrows rose slightly, but she made no comment. Leading him to the parlor, she offered him some eggnog and indicated two armchairs for him to draw up to the fire. For a few moments they sat silently watching the flames, then fell into companionable talk. She asked him about his early life and education.

"My early life? It can be condoned into a single phrase, 'The short and simple annals of the poor'."

"That's from Gray's "Elegy," isn't it?"

"Yes." He smiled a little wistfully. "I went to ABC schools by littles, two or three months here or there, less than a year in all.

"You're certainly as well educated as I am, for all my 13 years of formal schooling. Where did it come from?"

"Well, we never owned a book except the Bible, but one neighbor had Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and the man who owned the nearest general store had Robert Burns. Each year I'd find another book around somewhere in the countryside, 'Aesop's Fables,' 'Robinson Crusoe,' 'The Life on Henry Clay.' By the time I was 15 I'd walk a mile and a half to the general store every night and read the newspapers to learn what was going on in the world. My stepmother encouraged me and took my side against my father. He used to say, 'I suppose you're still foolin' yourself with eddication. I tried to stop you, but you got that fool idea in your head and it can't be got out.' But he loved my stepmother, Sarah, and she protected my right to read and study in my spare hours."

She noted a sharp change in his voice, and asked softly: "And he didn't love your mother?"

"It was only when my stepmother married another man that he took my mother for a wife. When my mother died . . . and Sarah was widowed . . . he traveled all the way back to Elizabethtown to get her. She found us living in a dirty cabin, ragged and half-starved; my 12-year-old sister had been doing her best but she was too young. My stepmother turned that unfinished, lonely cabin into a clean and loving home."

He turned his face up to Mary. She found it lighted by an inner radiance. "She gave us love. We needed love . . . so badly."

"We all do."

"My sister was nineteen when she married Aaron Grigsby. He let her die in childbed, without care. Love . . . marriage . . . so often they kill."

She reached out a hand, compassionately. He pulled back as though touched by fire. "It doesn't have to be that way, Mr. Lincoln. The world is full of people who love and marry and do only good to each other."

He searched her face for a moment, a dark fever brooding in his eyes. "Could I call you Molly?"

She was mystified. "I've never had a nickname. Why should you want to call me that?"

He squirmed uneasily in his chair, answering without looking directly at her. "Well, I know another girl by the name of Mary . . . few years ago in New Salem. I didn't come off too well in that . . . and the name is still a little . . . painful. . . ."

"Then call me Molly, by all means."

* * *

ELIZABETH EDWARDS made her re-entry into Springfield society by giving a large formal reception. Mary and Stephen Douglas sat playing duets while the guests arrived.

Sitting next to Douglas on the piano stool, their shoulders sometimes touching lightly, Mary felt the tremendous warmth and vigor of the man. Singlehanded, he had set up the radically new but effective structure of the Democratic party in Illinois and was leading his party in the plans to re-elect President Martin Van Buren.

Douglas sprang up saying, "I'm hot and thirsty. Come along, Mary, and fix me a beaker of wine punch."

As they made their way across the crowded foyer a Jacksonville attorney grabbed Douglas by the arm. "Steve! Haven't seen you since the new year. This is going to be your year, man. We bring in the bacon for Van Buren, and you may see the inside of the United States Senate."

When they moved on, she said, "But, Steve, you're not yet thirty . . . Are you prepared?"

"Prepared? How can I tell until I get there and try my wings? Do you know who could go to the United States Senate from Illinois if the Democrats lose? Your absent friend, Abraham Lincoln."

Lincoln's absence was a long one; they did not meet again until months later, at a housewarming for the Wallaces, Mary's sister and mother-in-law.

During the evening Lincoln invited Mary to walk out to Dr. Houghan's the next day, where as co-chairman of the Whig rally the following week he had to make arrangements for the barbecue and speakers' stand. She agreed to go, providing he would accompany her to church first.

"Speaking of rallies," she continued, "I hear you had a successful time for the Whigs in Belleville."

"No." He shook his head with an amused despair. "I did poorly. I made an elaborate speech about the depression of 1837 into which Van Buren and the Democrats had plunged us. I'd heard about a horse that had been sold that morning for only $25, so I used the sale to illustrate how bad times were. When I finished, the constable who had sold the horse called out from the crowd, 'That horse had only one eye!' I was undone."

Walking together north of the town the following morning, they were the long and short of it; yet she felt comfortable with him.

The Houghan place stood in the midst of 14 acres of wooded grounds; it had a feeling of spaciousness and freedom of spirit that Mary had found in no other house in Springfield.

"Dr. Houghan, your home is a work of art!" she cried.

"Yes, we love it . . . but we're offering it up for sale; it's too big for us."

"For sale! This is exactly the kind of house I want to move into when I marry."

Dr. Houghan took a pull at his meerschaum pipe. "Congratulations, Miss Todd. Do I know the fortunate young man?"

She bit her lip in embarrassment. "It was a figure of speech, Doctor. I have no plans for marriage."

"Oh! I understand. Well, I'm in no hurry to sell. If and when I get an offer I'll give you a chance to match it."

Bold humor, she decided, was the best way out. "Good! That makes two of us waiting for an offer."

On their way back Mary spoke enthusiastically about the Houghan place. Lincoln said quietly: "A home is important to you, isn't it?"

"Yes, very."

"I'll miss you."

"Will you? Then write to me. The best of luck with your campaigning. I know you're going to have a fine success."

They were standing at arm's length. He took her hand in his, and then they were no longer at arm's length as they had been during their entire relationship. Clumsily, yet eagerly, he leaned his face down toward hers.

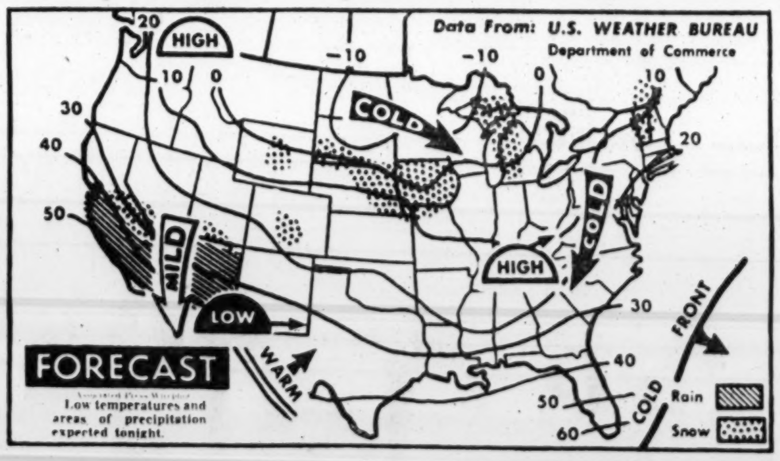
Temperatures Expected to Rise Here



FORECAST
Associated Press Wirephoto
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Fog and smoke, banes of the city dweller's existence, came to his rescue today by warming up the ground and keeping the minimum temperature from dropping below 15, Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren reported.

Otherwise the temperature downtown would have equaled the reading of 6 at St. Louis-Lambert Field, he said. Union, 50 miles west of St. Louis, shivered in weather 6 degrees below zero, he said.

Smoke and fog will not be needed to warm up the area tomorrow, for the temperatures are expected to rise to the mid-30s, Wahlgren said. He added that there probably would be occasional snow.

Weathermen all over the nation are "snowed in" by their work, for heavy blankets of snow cover the ground from Kansas to the New England states in a broadbelt including St. Louis and heading east from the Great Lakes region in northern Ohio.

Coldest place in the nation this morning was Big Piney, Wyo., where the mercury stood at 37 degrees below zero. In contrast, it was more than 100 degrees warmer in Miami and Key West, Fla., where minimum readings during the night were 69. Maximums yesterday were from 6 below zero at Havre, Mont., to 82 at Key West.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

DURING his early years in Africa, Dr. David Livingstone met with a terrible adventure. He was attacked by an angry lion.

The Bakatla natives had told the white man about lions which were destroying their cattle. After hearing this, he joined a hunting party, and carried a two-barreled flintlock. One of the natives—Mabalwe—also had a flintlock. The rest of the hunters were armed with spears.

* * *

ON A HILL covered with trees, Livingstone and the others saw a troop of lions. The natives made a circle around the hill, and Mabalwe fired at one of the beasts. The shot missed, and the lions took alarm. One after another they bounded through the circle. The natives gave way, showing their fear of the lions.

The doctor felt that the hunt was a failure, and started back to camp. Then he caught sight of a big lion seated on a boulder. Taking aim he fired both barrels. The beast was wounded, but it remained on its feet and ran angrily toward the white hunter. Springing on him, it sank its cruel teeth in his shoulder.

* * *

DOWN HE FELL, and the lion shook him "as a terrier shakes a rat." At this point Mabalwe aimed his gun from a distance of about 40 feet. The flintlock missed fire, but the lion left his first victim and ran toward the other enemy. A native came to the scene and flung a spear at the lion. It fell dead.

The left shoulder and upper arm of Livingstone had been cut in a dozen places by the lion's teeth. He managed to reach the village, and there he rested until his wounds healed. The lion's jaws had crushed the bone in his shoulder, however, and Livingstone never after enjoyed the full and free use of his left arm.

ALL RIGHT — S'POSE IT'S GROUND-HOG DAY .. YOU, AS A BONA FIDE GROUN'CHUCK OR GROUN'HOG, IS CRAWLIN' OUTEN YO' BURROW — AN' HERE, I, YO' SHADOW COMES ALONG LA LA LA LA?
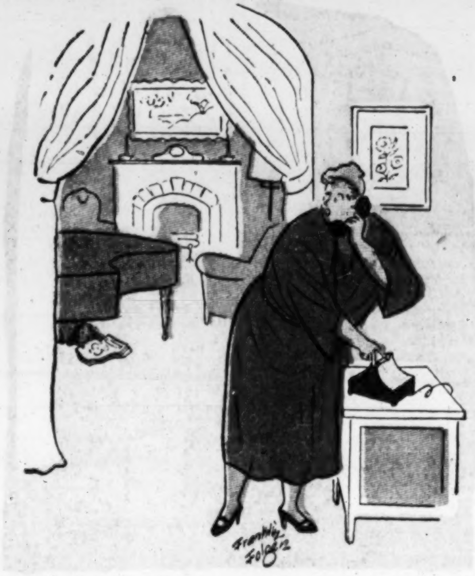
I DON'T FEEL VERY GROUN' HOGGY
WOOF! WOOF!
WOOF WOOF? HOW CAN YOU SAY WOOF WOOF? OOP!
WOOF WOOF WATCH IT! WOOF WOOF WOOF
GROUN'HOGS DON'T BARK! YOU GOT YO' RULES MIXED.
AN' SHADOWS DON'T FALL OVER THEIR MASTERS EITHER — YOU, SIR, IS MORE A OSTRICH

THE GIRLS—By Franklin Folger



"And if he doesn't come out from under the piano and give me my magazine immediately, you'll be right over? Thank you, MR. DOG CATCHER."

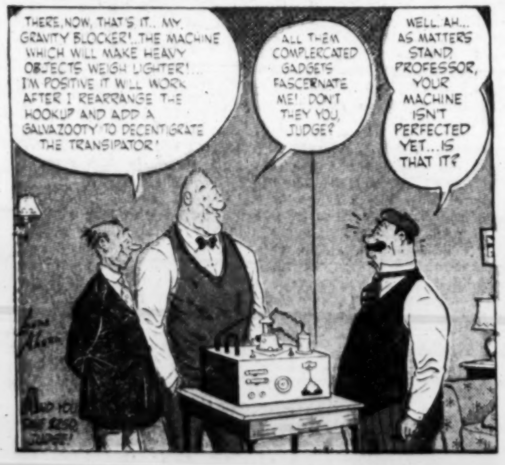
"I didn't go out of the lines once!"

ROOM AND BOARD—By Gene Ahern



THERE, NOW, THAT'S IT.. MY GRAVITY BLOCKER!..THE MACHINE WHICH WILL MAKE HEAVY OBJECTS WEIGH LIGHTER!... I'M POSITIVE IT WILL WORK AFTER I REARRANGE THE HOOKUP AND ADD A GALVAZOOTY TO DECENTIGRATE THE TRANSIPATOR!
ALL THEM COMPLERCATED GADGETS FASCERNATE ME! DON'T THEY YOU, JUDGE?
WELL, AH... AS MATTERS STAND, PROFESSOR, YOUR MACHINE ISN'T PERFECTED YET... IS THAT IT?
Gene Ahern
AND YOU OWE $250 JUDGE!

We're in luck, Crosscut! I found a plumber who never heard of you!

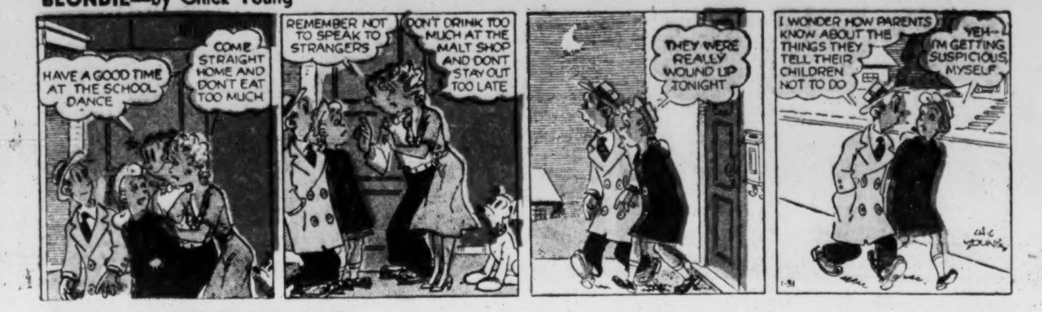
BLONDIE—By Chick Young



HAVE A GOOD TIME AT THE SCHOOL DANCE
COME STRAIGHT HOME AND DON'T EAT TOO MUCH
REMEMBER NOT TO SPEAK TO STRANGERS
DON'T DRINK TOO MUCH AT THE MALT SHOP AND DON'T STAY OUT TOO LATE
THEY WERE REALLY WOUND UP TONIGHT
I WONDER HOW PARENTS KNOW ABOUT THE THINGS THEY TELL THEIR CHILDREN NOT TO DO
YEH— I'M GETTING SUSPICIOUS, MYSELF

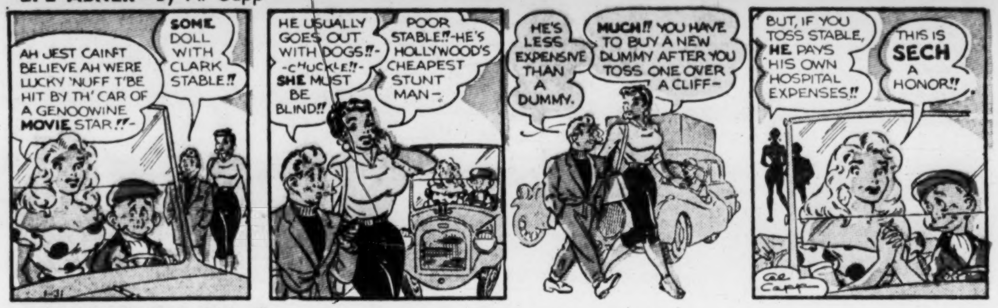
LI'L ABNER—By Al Capp



AH JEST CAIN'T BELIEVE AH WERE LUCKY 'NUFF T'BE HIT BY TH' CAR OF A GENOOWINE MOVIE STAR!!—
SOME DOLL WITH CLARK STABLE!!
HE USUALLY GOES OUT WITH DOGS!!— -CHUCKLE!!- SHE MUST BE BLIND!!
POOR STABLE!!—HE'S HOLLYWOOD'S CHEAPEST STUNT MAN—
HE'S LESS EXPENSIVE THAN A DUMMY.
MUCH!! YOU HAVE TO BUY A NEW DUMMY AFTER YOU TOSS ONE OVER A CLIFF—
BUT, IF YOU TOSS STABLE, HE PAYS HIS OWN HOSPITAL EXPENSES!!
THIS IS SECH A HONOR!!
AL CAPP

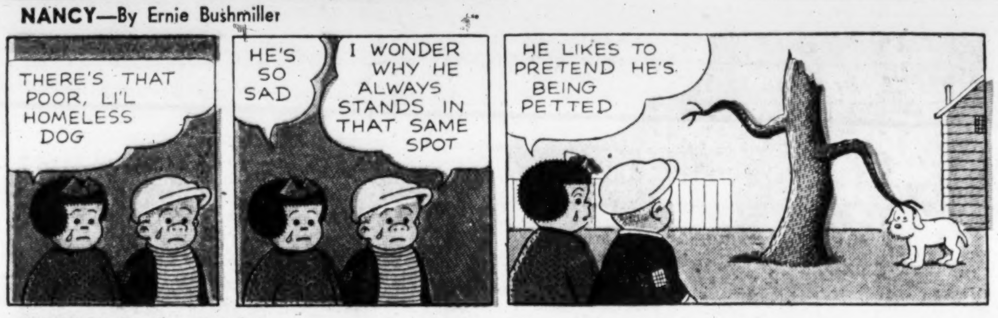
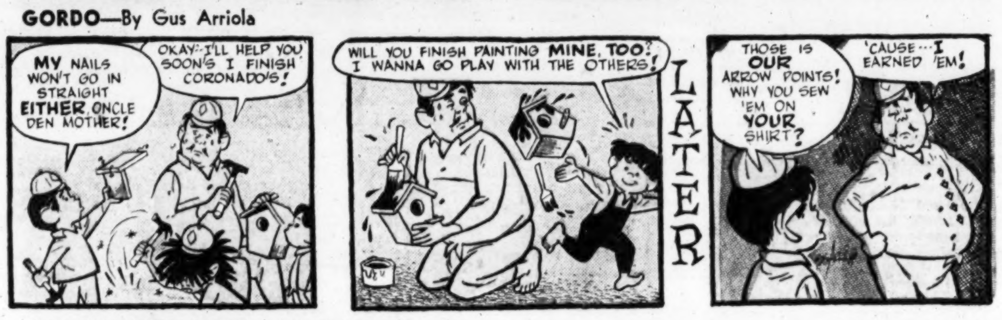
NANCY—By Ernie Bushmiller



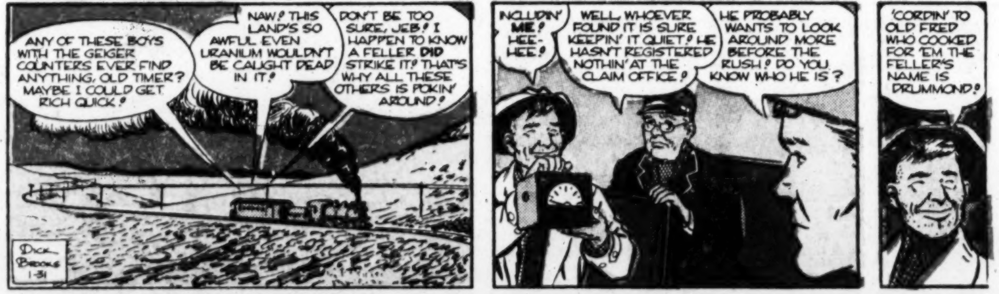
THERE'S THAT POOR, LI'L HOMELESS DOG
HE'S SO SAD
I WONDER WHY HE ALWAYS STANDS IN THAT SAME SPOT
HE LIKES TO PRETEND HE'S BEING PETTED

GORDO—By Gus Arriola



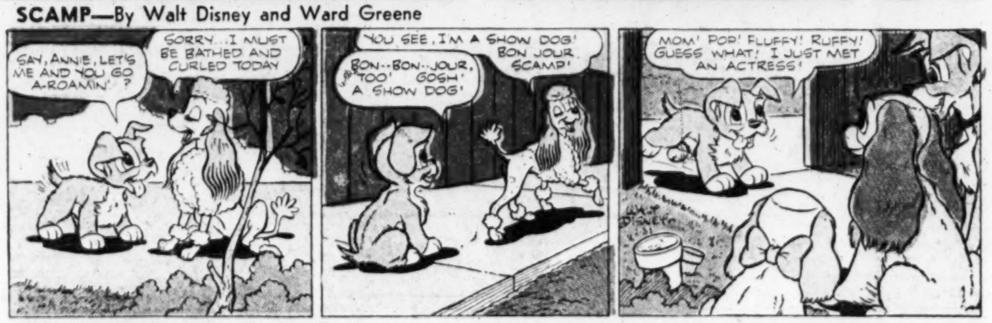
MY NAILS WON'T GO IN STRAIGHT EITHER, ONCLE DEN MOTHER!
OKAY—I'LL HELP YOU SOON'S I FINISH CORONADO'S!
WILL YOU FINISH PAINTING MINE, TOO? I WANNA GO PLAY WITH THE OTHERS!
LATER
THOSE IS OUR ARROW POINTS! WHY YOU SEW 'EM ON YOUR SHIRT?
'CAUSE... I EARNED 'EM!

THE JACKSON TWINS—By Dick Brooks



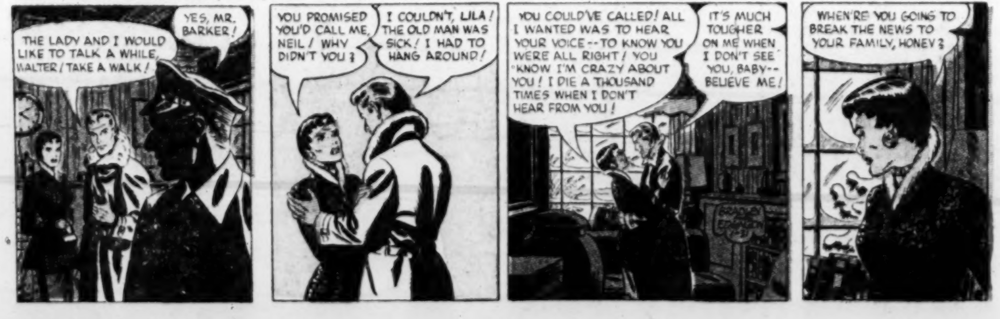
ANY OF THESE BOYS WITH THE GEIGER COUNTERS EVER FIND ANYTHING, OLD TIMER? MAYBE I COULD GET RICH QUICK!
NAW! THIS LAND'S SO AWFUL EVEN URANIUM WOULDN'T BE CAUGHT DEAD IN IT!
DON'T BE TOO SURE, JEB! I HAPPEN TO KNOW A FELLER DID STRIKE IT! THAT'S WHY ALL THESE OTHERS IS POKIN' AROUND!
DICK BROOKS 1-31
INCLUDIN' ME! HEE-HEE!
WELL, WHOEVER FOUND IT IS SURE KEEPIN' IT QUIET! HE HASN'T REGISTERED NOTHIN' AT THE CLAIM OFFICE!
HE PROBABLY WANTS TO LOOK AROUND MORE BEFORE THE RUSH! DO YOU KNOW WHO HE IS?
'CORDIN' TO OLD FRED WHO COOKED FOR 'EM THE FELLER'S NAME IS DRUMMOND!

SCAMP—By Walt Disney and Ward Greene



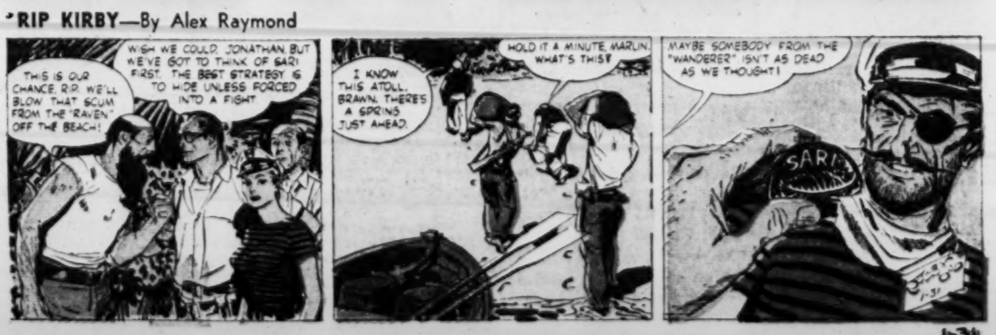
SAY, ANNIE, LET'S ME AND YOU GO A-ROAMIN'?
SORRY... I MUST BE BATHED AND CURLED TODAY
YOU SEE, I'M A SHOW DOG! BON JOUR, SCAMP!
BON--BON--JOUR, TOO! GOSH! A SHOW DOG!
MOM! POP! FLUFFY! RUFFY! GUESS WHAT! I JUST MET AN ACTRESS!
WALT DISNEY

REX MORGAN, M.D.—By Dal Curtis



THE LADY AND I WOULD LIKE TO TALK A WHILE, WALTER! TAKE A WALK!
YES, MR. BARKER!
YOU PROMISED YOU'D CALL ME, NEIL! WHY DIDN'T YOU?
I COULDN'T, LILA! THE OLD MAN WAS SICK! I HAD TO HANG AROUND!
YOU COULD'VE CALLED! ALL I WANTED WAS TO HEAR YOUR VOICE -- TO KNOW YOU WERE ALL RIGHT! YOU KNOW I'M CRAZY ABOUT YOU! I DIE A THOUSAND TIMES WHEN I DON'T HEAR FROM YOU!
IT'S MUCH TOUGHER ON ME WHEN I DON'T SEE YOU, BABY-- BELIEVE ME!
WHEN'RE YOU GOING TO BREAK THE NEWS TO YOUR FAMILY, HONEY?

RIP KIRBY—By Alex Raymond



THIS IS OUR CHANCE, RIP. WE'LL BLOW THAT SCUM FROM THE "RAVEN" OFF THE BEACH!
WISH WE COULD, JONATHAN, BUT WE'VE GOT TO THINK OF SARI FIRST. THE BEST STRATEGY IS TO HIDE UNLESS FORCED INTO A FIGHT
I KNOW THIS ATOLL, BRAWN. THERE'S A SPRING JUST AHEAD.
HOLD IT A MINUTE, MARLIN. WHAT'S THIS?
MAYBE SOMEBODY FROM THE "WANDERER" ISN'T AS DEAD AS WE THOUGHT!
SARI
